

SitelogIQ is a comprehensive program management partner that helps K–12 school districts turn aging infrastructure, deferred maintenance, and limited resources into strategic opportunities for safer, healthier, and more efficient learning environments. Working alongside district leaders and communities, we combine facility assessments, educational planning, engineering, funding strategies, and construction management to create comprehensive solutions that balance immediate priorities with long-term goals. Every recommendation is grounded in supporting student success, maximizing available funding, and delivering lasting value to the community.
