History

The past sucks.

Rippling Stars was born to a very lovely family, his father Dredge and his mother Starlit loved each other and loved them when the two had them. His mother would love to dream about the future, and he would join her daily watching stars dreaming about the future. The two had a close bond, while his sister Astro Waves was closer to her dad for the stories of fantasy and past he would day dream of the future. But when time came when his parents decided to have another litter something was off, but he was too busy dreaming about the future siblings to notice that his mom wasnt doing well.

CW: Death Via Childbirth

But when the time came to have see his siblings, he and his sister noticed his mom wasnt... breathing, he would scream and cry for her to wake up but that didnt work, he screamed and cried for an hour before he heard the screaming of the younger kittens, he looked at his father only for Dredge not to even move an inch from his mates side. He saw his sister ushering him away from the kits and told him a plan, a plan to find a home QUICKLY so the kits could survive. He nodded and soon they picked up the three kits and ran off, he felt a bitter hatred towards his father for not even batting an eye to them after his moms death.

CW end: Death Via childbirth

CW Summary: The mother dies during childbirth, the father refuses to leave her side so Rippling and his sister decide to leave with the newborns so they could have a chance at living.

Future here we come!

After an hour of searching they found a lovely loner who let them stay and nurse the kits until they hit age of weaning, after they weaned he would ask his sister where they would go? She then excitedly said the amusement park! At first he was skeptical, why would they go to the place where both parents were very skeptical about. But finally he agreed and the family were on their way

When they reached their destination, he didn't notice it looked different but his sister would gasp and whisper what happened? He was confused, did she know what it looked like beforehand? He frowned but was distracted by his sisters who were about to run off in the place, he quickly tussled them back and was met with a group of cats with his sister. They explained there was a huge flood and now they were a colony called Tempest Colony. His sister did the talking while he played with his sisters, after a while his sister came back and said they were home.

He became a resident for the colony, helping with food and everything, and after so long of not daydreaming, of not wishing for the future he found himself back to his old self, where he could daydream again. He was home.
