Okay since you can't behave like an adult I have to be the one here :)

Hi! I'm Nanie, and this is my personal account running a temporary library. People have tried to delete it once and I put it on again. Now they're editing this file.

Unfortunately, since people have been constantly editing this file and this folder, deleting information and adding random things, I have to take back the privileges I was sharing that people could enter here as editors and add their own fic files.

Regarding the most recent message displayed in this doc, the last person to edit here added their own discord, so people could add them. They didn't mean any harm and I apologize for thinking so.

The library now is read-only, and it won't be open to new uploads because I'm sharing this with good intentions and not seeking followers even for myself.

If you want to add fics here, send me an email and I will make a custom folder for you to upload your files.

I hope you all can enjoy these fics anyway. Lots of love and lots of byler.

my previous message if anyone wants to read it:

Hello, dear reader,

My name is Nanie and I, as many of us bylers, decided to create a small library so we can all help each other during times of ao3 maintenance.

In this drive you can find many fics, gathered for me and for others, separated between epub, pdf and web page (html) files.

If your work is in the library and you wanna delete it, feel free to do so. This folder is open for editing. If you have fics downloaded and want to share with us, you can upload them and sort through the respective folders.

I am not here to make any judgement, and I am not the creator or responsible for any content shared in these stories (besides my own, obviously). I am merely offering a space on my account to share them.

Don’t forget to save the ones you read and, after ao3 returns, leave kudos and comments on the fic. This will be very welcome by the authors.

You can add below links to other drives, this way we can make a network if we need to find a fic that’s not here in the library.

I’m working on deleting the duplicated files in the library, focusing always on keeping the most recent download (with more chapters).

Thanks for being part of this <3