

---

Wiz: Many centuries ago, 2 brother dragons of the north and south winds upheld balance and harmony in the heavens.

Boomstick: But one slight issue, they never got along, always arguing who could do the whole ruling thing better, just like me and Wiz!

Wiz: Ehem, well the two dragons would battle each other, with the dragon of the south winds overcoming the northern winds, however in its solitude it realized the mistake it made, alone and grieving, it threw the world into discord.

Boomstick: This tale was passed down through the Shimada Clan, led by Sojiro Shimada.

Wiz: However when Sojiro was assassinated by the rivaling Hashimoto Clan, his eldest son would take control of it, Hanzo Shimada.

Background

Name: Hanzo Shimada

Age: 40

Height: 5'8

Weight: 155lbs

Was the Leader of the Shimada Clan

Wants to ride Orisa into battle

Likes: Honor, His Family, Koi

Dislikes: Cities, Gun, Himself

Wiz: Hanzo would grow up rather strictly, fitting for someone who is the son of such a powerful person.

Boomstick: Hanzo would train with his brother Genji and childhood friend Kiriko... wait a minute- isn't she a teen nowadays? How does that work?

Wiz: Some questions may be impossible to fully know, however he was trained to use a katana, climb on walls, and even Master the way of the bow.

Boomstick: It helped out with him being a total prodigy at everything.

Wiz: However, his skill quickly turned into arrogance, while he did appreciate those who trained him, he saw everyone, especially Kiriko and her mother Asa, who taught him as mere servants to the Shimada Clan.

Boomstick: But when Sojiro died, it gave Hanzo a huge reality check, especially when the elders of the Shimada Clan tried manipulating him into doing their bidding so that the Shimada Empire could live, trying to get him to straighten his more free spirited brother Genji into shape.

Wiz: This was because after Sojiro died, it exposed the Shimada Clan and its crimes to both law enforcement and Overwatch, a task force created when robots named Omnics rose to power.

Boomstick: Hanzo despite seemingly not liking him, He was actually a massive tsundere who loved his little bro, but sometimes you gotta get on to someone when they aren't acting right.

Wiz: At this moment, Hanzo was forced to kill his younger brother.

Boomstick: WAIT NO NOT THAT-

Wiz: This action... Broke Hanzo, spilling the blood of his beloved brother caused him to question everything, so he abandoned the Shimada Clan and the honor his father foolishly clung onto, as well as the way of the sword. You see Hanzo still followed the code called Bushido, which held Honor to the highest regard, and that the Katana represents that, so him dishonorably killing his brother meant he was unworthy of wielding the sword.

Boomstick: So he went all in on the archer build, getting his bread and butter bow, the Storm Bow!

Arsenal

Storm Bow

Sonic Arrows

Scatter Arrows

Storm Arrows

Sonic Disruption

Lunge

Dragonstrike

Wiz: The Storm Bow made for a powerful tool for Hanzo, able to fire off powerful Storm Arrows.

Boomstick: That's not the only arrow type he has, the Sonic Arrow lets him see foes anywhere, even through walls, Scatter Arrows break apart on impact, he even has an arrow that can hack technology.

Popup: In game the perk can only hack healing packs, however this could very well just be for game balance.

Wiz: All of these pale in comparison to his strongest attack, the Dragonstrike.

Boomstick: If you dare to tank this shot, man you're screwed, not only does it fire off another arrow, but that arrow sends out 2 spirit dragons, holy shit!

Wiz: Hanzo draws energy from his tattoos to call upon the spirits of his ancestors, while we don't know the full extent of its power, we can take a bit of a guess.

Boomstick: Wait, its magic-

Wiz: In game, For every second it touches someone, it does 200 damage, for perspective, that's more damage than what Dva has in health, who is able to survive the explosion of her own mech, which was just over 2 kilotons of TNT.

As seen in Grievous vs Ramattra

Popup: Do note that gameplay is only being used because the extent of what it can do isn't clear.

Boomstick: Wait a minute....

Wiz: Yeah?

Boomstick: Are you sure that it's magic?

Wiz: Uh, yeah, why?

Boomstick: Because I'm looking at it and it seems like it's Hard Light, the same stuff that Sym uses.

Wiz: What? Wait but what about Kiriko, who also summons the spirit of an ancestor, that's confirmed to be magic.

Boomstick: But uh, that's not what the wiki says....

Wiz: Hold on, let's get this sorted out, in the meantime we'll come back for Hanzo's opponent, Fire Emblem Fates' Takumi.