

[00:00:00.250] - Speaker 1

We believe that digital inclusion within our community is hugely important. We've been doing this through a project called Connecting Communities that we set up at the start of the Pandemic when, after schools were closed to most people for the first time, we realised that all of the wonderful learning experiences that teachers had planned were not going to be possible for everybody because not everybody had access to a device when they had a device, not everybody had access to Internet connection that would allow them to use that device properly.

[00:00:58.570] - Speaker 1

And then even when those things weren't in place, we were finding that there were parents who weren't able to use the equipment and children were missing out.