Hi <name>,

I find it good that you build such a strong connection with your audience by giving them free running tips because it is going to build trust with them

The amount of free valuable information you share on youtube like your "Base training for running" video really makes the audience see what a generous and helpful person you are.

I also found another great way that you help people in your video description... your <product>.

Since you were so nice and explained how runners need to train consistently like athletes in order to perfectionate our body.

I thought I would give you a few suggestions to improve your instagram posts by connecting with your audience's pain points so that more people find out about your rehab program.

In that way you can increase the number of people you help.

It's below 📌

Run more than a mile without a single drop of sweat! (no running experience needed).

Do you start sweating like a turkey at christmas although you didn't even start running?

Are you running slow although your body is at its full capacity?

if yes...

...there is a secret that can help you take off faster than a cheetah it's going to:

- ✓ boost your speed and resistance - you will be able run from morning until midnight NON-STOP
- ✓ specially designed strength-building body workout - is going to help you improve brain health, manage weight, reduce risk of diseases and strengthen bones and muscles
- ✓ simple techniques for workout organization - step to step explanation for capacity maximization

PLUS

It can be applied by everyone,

If you don't have running experience, you can still apply this and fly faster than a rocket through the atmosphere

so, if you want to be lightning fast while not slowing down click here

=====(end of IG post)

I also have some more ideas that could generate amazing results with the program.

Such as a remade landing page and a newsletter

I would enjoy talking with you over a zoom call rather than over text, since we can get to know each other better face-to-face.

If you're interested in discussing these ideas further, I would love to set up a Zoom call with you. Are you available 18th April 12am EDT time?

Best regards,
David

P.S: you can copy and paste the email to see how it works, no stress, i won't try to sue you
