Sample Letter to the Editor – From a Student

Dear Editor,

This National School Choice Week January 25–31, I believe all families in Kansas should celebrate the school choices available in our state.

As a junior at Hemingway High School, there have been many positive ways that my school choice, my classmates, and my teachers have helped me develop as a person. I have found a place where I feel happy and motivated, and where I can take advantage of all the opportunities available to reach my goals. School Choice Week reminds me to take the time to say thank you to the people who have made a difference in my education and helped me discover my strengths and passions.

Not everyone learns the same way as I do. I have friends who attend different schools for various reasons. I believe it's a good thing that different school choices are available to them. As a community, we should be doing everything we can to make sure learning options are accessible to every kid, not just those with resources.

What my generation learns in classrooms today will help determine what the world looks like ten years from now. Awesome school choices are the best way to prepare us for a strong future. I hope you'll join me in celebrating National School Choice Week.

Sincerely,
