

Five Great Christian Museum Field Trips for Your School This Year

[Cite your source here.]

Dear Christian School:

Below are five great field trip recommendations for your school to consider this year!

Answers in Genesis Creation Museum (Petersburg, Kentucky near Cincinnati, Ohio): Bring Genesis to life for your students! Students explore dinosaurs, fossils, human origins, Noah's Flood, and the complexity of life—all through a biblical worldview. This isn't just another field trip; it's an experience designed to strengthen students' confidence that science and Scripture are not enemies—and that God's Word can be trusted from the very first verse. www.CreationMuseum.org

Answers in Genesis Ark Encounter (Williamstown, KY): Your students have read about Noah's Ark—now let them stand beside it! The breathtaking, full-size Ark Encounter transforms the Genesis Flood from a familiar Bible account into an experience students will never forget. They'll explore how the animals could have fit, how Noah's family could have cared for them, and why the Flood matters to understanding our world today. www.ArkEncounter.com

ICR Discovery Center for Science & Earth History (Dallas, Texas): ICR's Discovery Center immerses students in dinosaurs, fossils, genetics, astronomy, geology, the Ice Age, and Noah's Flood—all from a biblical creation perspective. Students won't just see incredible exhibits; they'll discover evidence and arguments that can help them to think critically and defend their faith. www.DiscoveryCenter.ICR.org

Wonders Center & Science Museum (Dickson, Tennessee near Nashville): Show your students that great science points to an even greater Creator! This massive venue takes students on a fascinating journey through the complexity, beauty, and design of our world while tackling some of the biggest questions about origins. It's exciting, educational, faith-building—and a powerful way to inspire the next generation to love science without surrendering Scripture. www.WondersCenter.org

Christian Museum Tours (USA): How about your students visiting a secular museum while being guided by a Certified Biblical Creation Guide who will explain the exhibits from a biblical worldview—helping them to distinguish evidence from interpretation, to ask better questions, and to see God's world through the lens of His Word. www.christianmuseumtours.com
