Description:

A jaguar made of living stone, 10 feet tall at the least. It is made of polished black obsidian with aztec carvings throughout the body. It's eyes glow in a sickly green light. The same light appears from cracks in wounds, if it is standing in light. The whole time it is active, it emits a low drumbeat, similar to the lck. When it dies, it slowly turns into smoke. If a wound was inflicted before, then there will be pieces lying around that don't disappear and maybe the wizards can use them.
