

Terms of Service for Commissioning Artwork from coyotefeathers/Loki Coyote - Thank you for your interest!

DISCLAIMER

I am not a professional artist. This is a hobby for me. My skills are improving but I've still got a lot to learn. Most pieces will involve experimental techniques as I work to improve and become more efficient. If you are absolutely dissatisfied with the final product, I am happy to offer a refund, though I do retain the right to recycle the piece and use it as the basis for another commission or a personal art piece. I will NOT use your OC if you have requested a refund.

I will reply and let you know if I have added you to my list.

REFERENCES

Please provide at least one updated color reference. I can work off brief descriptions but it helps tremendously if you have an image for me to refer to that is very close to if not exactly what your character looks like. If you don't have a preference on specifics, please try to keep the description brief and understand that there will be a lot of artistic license taken on overall appearance, style, and color.

All black/all white characters may require changing their colors slightly in order to be visible.

ROUGH SKETCH AND REVISIONS

I will provide a rough sketch prior to requesting payment along with a final payment number. You are welcome to request any reasonable adjustments or tweaks at that time. A revised version will be created at which point you can request another round of adjustments if needed. A final sketch will be provided for you to approve or deny. If you decline, I reserve the right to use the unfinished sketches as the base for other works that I may or may not offer for sale. I will not use your OC.

After the second sketch, any further revisions will incur a small fee to make up for my time.

PAYMENT

I accept USD only. I work exclusively through PayPal at this time, but this might change in the future (Venmo, CashApp). A link will be sent once payment has been negotiated.

TURNAROUND TIME

I have no idea what the typical turnaround time for these will be. Based on my current job status I have a lot of free time, but this could change within even a few days from now. I will try to complete everything within 7 days or so, possibly a lot sooner, but if you would like an update, feel free to send me another email.

Thank you for considering me to help bring your characters to life!
