

I'm available to do writing, editing, or coding related commissions for adult and non-adult games. I can also do other written projects. I have two commission slots that are available on a first come first serve basis. You can contact me for commissions through any place where we can have a private conversation, this includes my commission email address (thedarkmaster11@gmail.com) or private messages on other sites that I frequent.

Current available commission slots: zero

General rules

- I can do writing, editing, and coding work. When it comes to coding, I may not be able to help you if I don't have the programming language you are using, and it isn't freely available. If you really want to give me them, I will accept licenses for programming languages and learn them well enough to do coding work
- My fee is $20 Canadian per hour of work. The smallest time division I will allow is 15 minutes.
- Items from my discount list get 25% off.
- If you are a first time commissioner, you are limited to 3 hours at a time of work. Repeat customers can have separate arrangements.
- Two people cannot hire time to work on the same project at one time, but you can pool your money to cover one person's project.
- Payments are made up front, I will refund unused time for the project. I will not start working on the project until after the payment has been made.
- You can hire me to do projects that are larger than three hours, but the project will be suspended when time runs out. I can be hired to continue the project later when I open commissions again.
- There are two spaces in my queue. Free spaces are filled in the order that I receive request messages. My queue will not always be open, and only messages received after I open it will be counted.
- Discussions on what you want in the commission can be handled through any private chat or electronic correspondence that I have access to. Try to be available, I will likely have questions for you while I'm working on your commission so that it actually is what you want.
- I have the right to refuse a commission at any time for whatever reason. If you've already paid at this point, I will refund your money.
- I do need an email address sent to in order to send my invoice, transactions are handled through paypal.
- Once we have agreed upon what you wish to commission, I will send you an invoice to the email provided. This must be paid for within three days, or I will reopen your space in my queue for others to use.
- These rules are subject to change over time, but are final when the payment invoice is sent to you. Once that has been paid, you will receive the work promised in the invoice within two weeks of your item becoming the first on my commission queue, or your money will be refunded.

Sexual things that I won't write (Don't ask for these in a sex scene. If it is for something else, like a general horror game, then I'm much more open about most things.)

- Gore
- Scat
- Hard vore
- Watersports
- Bestiality
- Necrophilia
- People under the age of 15. (relative to human development)
- People over the age of 60. (relative to human development)
- Mind break or complete personality rewrites.
- Unwilling male to female transgender transformation.
- Anything that doesn't have a human-ish face capable of conveying human emotions.
- Anything that can't communicate in some way.
- Anything without human-like emotions.
- However, a scene where someone is using a toy on themselves is fine, so long as the toy isn't alive and the user is in complete control of the scene.
