Hi,

I applied to join Angel Squad, an educational program to learn more about early-stage investing, taught by Hustle Fund. Hustle Fund is a pre-seed stage venture capital fund based in Silicon Valley focused on software companies. They were the first investors into companies like Webflow, Nerdwallet, and The Pill Club.

They've built a new type of angel community where angels can invest as little as $1k into Hustle Fund's top portfolio companies. They review 1000+ companies per month, explain why they are investing in the company, and give members access to their deal flow.

There is a membership fee that allows me to access content, events, and investment opportunities. 1k+ members have gone through it to date. You can learn more about the program here.

Existing members include impressive people from all walks of life – tech execs, unicorn startup founders, professional athletes, doctors, lawyers, chefs, and are located in 50+ countries. The program was designed around people who have full time jobs, and see the program as supplemental to their day to day work. The educational sessions are off-hours and entirely online and do not require travel.

I believe this will have a mutually beneficial impact on both myself and <COMPANY> for several reasons:

- Being a part of Angel Squad will allow me to zoom out across many industries and give me insight into investing at scale.

- Angel Squad will teach me to apply evaluation frameworks to companies seeking funding, giving me a unique perspective when making financial decisions.

- I will learn from other experts in tech, and will to bring those learnings back to inform how we define business strategy for our own programs

- I am grateful to have received coaching and mentoring throughout my career. Joining Angel Squad is a way to give back to my community by helping companies at the beginning of their growth journey.

Thank you in advance for considering my personal and professional career aspirations and I'm available to continue the conversation.

Best,
<NAME>
