F. PLACE

a. 安北都护府 Protectorate General to Pacify the North / Anbei Protectorate

- i. Protectorate: An administrative division/military government responsible for frontier defense and was directly responsible to the imperial court.
- ii. In Tang Dynasty, Protectorate was divided by 6: Anbei (North), Annan (South), Anxi (West), Andong (East), Beiting, and Chanyu.
- iii. The leader for each protectorate is called grand protector or protector general.
- iv. The Protectorate General to Pacify the North, as it stated, it's a protectorate located in the northern regions to pacify the north.
- v. The Protectorate General to Pacify the North oversees eight commanderies (府) and fourteen prefectures (州).
  1. Hanhai Commandery became the seat of the Protectorate General to Pacify the North, thus the place our ML was assigned. That's why our ML holds two titles: Governor of Hanhai Commandery (only for Hanhai) and The Grand Protector of the North (overall, leader of the leader).

The order of administration divisions in Tang Dynasty (from big to small):

- i. 道 Circuit:
  1. Subdivided into ten circuits in the Tang Dynasty.
- ii. 府 / 都督府 Commandery
- iii. 州 Prefecture
- iv. 县 County

The ruler for all is called Governor as they govern the area—working in a government office... But on special occasions, if the ruler held another position, they would be addressed with their higher position, such as Prince, Princess, Duke, Marquis, Grand Protector, etc.

b. Yuxing Merchant House
