

Archive Keepers of Memories and Remembrance- Astralestium Logia

Summary:

Astralestium Logia (Logia for short), is a group of archive keepers born for the purpose of recording and preserving history and memories. They also have the power to erase people's memories about them to keep their anonymity.

While humanity has their own ways of recording memories, they'd be lost to time eventually. As the four celestial beasts' strengths depended on memories, their followers (The Celestial Mages) spent their lives and memories attempting to develop a new magic formula that can efficiently keep a memory as pure as possible. Creating a new magic formula was not easy, and no one knew if this developed magic can even be a game changer for their situation.

While accidents may happen in a workplace, there was such a huge accident that the mages ended up having unexpected results. An "astral being" has been created by accident during the research team's lunch break as one of the researchers accidentally tripped, which caused her lunch to fall onto their newly crafted magic circle. They gave the being a name: "Astralestium Logia" . It's a name decided by the mages and researchers based on the name of the researcher and the name of the new magic formula they didn't expect to succeed. Although they failed to make something they wanted, the creation of Logia was a sign that their new magic will be their best and treasured achievement, and the generational sacrifice may have been worth the effort.

The mages eventually developed the "perfect" magic formula of keeping a memory as pure as possible, and they used it to make Logia a formidable companion for their lifelong plan of preserving more memories.

Key Traits:

Vita:

"Life", the life line of the archive keepers. It appears like a fissure on a part of their body. Aura color varies. Some may have multiple sources of life lines.

Anima:

"Soul", a figment of power from a celestial soul that "enhances" the archive keepers. Anima are usually based on the aspects of the 4 beasts.

4 beasts and their 4 aspects:

"The Dragon" - Sun (House of Fire)

"The Qilin" - Moon (House of Water)

"The Phoenix" - Heavens (House of Air)

"The Tortoise" - Humanity (House of Earth)

(House elements are mainly in name only, and is only there for lore purposes)

Under these 4 beasts, they cover a range of animals:

Dragon- Reptiles

Qilin - Mammals

Phoenix - Birds

Tortoise- Aquatic Creatures

Tempus:

"Time", a magical terminal where the archive keepers keep their records. It could be engraved onto the body, or it could be a physical item. The magical terminal is also occasionally called "Terminus".

The terminal has 3 clock hands. The most intricate hand signifies what kind of records they keep.

"Hour"- Historical Events

"Minute"- Memorable Events

"Second"- Mundane Life Events

Memoria:

Memory ", A lingering "something" that makes people "forget" about the identity of the archive keeper. With it, they have the option to retain their anonymity after finishing their missions on preserving and recording memories. A Logia's attire and demeanor can be influenced by their memoria.

e.g. of potential memoria: food, beverages, scents, gemstones/minerals, plants
