

New South Publishing

I N C O R P O R A T E D

The editorial staff at New South Publishing is seeking editorial interns to work in our Atlanta office.

Positions are ongoing and available immediately. Recent graduates, as well as students currently enrolled in a journalism program, are welcome to apply. Candidates must be able to work in our Atlanta-area office. Editorial internship positions are unpaid but can be applied toward course credit.

Duties Include:

- Fact-checking
- Copyediting and proofing
- Writing news blurbs and short columns (the opportunity to write features is available for the right candidates)
- Gathering photos and artwork for articles, as needed
- Updating social media outlets, such as blogs, Facebook, Twitter and Instagram

Desired Qualifications:

- Must be a currently enrolled in a journalism program, or a recent college graduate with a journalism degree
- Firm grasp of AP Style
- Keen eye for detail when copyediting and proofing
- Strong interviewing skills, both over the phone and in person
- The ability to write concise, engaging copy for a variety of audiences
- Impeccable grammar
- Professional demeanor in person, on the phone and in email correspondence

To Apply

Email your resume and two samples of your work to New South Publishing Editor Lindsay Penticuff at lindsay@knowatlanta.com with the subject line "Editorial Internship." Please include the days and times you are available to work in the body of the email.

About Us

New South Publishing, Inc.

For 30 years, New South Publishing Inc. has been providing exciting, innovative custom publishing solutions to a broad range of local and national clients. Publications include KNOWAtlanta, Cobb In Focus, Net News, Wingfoot and more.

Our office is located at 9040 Roswell Road, Suite 210, Atlanta, GA 30316