

Email subject: Partnership Inquiry for the Tampa Bay Coastal Master Plan

Good morning/afternoon,

I am reaching out about a new project from the Tampa Bay Regional Planning Council (TBRPC) and a potential collaboration with the organization name. The TBRPC is excited to finally be bringing forward a Tampa Bay Coastal Master Plan (TBCMP), similar to the Louisiana Coastal Master Plan. This four-year funded project will catalyze a coordinated, data-driven and community-based planning process to develop a strategic regional roadmap for flood adaptation. I have reached out today in hopes that the organization name can benefit from, support, and participate in this regional project.

A broad summary of the TBCMP: The plan will equip the region with compound flooding maps and a prioritized list of feasible restoration and flood risk reduction project concepts, both structural and nonstructural, that will serve as guidance to address the many challenges posed by high-tide flooding, storm surge, rainfall-related flooding, and future sea level rise. A more detailed flyer is attached.

We encourage communities to participate in the project to meaningfully contribute to its engagement efforts, project identification, and eventual implementation. We appreciate your participation at whatever level you deem appropriate. Please let me know if the organization name is willing to stay engaged in this regional effort. If so, we would appreciate a letter of support affirming your commitment to the project. You are welcome to use the template letter attached or craft your own.

You are also invited to sign up to receive updates and join the Community and/or Technical Workgroups here.

Thank you, and I look forward to hearing from you soon.
