To fill out the form, we recommend that you read the following notes and recommendations.

Notes and recommendations for filling out the form

The format constitutes the grid for the jury's evaluation, therefore its compilation must allow for the extraction of parts of the proposed work capable of illustrating its peculiarities.

In the paragraphs that articulate the format, the same information must not be repeated and the specific objectives of each chapter must be respected.

The choices and/or solutions described in the format must be justified in reference to the central themes of the announcement, for example it must not be stated that "the project is sustainable" or "the building is accessible" without describing how it is, where it is, for whom.

The Prize will be awarded following the evaluations of a Jury that will primarily consider the coherence with the central themes of the announcement and the innovative nature of the works, consequently it is recommended that the applications are presented with clarity, coherence and innovation.

Since the full version of the proposed work is not required but only the compilation of the format, the summaries must inevitably find a place in the format.

The illustrations must recall the qualifying aspects of the proposed work, must not appear "disconnected" and must also have captions that clarify settings, approaches, purposes, therefore, for example, only "ground floor plan" or "master plan of the project" are to be excluded.

The captions of the images must explicitly refer to the central theme or themes of the tender reference of the illustration.

Poor compilation of the paragraphs or failure to compile some paragraphs will be negatively evaluated by the jury.

The applications that arrive after the deadline of the tender will be excluded, as will those that do not comply with the format requirements.
