

Discontinuation of Pooled Testing

Update on 4/14/22

As you may have seen reported on the news, Maine Department of Education informed schools late yesterday afternoon that Covid-19 pooled testing in schools will be discontinued the week of May 9th. Instead, the Maine Department of Education and Maine Department of Health and Human Services are going to provide free at-home tests to schools to distribute to all staff and students. We will let you know when we have more details about delivery dates, but our tentative plan is to provide them to interested families at our student-led conferences or for pick up in our school offices.
