

What type of written information is the potential user of this site looking for and/or wanting to gain by coming to this site?

Most potential users will be looking for an idea about what my personal style is as a what type of experience I have as a web designer. They will want to see examples of my work, a bio, my education (skillset) and work experience. Some clients may want to know what services I offer as a web designer and my costs.

What type of written information is the client looking to convey to the user with this site and why?

Since this is my site, I want the written information to clearly communicate with the user that I am a skilled web designer with great style and experience. I want to convey that I am responsible and organized to boot!

What is the perception, attitude and tone that the user will feel most comfortable with and why?

I think my typical user would be most comfortable with me using minimal technical jargon, a sleek and easy to navigate site with the all the info they would need to find on the home page.

What perception, attitude and tone does the client want to convey to the user and why?

I would want the client to come away from my site impressed with my professional esthetic and style.

How much do you charge?

On the low end designer hourly rates hover around $40, while the high end is about $75 (though many designers charge $100 or more an hour), with an average of $59 an hour. Since I'm a beginner, I will do a first meeting for free then charge $30/hr for my time.
