

SL: Remodel

Hi <name>,

I must say, I'm very impressed with the quality of work you guys put into your remodeling projects. The way you remodel and furnish homes is truly impressive. You guys turn houses into homes.

It is awesome to see how much passion and effort you guys put into every project and your results reflect that

However, your marketing strategies are holding you back from finding high quality leads that are ready to buy.

I'm sure you are tired of the headache of having to figure out which leads are actually ready to get started on a project and which ones are just browsing and comparing options but aren't really ready to do anything, or as I like to call them, 'window shoppers'.

The high quality leads are out there. Its just a matter of getting them to come to you

The reality is that you can get them to come to you. But how?

This can all be made possible with a more prominent social media marketing campaign.

Running specific ads to the correct target audience will not only generate higher quality leads, but it will also save you from wasting your valuable time on window shoppers

I've seen how running targeted advertisements to specific audiences who are ready to get started on their home projects on platforms like FaceBook and Google has had a massive impact on their leads and land bigger projects.

So, I created some ads you can start running on your social media today to find more of those high quality leads.

I attached it below.

If you like what I put together, reply to this email and we can book a call to discuss this in further detail.

Best regards,

Hamza
