Rhys Lindmark, North Brighton

Hey all!

Heads up that this is a bit of a weird post! My name is Rhys Lindmark and I moved to Brighton in September. I work at MIT and make enough money ($70k/year pre-tax, $52k/year post-tax) to meet all of my basic needs (and then some!). I have enough :)

Given my abundance, I am giving a total of $876/month divided among various charities and nonprofits (like <https://allstonbrightoncdc.org/about/#mission-vision>). As an experiment, I want to give some money directly to one of you!

So, this is all to say—there's $120 "up for grabs". If you're interested, please let me know by responding to this thread or sending me a private message. In your post, please let me know:

1. Your name.
2. What you'd spend the money on. This doesn't need to be too detailed, but I'd like a bit of context!
3. How to contact you and where we could meet up (or I could just send you the money over PayPal)

Though I don't have any clear "requirements", I'll give slight preference to folks with higher need who are spending the money on something "important" (e.g. healthy food, schoolbooks, etc.). I'll check back here over the next couple of days and should have "chosen" someone to give to by Feb 1 at the latest.

Finally, I wish I could give to everyone (and didn't need to "choose"), but unfortunately I can't :(.

However, if you're in Brighton and are making a similar amount of money as me, I hope this inspires you to give too!

Thanks and let me know if you have questions! - Rhys

P.S. I promise this isn't a scam. There are no strings attached. If you want to see the last time I did this, check out my article here: <https://medium.com/@RhysLindmark/cryptopledge-1-abundance-begets-abundance-giving-3000-to-6-causes-e0d27bb22e29>
