Spilling all of Washington's secrets

Written by Gossip Girl

There is a silent rumble going on in the Democratic Party.

U.S. House Representatives Lily-irl and Scribba25 both have announced their candidacy for the White House.

In public, the two Dixie natives maintain a brother and sister like relationship in the House. With the primary looming, we've begun to hear whispers of a rift forming between the factions that support the pair.

Morning coffee walks through capitol hill have dwindled suddenly.

With the real possibility of Adith running for a second term, a strong contender is needed if the party plans to unseat him.

Is Lily-irl and Scribba25 up to the challenge of unseating a U.S. President in his first term?

Will someone else throw their hat in?

Only time will tell.
