    - her demeanour changes during performance mode; very professional and graceful

- is also apparently a top student
- she's very confident in her skills and her capability in getting what she wants; that's why she's not worried that her sho-chan won't fall for her
- "when you're on stage, you kinda lose yourself. you have to become what the audience needs to see. not want, but need. they're different things in my opinion. i'll become whatever you need me to be. i'll serve myself in a silver platter, and once you devour me, you'll be grateful you were lucky enough to have me as a meal. barou shouei, did you enjoy your meal?"

- amai: when you're on stage, you kinda lose yourself. you have to become what the audience needs to see. not want, but need. they're different things, in my opinion. i'll become whatever you need me to be. i'll serve myself on a silver platter, and once you devour me, you'll be grateful you were lucky enough to have me as a meal. well, barou shouei, did you enjoy your meal?
- amai: why do you look so surprised? i think if anyone should understand it'd be you. you get it right? i don't fucking play when it comes to my craft sho-chan. so how was it? did you like my performance? or would you like a private one next time~?
- amai: oh dear king, don't you want this sweet lil jester to be your queen~?
