

Sophie Duncan - Press Kit

About Sophie Duncan

Publishing her books with Wittegen Press since 2011, Sophie has developed stories in multiple genres from young adult through murder mystery to adult romance. She is a British author who writes both alone and in conjunction with her twin sister, Natasha Duncan-Drake. Sophie has a large catalogue of work which can be found at Wittegen Press' website.

Sophie's first work of fiction was written at the tender age of 11 and will never see the light of day again, but she never looked back from there. She jumped into the fanfiction community while at university where she expanded her creative skill set amongst the wonderful people she found there. Sophie considers herself something of a geek and enjoys watching and reading all sorts of genre offerings, especially fantasy and horror.

Sophie established Wittegen Press with her twin sister, Natasha Duncan-Drake in late 2010. She is an IT project manager for half of her working life and uses these skills to keep Wittegen Press running while writing compulsively with the other half.
