

THE END OF SABI

End of Sabi

This document is the collective account of over a dozen people on one user who has caused so much pain, stress, discontent, distrust, and fear among them, and upon the thousands upon thousands of people that Sabi has an outlet to. Our voices are being used to make sure that Sabi is held accountable, to ensure that these misdeeds will end once and for all. It also serves as a final catharsis; with this we can finally turn the page on the chapter of our lives that Sabi was in. It is likely that the only road, if any, that exists for Sabi to redeem himself would come from tearing away the very thing that he exploits from him. That is what this document fully intends to do. Enough is enough. Too much has been hidden for too long.

FYI: This document was created with the consent and consideration of everybody who has given information to it, thus you will find that the content inside will be reflective of that. Some users will want to remain anonymous, others won't. Keep this in mind as you go through the document. This document will not be done in chronological order, but rather on various attributes of Sabi. Sabi's issues can often be so ingrained that you will see him do multiple misdeeds at the same time, so excuse us that you'll see certain images in multiple instances.

Manipulation

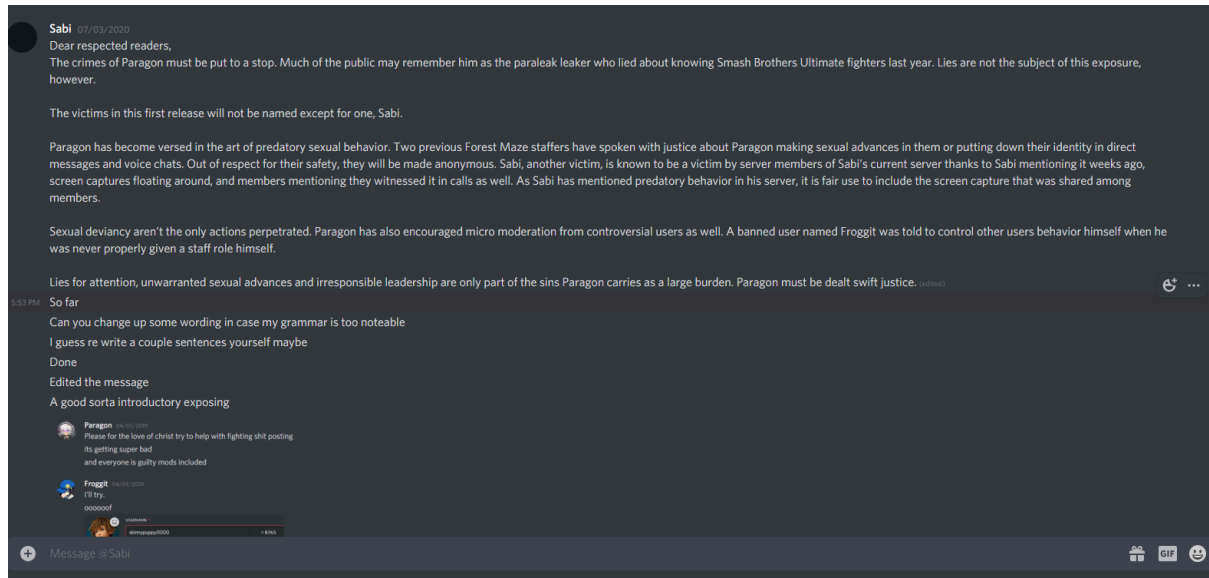

The Froggit Incident

This is the situation that everyone is pretty well aware of, but it's a pretty good starting point for this. A few days ago Froggit made a post about misdeeds that Paragon, an Owner of the Forest Maze Discord server, had supposedly made. This info included an account from Sabi, upon which he claimed that...

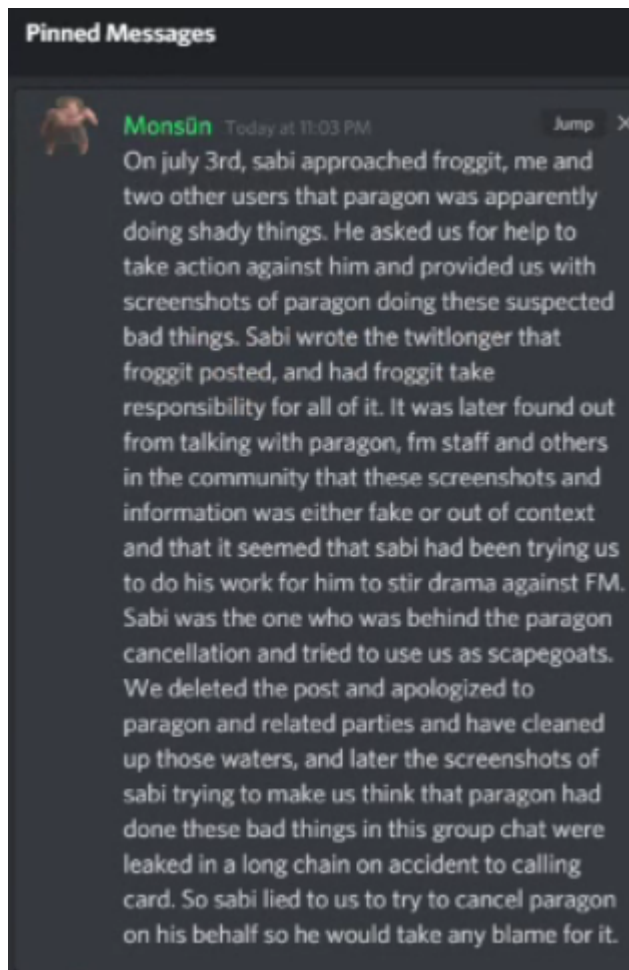

This is very interesting for a variety of reasons. A few days ago, a ZIP file containing 76 images (all of which can be found here <https://drive.google.com/file/d/1RKRHzlvAv3hprA5qb1Cj3kn8ixapwvC0/view?usp=sharing>) was posting detailing why there's a whole lotta bullshit here to go around, and then some. Here's the breakdown though:

Sabi: "I didn't make this tweet or anything, so please don't threaten me for somebody speaking out about what happened to me." You did make it, though

And about it not being “even his server’s fault”, it doesn’t seem like Sabi had the server’s well-being in mind. Take it from one of the people who was with Sabi during the whole thing.

Manipulating those who had thought they were doing the right thing. Everybody knows how the state of the community has been, and Sabi has been trying to abuse this to stir up some drama with what he feels is a rival server. He explicitly wanted to stir shit up for Forest Maze, and to help with that he manipulated his friends. People close to Sabi, people that trusted Sabi, it didn’t matter; they were fodder for some fun, chaotic manipulation for his own enjoyment and gain.

Comfort with Sexual Contact towards Minors

It was midnight on an early-December day when Sabi was high and Maru was drunk. They were just horny at the time, so when they came home they got onto Sabi Squad, specifically into a public channel called Cool Kids Club. Only a few users were actively using the channel at the time: SolMerse, an unnamed Moderator, an unnamed regular user, Sabi, & Maru. This unnamed user was one who was known to get sexual with moderators and regular users, they were going to be banned a few months back but this didn't end up happening because when Sabi & Maru run the show, you ain't gonna be efficient. They were already kind of dubious as they had tried stuff with both underage and overage users. This user was beginning to be sexual toward Maru in the public channel. SolMerse felt this was a little bit of a weird joke and just advised that it stops before it gets crazy. Instead of truly stopping it, Sabi decided to make a group DM with the same people posting as mentioned. This is a bit of a weird circumstance. Sabi and Maru are both in their early-mid 20s, but this unnamed user was kind of dubious in what their age was. According to Maru, she heard they were 19, Sabi heard 18, SolMerse and the unnamed Moderator heard 17. So this is pretty suspect. In the DM where the sexual activity continued, and the user even wanted to get SolMerse and the unnamed Moderator involved. This is where it veers into really really bad territory obviously, SolMerse and the unnamed Moderator were both underage at the time and they never consented to this, and even if this unnamed user was underage, Sabi & Maru didn't know that, and they certainly shouldn't be exposing themselves to sexual minors, or vice versa. Sabi didn't seem to have an issue with this unnamed user doing this though, and it went on and on and on. I should note again that Maru was drunk, she was not in a good position to consent to anything like this happening but Sabi had it happen anyway. Here are images of the incident.

Here are exchanges from the 2nd group DM.

After this, SolMerse left the group and told Sabi this is something that needs to be discussed quickly after with more Admins. Even at that point Sabi felt the need to say this

Also Maru wanted me to ask you if she's hot 🤔

Weird that Maru wants to know if a 17 year old finds them hot, and Sabi is okay about it.

Here are DMs of SolMerse discussing the incident with the unnamed Moderator that was in the situation with him. Remember both of the people here were underage at the time.

SolMerse 12/14/2019

they made another gc

I wonder if this is it?

I'm beyond confused

SolMerse 12/14/2019

Coming out?

 12/14/2019

As a furry

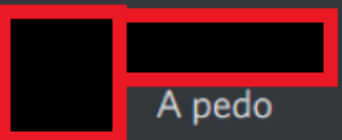

SolMerse 12/14/2019

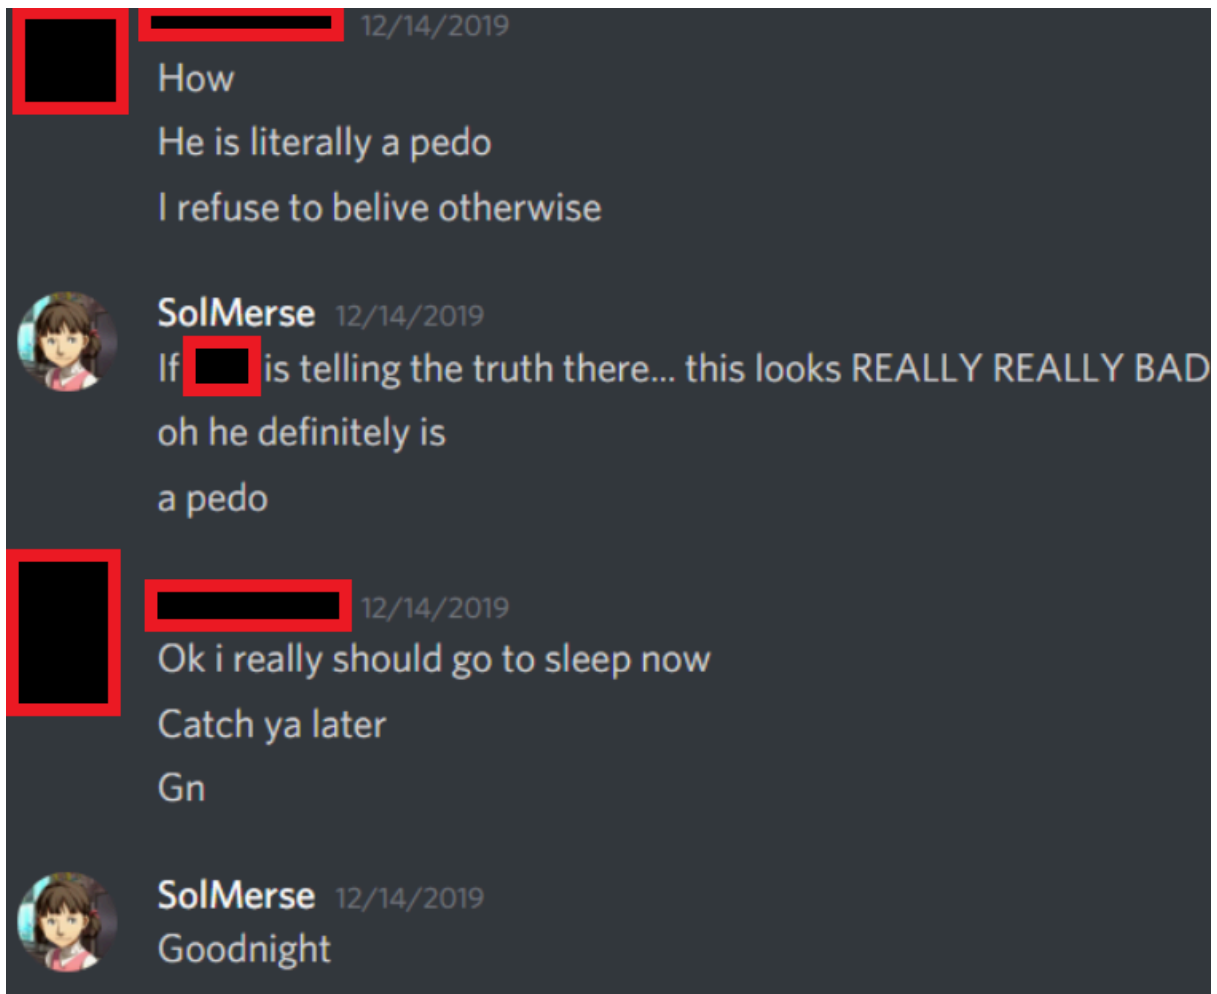

Oh right

Umm

Sabi does know  is uh

 12/14/2019

A pedo

So Sabi willingly and knowingly involved two underage minors into a sexual activity with themselves, and with another individual whose age was dubious. Sabi loses out either way, either it's an overage person in which case Sabi is willingly making underage people deal with overage people in a sexual matter, or it's an underage person and Sabi is dealing with people who are underage! And not only that, he exploited how Maru was drunk for this too. It's absolutely abhorrent and one of the worst things Sabi has done without a doubt.

The situation didn't quite end there though, as said staff wanted to talk to Sabi about this incident. Here are images of this exchange.

Deleted User 14-Dec-19 04:12 PM

That was another reason I wasn't aware she completely felt bad last night because I knew she was already like this at him

[Govnah] 14-Dec-19 04:13 PM

so why not ask first

because this sounds like this was going on for awhile not just 10 minutes

Deleted User 14-Dec-19 04:13 PM

She didn't go in the same magnitude as last night, but she already admitted to me she discussed a ton of porn and kinks with him and stuff like that all within the past week and a half. She would tell me how he sent a lot of super explicit stuff to her all the time and she would contribute.

So I asked her his age

And she told me 19

[Govnah] 14-Dec-19 04:13 PM

so can you blame him

if she's going back at him

of course he will keep going

Deleted User 14-Dec-19 04:14 PM

There's something I don't wanna discuss really Please don't judge Maru

SolMerse 14-Dec-19 04:14 PM

I am hear to simply address concerns I had

Deleted User 14-Dec-19 04:14 PM

The legal age here is 16, and she's into people who are 16-18

SolMerse 14-Dec-19 04:14 PM

I see

Deleted User 14-Dec-19 04:14 PM
That may be why she lied to me
If he IS 17

SolMerse 14-Dec-19 04:15 PM
I have no idea how old he is tbh

Deleted User 14-Dec-19 04:15 PM
I'm just speculating but she always tells me she's really into upper teens so if she is lying then that's likely why

SolMerse 14-Dec-19 04:15 PM
He told me 17, and he's est, but I never really caught him ever saying he was at school during school hours

Deleted User 14-Dec-19 04:15 PM
She told me she's scared of ever telling people that though

SolMerse 14-Dec-19 04:15 PM
Maybe he's homeschooled, idfk

Deleted User 14-Dec-19 04:15 PM
Because the age of consent is different in various places

SolMerse 14-Dec-19 04:15 PM
But I figure he's 17
I see

SolMerse 14-Dec-19 04:16 PM
You did not ask about age at the time?
Sabi most of our members are underage

Deleted User 14-Dec-19 04:16 PM
She told me he was of a while ago

SolMerse 14-Dec-19 04:16 PM
Did it not just come to your mind?

Deleted User 14-Dec-19 04:16 PM
Age

SolMerse 14-Dec-19 04:16 PM
Oh, so you were told that before
I see

 [Govnah] 14-Dec-19 04:17 PM
but logically that means any user in our server can't be in trouble if their laws are different too? but if we feel uncomfortable we still let them go ya know.
like if someone is of law where ever they are but you still feel uncomofrtable they'd get axed still

 SolMerse 14-Dec-19 04:17 PM
And what did Maru say?

 Deleted User 14-Dec-19 04:18 PM
She claimed he was 19 to me
But she also told me she was OK with everything that happened, so she could easily be lying I don't know why she didn't even tell me the truth after was the one who told me she was lying
Yes, she was actively telling me she was into everyrthing, even this morning.
Because I was kinda worried based on her hesitant and wanted to make triple sure
Apparently, she blacked out at a point and didn't even remember some of the stuff she said.
But I made sure to double and triple check with her today

 SolMerse 14-Dec-19 04:19 PM
And she was still under the influence when this was happening?
Drunk/high

 Deleted User 14-Dec-19 04:20 PM
That's the weird part.

The sexual talk in the server itself began like before she was even drinking
Like the spitroasting thing (edited)

 [Govnah] 14-Dec-19 04:20 PM
this sounds fucky

 SolMerse 14-Dec-19 04:21 PM
Tell me what happened afterwards
After I got kicked

 Deleted User 14-Dec-19 04:21 PM
@SolMerse you may be getting a bit of my perspective here because that reminds me of something.

She wasn't acting hesitant when she said the sexual stuff in the server, as you recall

 SolMerse 14-Dec-19 04:21 PM
Because  is kicked and all now, from Mob
Not in Basement anymore

 Deleted User 14-Dec-19 04:21 PM
Only when it got taken to DMs
Which I guess makes sense
I guess the problem isn't per se that she didn't want to get sexual, rather the extent of it

 SolMerse 14-Dec-19 04:22 PM
So it may have gotten too far for her?

Sabi's a fool in these types of conversations, Sabi somehow thinks Maru getting flustered also means that she consents to this stuff, and didn't really seem to be too bugged by the fact that underage people were involved in this unwillingly. These kinds of things show that Sabi really has a lack of self-awareness of how these sorts of things look.

Memoryman3

This is a different brand of manipulation than the one just detailed. Memoryman3 is an infamous user throughout the Smash Bros. community, and in late 2019 he and Sabi were in a particular 4chan-related server, so you can imagine that some of the rhetoric spewed out of there isn't exactly... the most tolerant. Memoryman3 is known to be a transphobe, among other things. But this document is about Sabi, and one late 2019 day Sabi wanted to fuck with Memoryman a little bit

Transphobia isn't a huge surprise from Sabi considering the company he keeps, particularly his girlfriend Maru:

Deleted User 12/11/2019

G o o d fucking l o r d

He won't accept the reality

I'm falling into insanity hanging with the sjw kids

Deleted User 12/11/2019

Yeah

I have to repress myself and my opinions because some of them are way too edgy and I know they'll scream "CANCEL" at me

Man

It's mostly

How do you feel about all this trans shit that comes out the past half a decade

I am so skeptical of like 90% of the people who've come out lately

Heavily sex obsessed dudes

Cosplaying as girls

I don't understand this shit bro

It freaks me out

Bro I mean

Obviously

Lol

I thought I was a dude in high school

Nah just traumatized lmao

I see patterns

Of girls like me who are fucked and damaged beyond belief and they go the dude route cause they can't stand to be themselves

Whereas with the dudes who wanna be chicks it's always

It's so sexual

So so sexual

Like abnormally sexual

Dude..

I never told you Sabi thought he was trans for like a year

 I have no idea what the fuck
He's Sabi he's well
You know what he is
You have no idea how much that fucked with me
No idea
I loved him and wanted to accept him no matter what but
Holy FUCK
He was always sort of
... unhealthy
We started off fucked up
He was so obsessed with me
Like
OBSESSED
Like dude
We dated
Not even 3 weeks
He asked to MARRY ME
And I'm like 16 and just like 😳 what I'm not kidding

Deleted User 10/23/2019

Me and Maru tend to avoid saying the stuff we say irl online

eggplanet 10/23/2019

Ya

Why are they mad at me bro

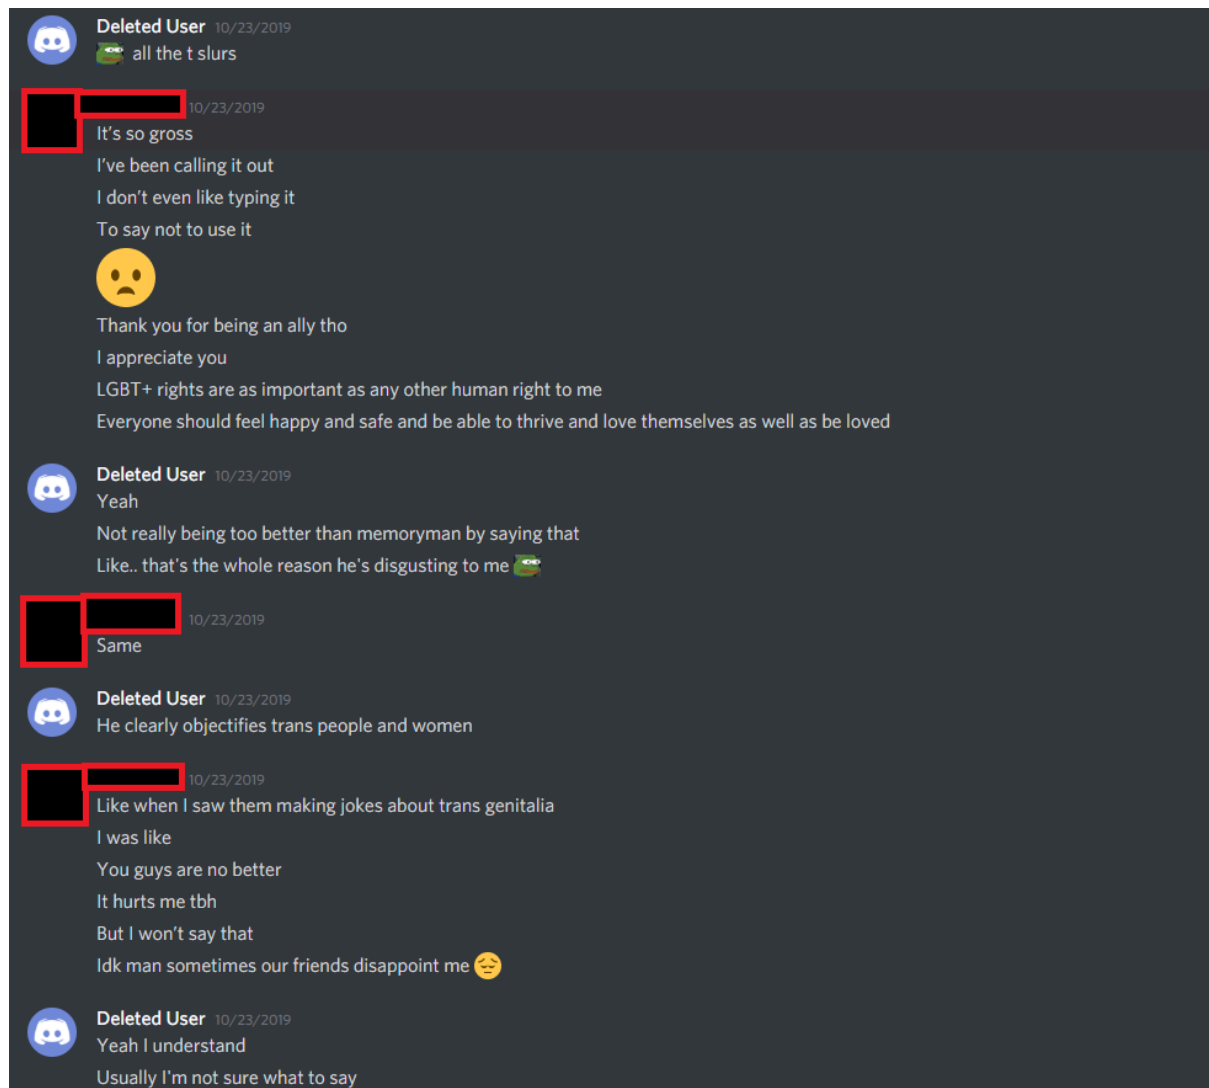

Deleted User 10/23/2019

Like Maru says tranny A LOT

But

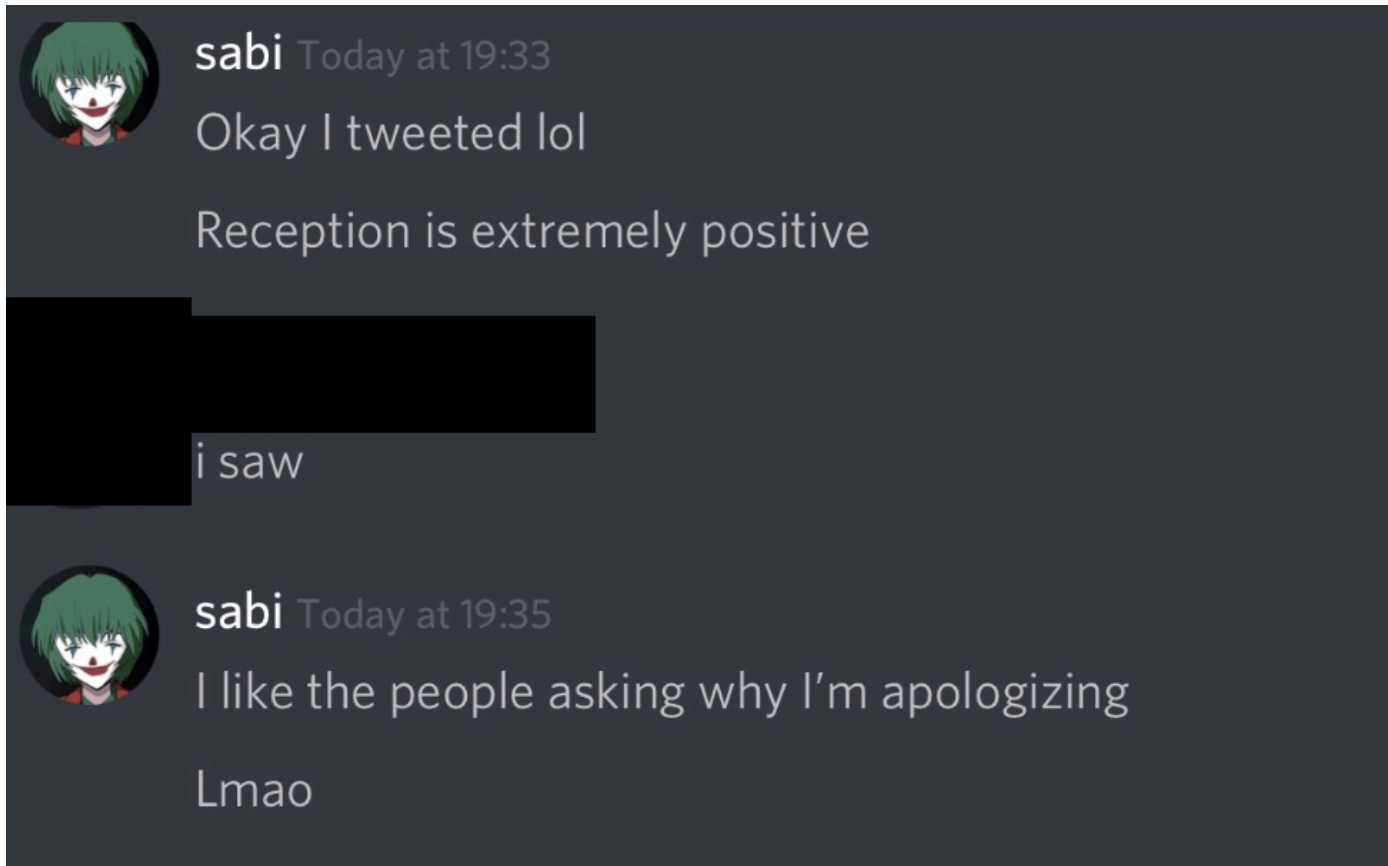

Maru even lied to pretend to be a trans ally.

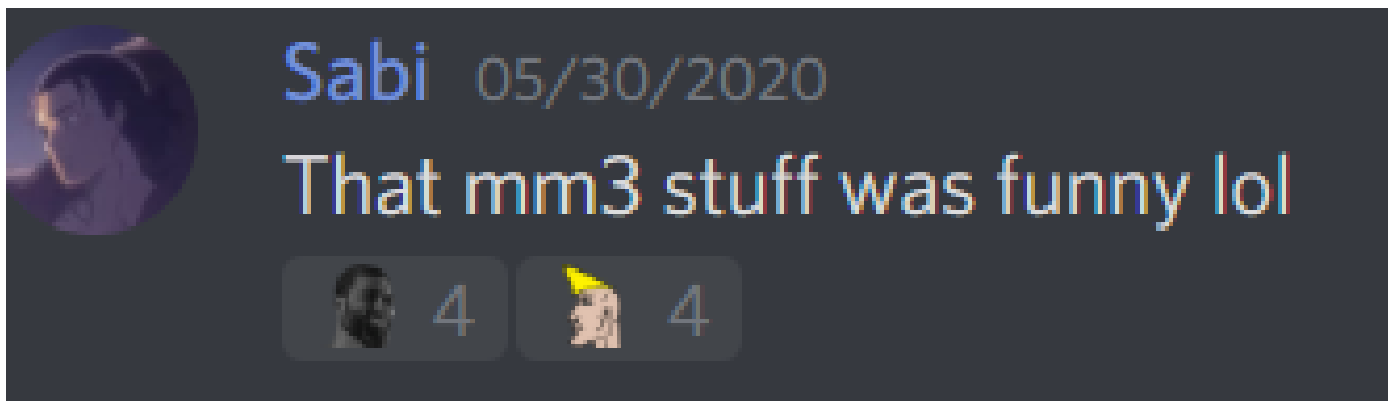

But I digress, Memoryman was a banned user in Sabi Squad, so like a little dog toy Sabi wanted to harass and emotionally abuse this problematic, but clearly disturbed user by making him say some incredibly embarrassing and inappropriate things. This is manipulation of the form that “I will make you do this thing that you really don’t want to do, and that I have no right to really make you do, but I will waggle this toy above your head to make you try it.”

Thing is, Sabi would have never honored his side of the bargain, he never planned to actually get Memoryman back into Sabi Squad properly if he did it, it was just a game to him. Like I said, Sabi did this for hours on end, even saying such slurs as “tranny”, which are clearly transphobic. This entire exchange in general actually kinda espouses this sort of fetishized view of trans folk, and Sabi was so okay with that and he even brought it to his own server, his own domain. He made a channel for Memoryman to trick him into believing that he had returned to the server’s normal channels, but what it really was was some playground for Sabi to fuck with Memoryman, the only difference this time is that this playground was now in Sabi’s turf, turf named Sabi Squad. He encouraged the staff that were there to also partake in this behavior. Staff Members unanimously felt this was unacceptable behavior, and some even quit their posts and left the server because of it. Good. He didn't regret it then.

And...

He doesn't regret it now.

Manipulation of Information

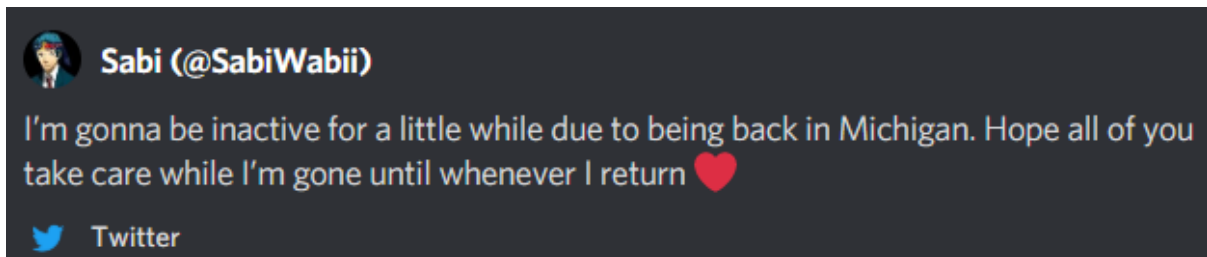

Sometimes to manipulate people, Sabi manipulates information. There's a whole host of ways that he does this, but to start with let's start with the most recent occurrence, this one pertaining to Calling Card, a user who is also set on exposing Sabi and making him accountable for his actions. Sabi was aware of this user and had an idea. What if Sabi had a friend send fake accusations about him to Calling Card? With enough luck, he hoped that it would be enough to dismantle Calling Card's reputation, silencing whatever he would be able to say on the matter. (Innocent people don't do this, btw)

Here's video proof of Sabi doing this as well, from Sabi's phone.

<https://cdn.discordapp.com/attachments/728816104226684938/729049552077979740/video00.mp4>

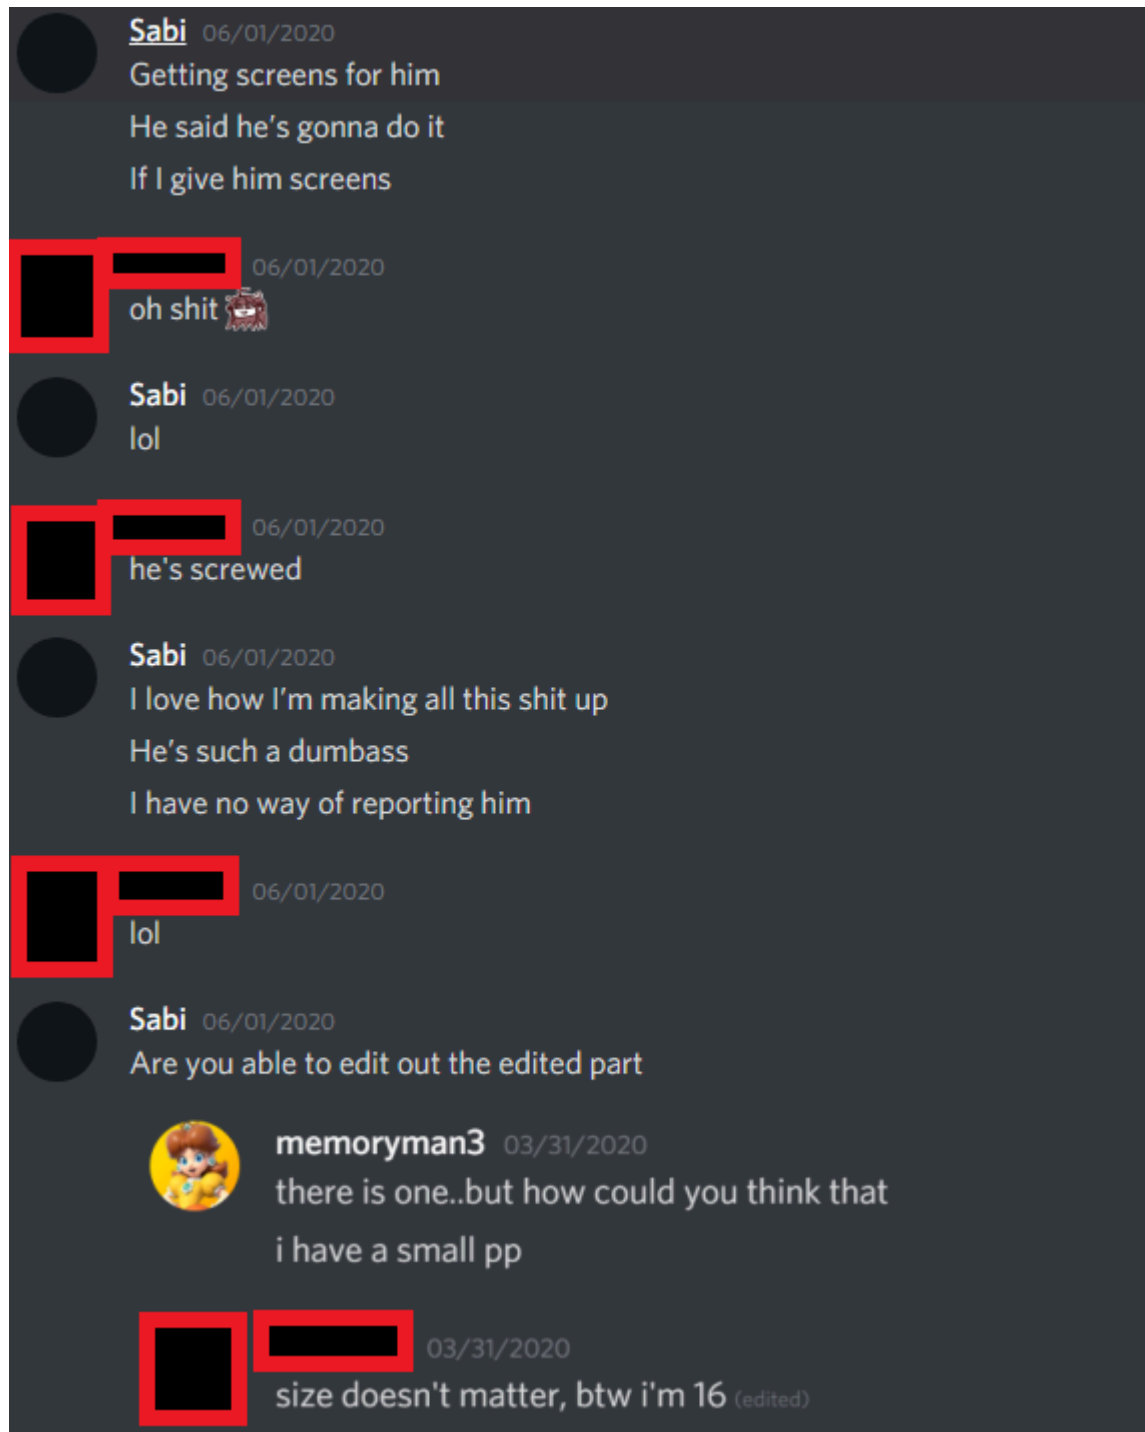

He acts so cocky about Calling Card even though he scared the crap out of Sabi, he was paranoid and thought it was EVERYBODY, SolMerse, Zorkats, you name it. Sabi even had to fake that he was in Michigan to hide from Calling Card's posts (even though OBVIOUSLY it's BS because the pandemic flights are closed between the US and Canada) It reveals so much about his paranoia.

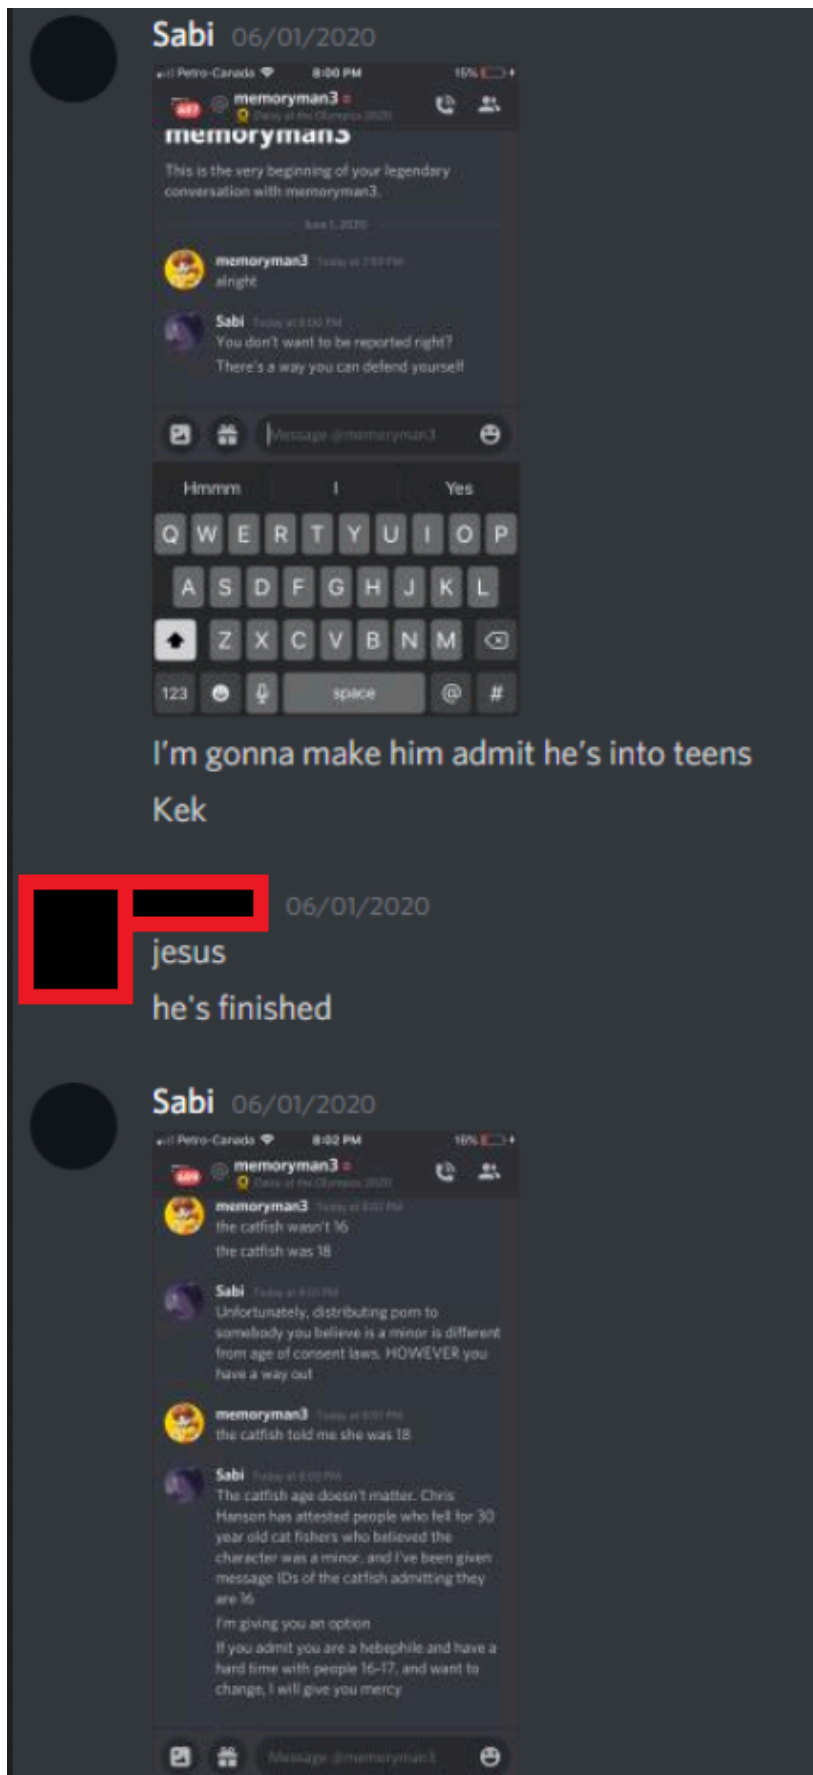

This shows how willing he is to fake DMs, he even brags about it!

In another instance of Sabi manipulating information for his own gain and fun, we go back to Memoryman3, but a different situation. Sabi had a plan once to fake DMs of Memoryman3 that would essentially have him saying pedophilic things, and with that he will try to make Memoryman admit that he likes kids. The goal here was to get Memoryman to say that for obvious ridicule, but also to report the post so that he can get banned off of Discord. Memoryman again is not the best person ever, but Sabi is manipulating information and manipulating somebody just for entertainment and their own gain here. Of a clearly troubled person, mind you! It's awful stuff.

Should note this happened 1 month ago, btw. Not a year ago like the first MM3 incident

The Gambit of Lazy DMs

I will let the victim of this speak about it in their own words, I believe they would do a better job of it than me

 Lazy Gambit Today at 1:23 PM
Well I guess its time for me to post my experience
I suppose this could be considered less important on the grand scheme of things
But i will post screenshots and context
So it starts off with the infamous cuck images. These were sent to me on discord on a different server a few weeks after the mod purges on Sabi Squad. I had posted these on my personal server to show a friend of mine the screen. At the time I was on Vidya Bros, a server with mixed feeling on Sabi. Someone in my server was also a mod in Vidya Bros. Obviously after seeing these you would want to take it and post it everywhere. After spreading to Vidya Bros, the pics naturally spread to 4chan

 sabi 01/20/2019
Oh you are a cuck as well
I see, a man of culture

 sabi 01/20/2019
I'm into cucking, ngl. But god is it a painful fetish
Example: i like it a lot when im aroused, but immediately do not like it anymore when im not horny
If that makes sense
Its like being into incest or some other fetish and then feeling like shit immediately after participating in it (edited)

Sabi had rejoined Vidya Bros a few weeks ago from today
And the cuck images were brought up of course
Anyways, in typical Sabi fashion
He denied the posts and on top of that said that I made the fakes
Luckily for me I have an irl friend who I am close with in VB who said that it wouldn't make sense for me to make the posts
I blocked Sabi the second he re-joined the server

 Lazy Gambit Today at 1:32 PM
So about a week ago
I was contacted by a recently demoted Vidya Bros mod asking if this dm was faked

 Lazy Gambit 06/02/2020
Well as a muslim it was a challenge to get used to vidya bros but i learned to play along with the insensitive aspects. id appreciate it if we stayed on subject though. since you told me about your fetishes, it's only fair that i do as well im bisexual with a preference for men, but i do like tits a lot. pretty vanilla but scat and occasional vore are appreciated. you said youre a rare femboy dom right? show me a bit of yourself if you feel comfortable

Now I dont know about you guys but something about this seems fishy
Its formatted similar to the cuck images
I was told this image was posted to 4chan but got a 404
I wasnt the only mod on Vidya Bros to get a faked DM made about me (edited)
I wont post the other fake since the mod doesnt want it going out there
Another thing I found interesting with this DM was that its similar to another dm of Sabi discussing me

 Morgana 12/22/2019
He was an ex mod who got demoted for being a dumbfuck
He's Muslim
And actively fasts
Idk I feel if vidya bros knew much about him he'd be memed on pretty hard.

The fixation on Muslim
Another thing that I thought was suspicious
I had a few people contact him and question him

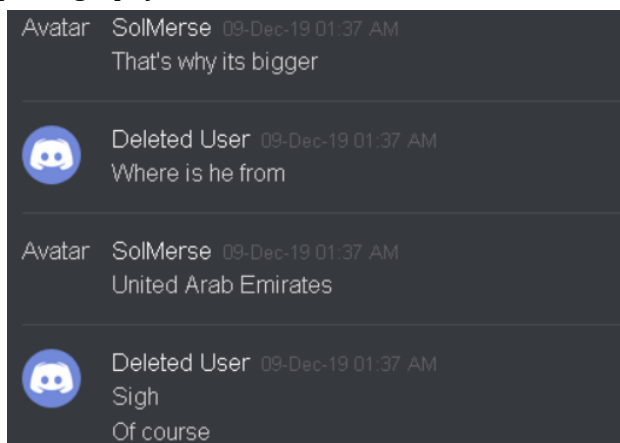

And in this situation Sabi said...

And back to Lazy's thoughts:

Also thats another thing that makes me think its Sabi
The fixation of fetishes
You could say much worse thing about me
But
To fixate mainly on fetishes and religion

Sabi's focus on religion seems to be predicated on racist roots, this isn't the only time he's made a comment like that about a muslim, saying this about somebody who had suspected illegal pornography:

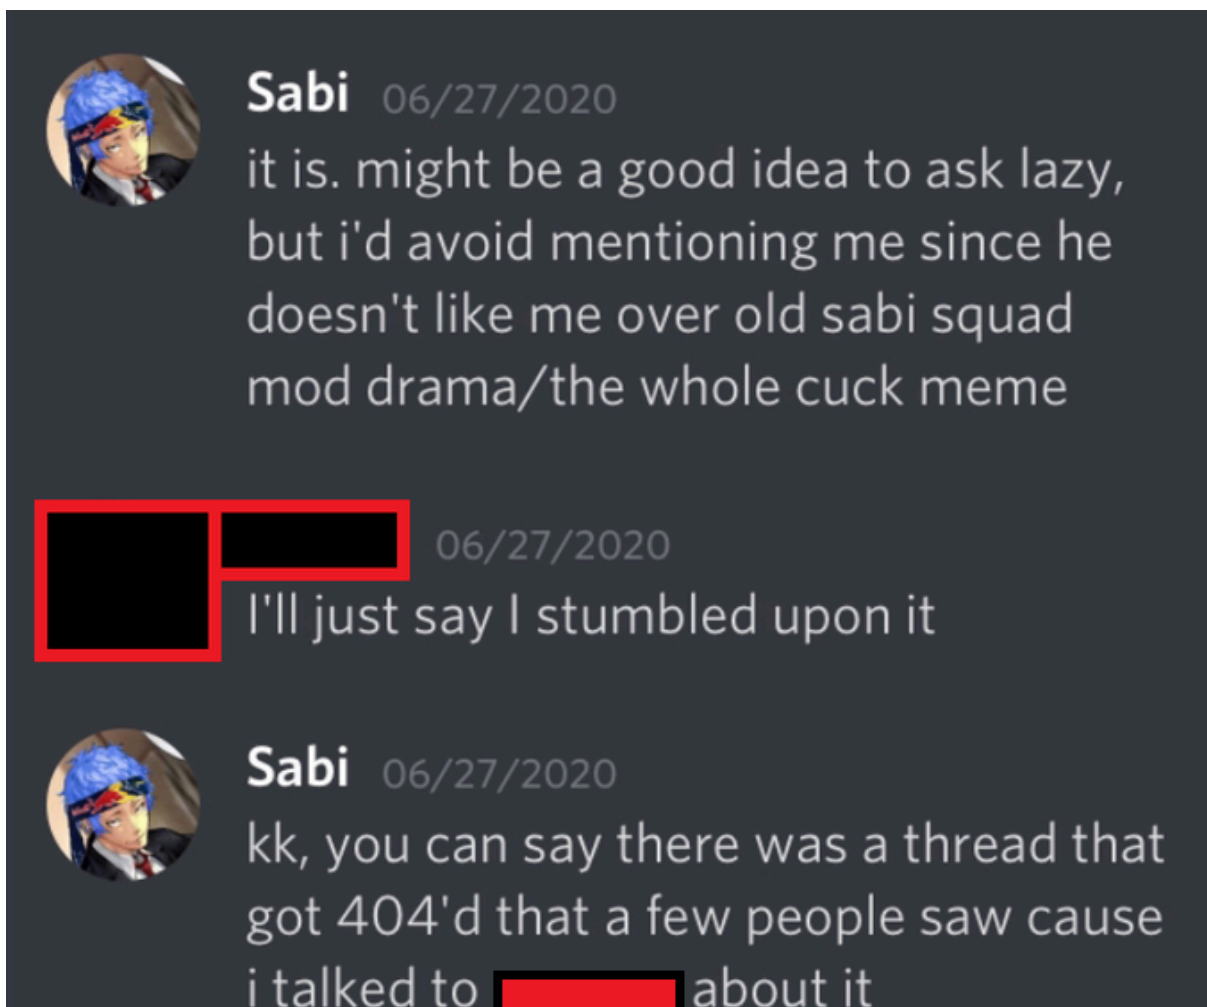

Not sure what he means by "Of course", but it does make you think.

He's also compared the raids of Forest Maze because he got banned from Fanged Pickle to the riots the United States was experiencing last month.

Racist and transphobic... ouch.

By the way, that 4Chan thread Sabi talked about that Sabi said was 404'd?

There never was a 4chan thread about it at all!

He also once fooled his community just for fun...

Sabi's Leak

Sabi once created a leak to fool his community by getting a leak that would appear on a PapaGenos video. What makes this special is that in this leak he used information that only he had, aside from PapaGenos. So it would look as though this information could not possibly have been obtained by some rando, as long as Sabi feigned ignorance it would work, at least in his head he thought that.

sabi Today at 6:44 PM

Deleted User 14-Oct-19 02:45 PM

Making a huge fake leak

Tailored for papagenos to talk about

Hello 4chan, i don't really know who to tell this to but I have information on Super Smash Bros Ultimate, First of all Geno is leakbait. He's being used to find out who is leaking to people.

The 5th fighter in the pass is Ryu Haybusa from Ninja Gaiden and should be revealed at the game awards

The first out of pass fighter is Jonesy from Fortnite, He should be announced around February 2020. He has a female costume that I think was called Ramirez or something similar to it

The seocond out of pass fighter is Claire Redfield from Resident evil, should be revealed around summer 2020

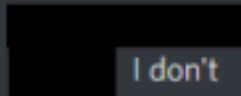

the third is Maxwell from Scribblenots, He works kinda like Hero with all the special attacks and last but not least is Chosen Undead from Dark Souls, He has a Solaire alt it looks like, But it might be an echo instead. I don't know when they plan to show him off

Deleted User 10/14/2019

so do you wanna know the actual story behind the leak lmfao

10/14/2019

I don't

Deleted User 10/14/2019

okay so

earlier this morning i told the raiders that i wanted jonesyposting to become big as im still in the Cult server since i made the deal with them

one of our ideas was to make a fake leak

i gave them the FB post papagenos sent me yesterday which they obviously included from there i just told them i could convince papagenos to make a vidya on it i didnt write the leak, and ryu part is probably true

the only real goal is to make jonesy relevant

i think it's working

10/14/2019

I knew you were trolling

I figured you didn't make the leak

I just assumed you just took some random leak and decided to back it up

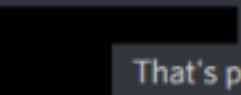

Deleted User 10/14/2019

nope LOL

it was heavily orchestrated

just for jonesy

10/14/2019

That's pretty funny but also d you think this will hurt your leaker cred

And do you plan on admitting you were trolling

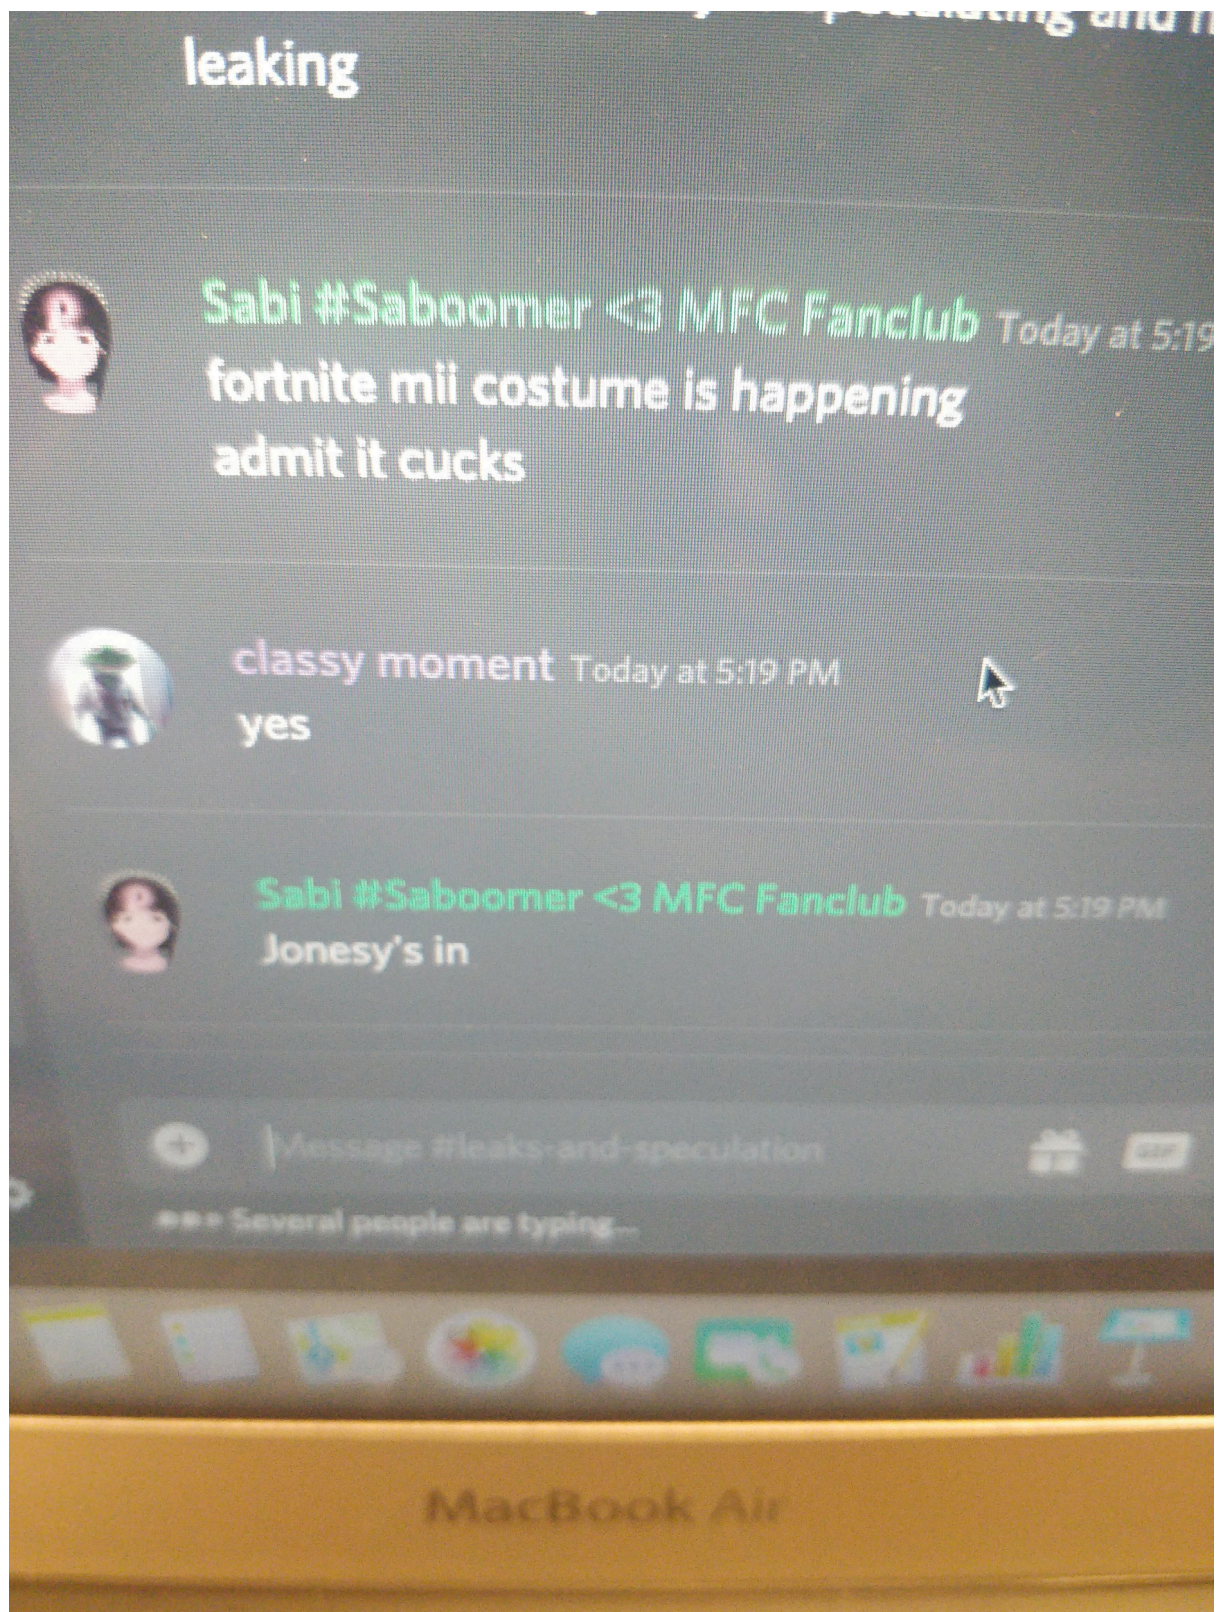

Deleted User 10/14/2019

no

as i said i cant verify it

just think its plausible

He was manipulating his friends and misusing their trust, it was trusted that Sabi would not share that info, but he did for some stupid fake leak. Shows how much he cares.

Harassment

Doxxin' n' Stalkin'

Sabi has quite an affinity for both of those, perhaps it's a habit that he's formed over the years.

sabi 01/20/2019

I used to be pretty edgy. Well really edgy i guess. But nowadays i mostly just look into people im interested in. Im the kinda person that will look at every single post somebodys made just because im interested in them lol. Im a little obsessive. But i dont mean any harm like i used to. Can see how itd come across as weird still though

sabi 04/05/2019

I know some people in [REDACTED] didn't like me for a while because I was super active on the ED irc chat and I've harassed people's irl lives thru the internet. I did USE to be ultra edgy, but I'm a good person nowadays. Or I try to be I mean.

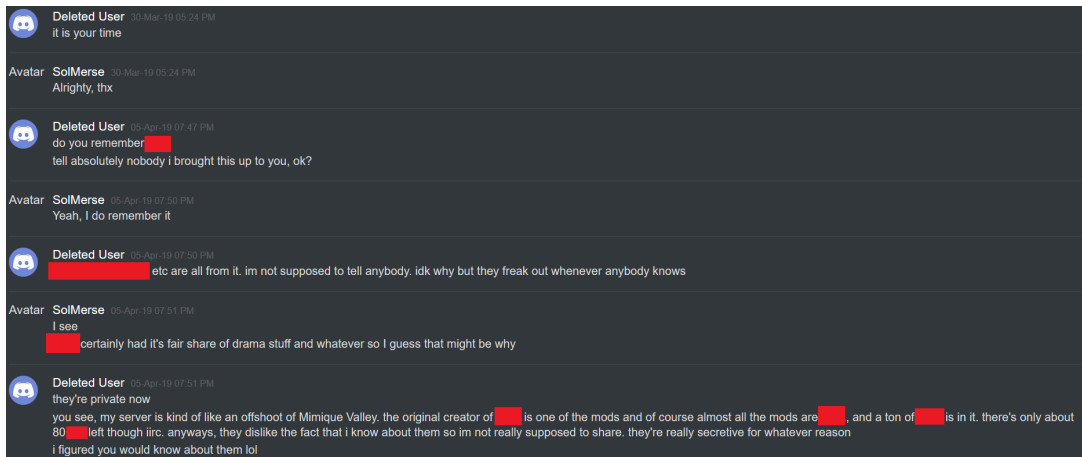

What ill admit is that I have been physically abusive in the past. Years ago. I stopped that though, but my point here is that my gf is not a bad person

She stuck with me even after I broke her bones once

And I'll admit I fee fucking awful about my past tbh

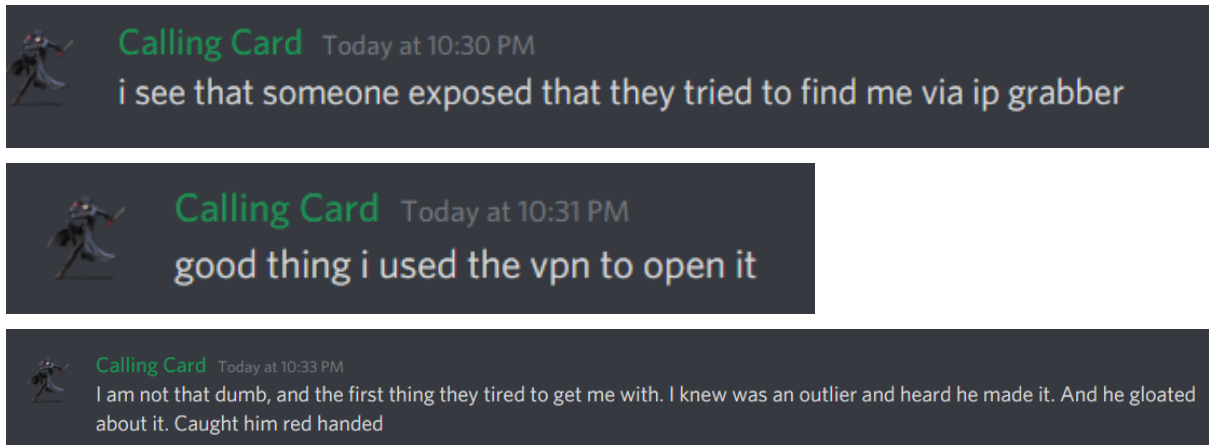

(Oh boy we'll get to that bones part later)

Sabi says that he feels "fucking awful" about his past, but I don't think it's nearly as old as he would say. Back in early 2019, Sabi enquired incredibly heavily in the identities and past of several of their staff members, despite the fact that many of them explicitly have said that the group they were in was one to not look into. Take a look.

This was what was being discussed for a month. A whole month of stalking.

Less than 20 minutes ago Sabi also tried to find out where Calling Card is located.

Seems like a fun hobby of his.

Narwhal

You've already seen some examples of Sabi's harassment earlier in this document, but it would be a good idea to delve more into that here. Let's start with a recent victim, known as Narwhal. Narwhal is a young user who during the time as Sabi Squad was a Moderator for the team. Narwhal is like most ex-mods of Sabi Squad who have quite a lot of negative to say about Sabi Squad, usually on the hierarchy of the server or the management. Sabi has quite obviously taken an anti-ex mod stance; anybody who's been in Fanged Pickle would know this. Narwhal was affected very very heavily by Sabi, so when Sabi is brought up in Forest Maze for example, it can get to him sometimes. Sabi knows this very well, but it didn't stop him from posting about Narwhal like this on Twitter:

Any Sabi Squad moderator would know that Narwhal is one of the more sensitive Mods, and despite this, despite the fact that Sabi knew a tweet like this would incite ridicule and perhaps even targeting of Narwhal, Sabi was okay with that. Sabi was even okay with a reply that said that Narwhal would "get what's coming to him". It's an unacceptable way to treat somebody who is so young, sensitive, and for a time was so devoted to being a good member of your team. Sabi admits it himself that Narwhal really really wanted to be a mod. It's just disgusting. Narwhal never ever had to reach out to support Sabi, but he did because he gave a shit, about his community. It's a damn shame the feeling wasn't mutual.

This also came months after an exchange that Sabi had had with Narwhal, where these things are made very clear to Sabi. You will also notice Sabi will attempt some gaslighting of Narwhal here:

sabi 02/01/2020

Why would you say this sort of stuff about somebody who considered you a friend?

Narwhal aka The Pastebin... Last Thursday at 5:15 PM

Unfortunately Sabi is creditable and has sources worth listing to However personally I think Sabi can fuck right off

I'm at a loss

TheRandomNarwhal 02/01/2020

ill lost all respect for you

i tried to be nice

but frankly

Probably bullshit gossip tbh
Just curious what people are claiming lol its her problems are going to over take your

and she refuses to get it shes going to get worse

sabi 02/01/2020

But why are you mad at me

i just

i couldnt handle the personal feelings of the drama got to me

i just feel like im seeing the same thing that happened to me

and im worried dude

your a good person

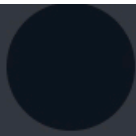

and i dont want you to get the bad end of someone who refuses to get help

sabi 02/01/2020

Can you tell me something, I don't think it has a lot to do with you so I think it's fair for me to ask.

My relationship has been dramatically better since I got rid of the server. The previous server and some other things drastically affected my relationship for nearly a year and it's finally been back to how it was years ago. It's not that the people in the old server specifically caused it to be that way, but the constant attention and stress involved with it. Also something else that was major changed which made it much more balanced, but that's unrelated. So, anyways, since I haven't even really talked to hardly anybody from before for nearly a month now, what do you mean by drama? Frankly some stuff lately has made it seem to me like there's a ton of gossip still despite me not participating with hardly anybody anymore

The people I've asked who I AM still close with didn't see any of this discussed in the servers that they are in and basically have no idea why it happened. In fact they've told me the impression they got was old people forgot about me and there is no drama, but I know they also aren't close with many of the old mods so maybe that's why. And since it seems planned, i.e. in the case where multiple people ([REDACTED] and [REDACTED] and another person) ping me with the same meme repeatedly, it seems like certain people are talking in groups privately just about me?

That is where my problem is You'll even see that Sabi has the gall to act confused as to why Narwhal feels the way he does toward him. He never has felt the need to do some genuine reflection on himself. One thing is very clear about why Sabi is doing this, he views servers as a competition. He's mad that somebody who used to be a moderator for him now is an active user of what he interprets as a "competing" server, I don't think Forest Maze mods would agree that Sabi Squad would be described as a competitor. Look at how Sabi treats a once VERY active user in Sabi Squad because they now use Forest Maze a lot of the time

Deleted User 2fc67c3b 06/28/2020

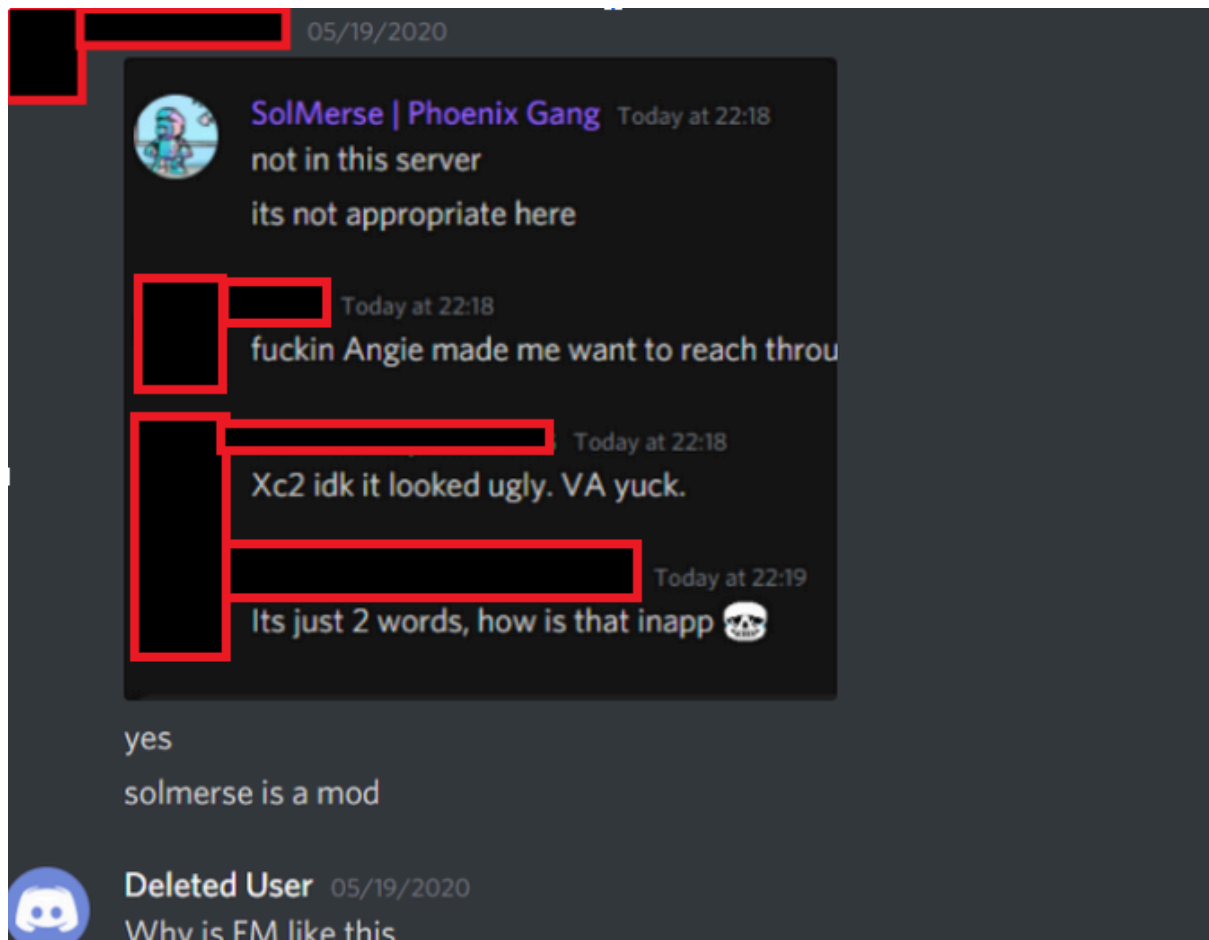

Match made in hell

GOD [REDACTED] moving to fm is the worst thing ever

Here's another instance of him making a post in Fanged Pickle because a screenshot of Forest Maze was posted that had Narwhal in it:

Here's how he reacted to learning that SolMerse became a Forest Maze Moderator

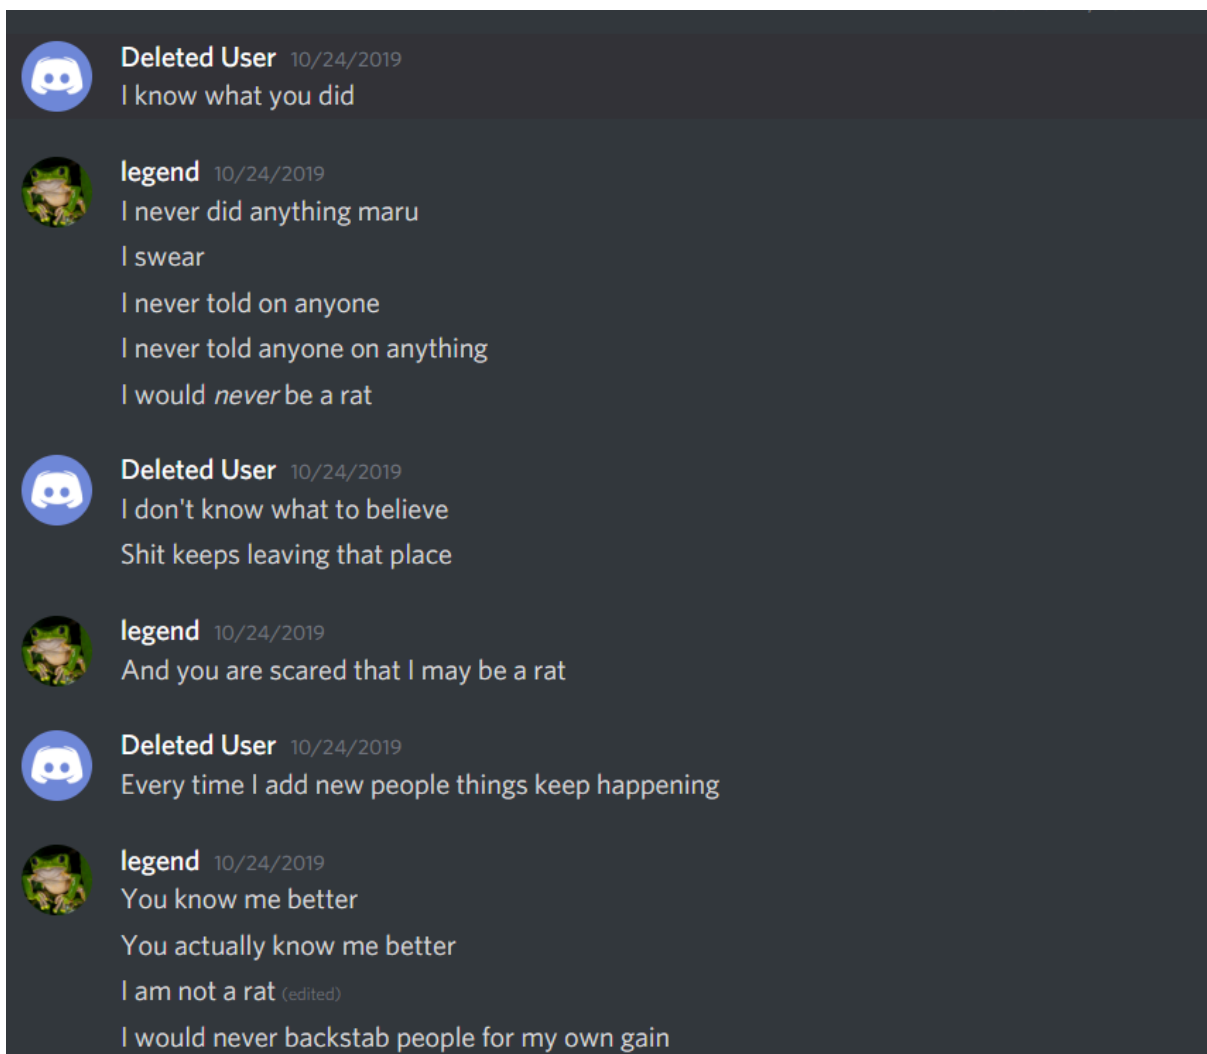

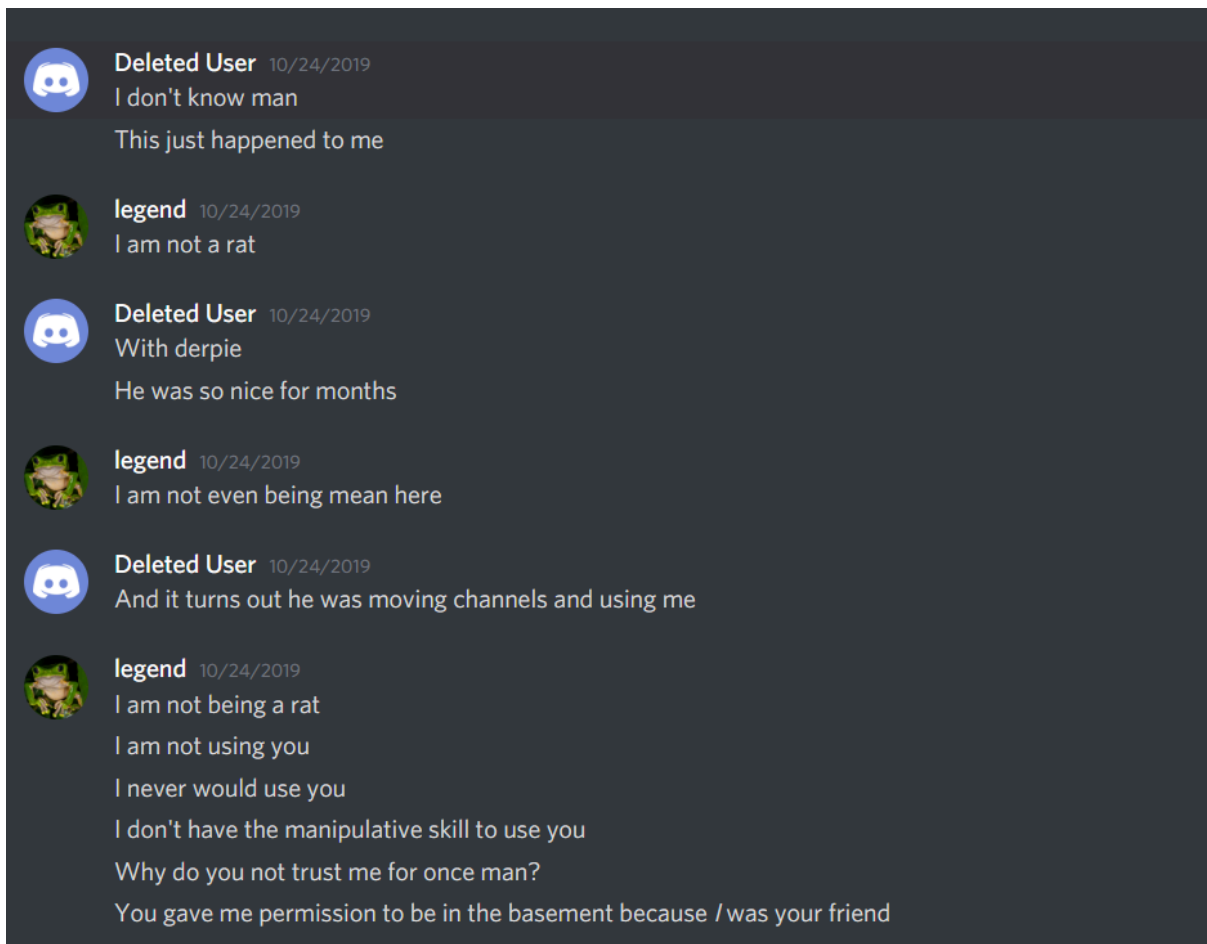

It's just a warped sense of loyalty that he has, he can't help but view things as a competition, he hates seeing these things as it reminds him that people that had once liked, respected, and trusted him had now left him for the misdeeds that he has done. It's something that he hates to be reminded of. It's narcissistic and gross that he can do backstabbing like this on a whim, and this incident with Narwhal is a clear example of that.

The Turb0k Incident

Sabi Squad had a channel called Maru's Basement. Maru's Basement is a channel that was basically Maru's domain. Sabi Squad was owned by Sabi and Maru, and Maru wanted her own space where the moderators did not really have any control over it and that it was basically a separate entity from the server. You may be wondering why Maru didn't just settle for having her own server... Every mod in the team wondered that too. Aside from that though, an incident occurred with this channel. A screenshot of the channel had leaked. This really bothered Maru, she wanted her channel to be private. Sabi ordered, and in retrospect this is a very odd thing to do, that every single person in the Maru's Basement channel was to take a screenshot on their phone. In the leaked screenshot the bar at the top of the phone was visible, so Sabi felt like if they could just find whoever that matches with, it would be easy to find.

When this first started, Sabi & Maru's paranoia ended up hurting the team. Members of staff even got kicked just for being suspects, it was a big mess. Here are screenshots of the exchange that Maru had with Moderator Legend after he got kicked for being a potential subject for screenshotting images.

In the end with their screenshot scavenger hunt, it matched with Moderator Turb0k. So an interrogation of Turb0k began. Turb0k denied it every step of the way, not knowing what he did wrong. Some people can lie well, but a lot of the staff members felt really uncomfortable about the interrogation. Turb0k didn't look like a liar, and it looked almost as though he was horrified by the situation he now found himself in. He said he was shaking because of it at work, it must be so scary to become the witch that's hunted. It turns out the situation was for naught, as it was just a misunderstanding Sabi had with a post made by another user. This could have very easily been prevented. But this situation shows the harassment Sabi is okay with, propagated by his rampant paranoia and his lack of empathy toward users that he targets.

Here are screenshots that show the mindset Sabi had during this ordeal.

 Deleted User 10/24/2019
i should probably ban turbOk when the time comes. he's been trying to play us like a fiddle all day even after being modded

 10/24/2019
I don't think that accomplishes anything if I'm gonna be honest with you
At the end of the day that's just more ways to try to brush it off instead of moving forward with a healthier mindset
I think you should def talk to him about better ways of confrontation and considering victims consent
Maybe unmod and remove from basement but banning just means the priority was the tweet instead of making things right
It speaks more on you than it does him

 Deleted User 10/24/2019
The banning is mostly just because of leaking Marus basement and hiding it all day, similar to what  did. But yes just removing basement and mod works similar to

 10/24/2019
I promise you
The best thing to do is look at this even t beyond urself
You need to consider why people are mad and why TurbOk would jump thru the hoops and then you'll get more out of it so these things don't happen again whatever u do with turbo fine but turbo is not even close to the root issue here (edited)

 Deleted User 10/25/2019
I am grateful for your advice

 10/25/2019
Glad u took it to heart

 Deleted User 10/25/2019
TurbOk is lying to us. Still Wtf
He says he doesn't know why his image is higher quality

 10/25/2019
Idk what you mean cause I'm not in server

 Deleted User 10/25/2019
I mean
We put turbOk in court
Asking him about the tweets
And he's saying he doesn't know WHY his screenshot from the basement doesn't match the quality of the tweeted image
Basically, you know how the callout has a screenshot from the basement?
He has a version of that screenshot that's higher quality than the version that was tweeted
He's claiming he really did save it from twitter and doesn't know HOW it's higher quality

 10/25/2019
I mean it is what it is right

 Deleted User 10/25/2019
Okay he just proved it
Sad
Solmerse did some tests
He was asked to provide a filename for the high quality image
It was SCREENSHOT_numbers
And solmerse tested what happens if you save a screenshot that was posted on twitter
If you save the screenshot from twitter, it comes up as IMG_numbers
So....
He definitely didn't get that image from twitter

Notice how quickly Sabi disregards something that goes against his narrative in this image.

I also just noticed it's saved to his screenshots folder

  10/25/2019
It's not worth it man
this is the same shit that happened with the channel moving

 Deleted User 10/25/2019
It sounds like he's being banned in  and my server

  10/25/2019
it's he said she said
Why ban him from  ???

 Deleted User 10/25/2019
It's definitive now
Well
 is extremely pissed off
That he is still denying it
Even though he just damned himself

  10/25/2019
I'm not involved
but it would be fucked
to remove him from a community he loves and participates in because of something in a diff server
and if ur doing this it only makes what happened worse
I really hate thinking of things in terms of preventing callouts but imagine hedidn't do it or even if he did

 Deleted User 10/25/2019
No, I don't use

  10/25/2019
he'd be getting isolated for trying to get an apology that looks TERRIBLE on ur part more than it does his
I hate that kind of mentality because i think it's more about doing what's right
But consider ur platform consider a community ur fostering people will find that shit bad
if you ban him from ss it's already looks like you're just trying to wipe shit under the rug if he gets banned from  ?
that's even worse

  10/25/2019
I heard what happened

 Deleted User 10/25/2019
With eggplanet? I know, I'm so mad

  10/25/2019
Why man

 Deleted User 10/25/2019
I was misled this entire time

  10/25/2019
Why did y'all drill him so hard tho
Dude was deadass telling me he was shaking at work

 Deleted User 10/25/2019
Because we thought t was him
Based on our intel
We had no idea what we were told was incorrect

(It was not the last time something like this happened)

Sabi did not see an issue with this situation at all, even when staff members told him such. It was disgusting. It's also emblematic of the issues that you see persist with Sabi again and again. You will be reminded of this incident later on because it's very easy to identify these flawed patterns that Sabi has.

It's not an isolated pattern either, so often you will find that Sabi is quick to judge without considering if there's something else to things, if it's the right thing to do. Ask any moderator how one would easily be able to define Sabi in one word, "gung-ho" will come up first. Just as Sabi decided to insta-ban a user for posting a weird loli joke (Not good but definitely not ban material), while doing:

It's hypocrisy at the highest level, and it's something that you see reverberate with how Sabi treats others all the time.

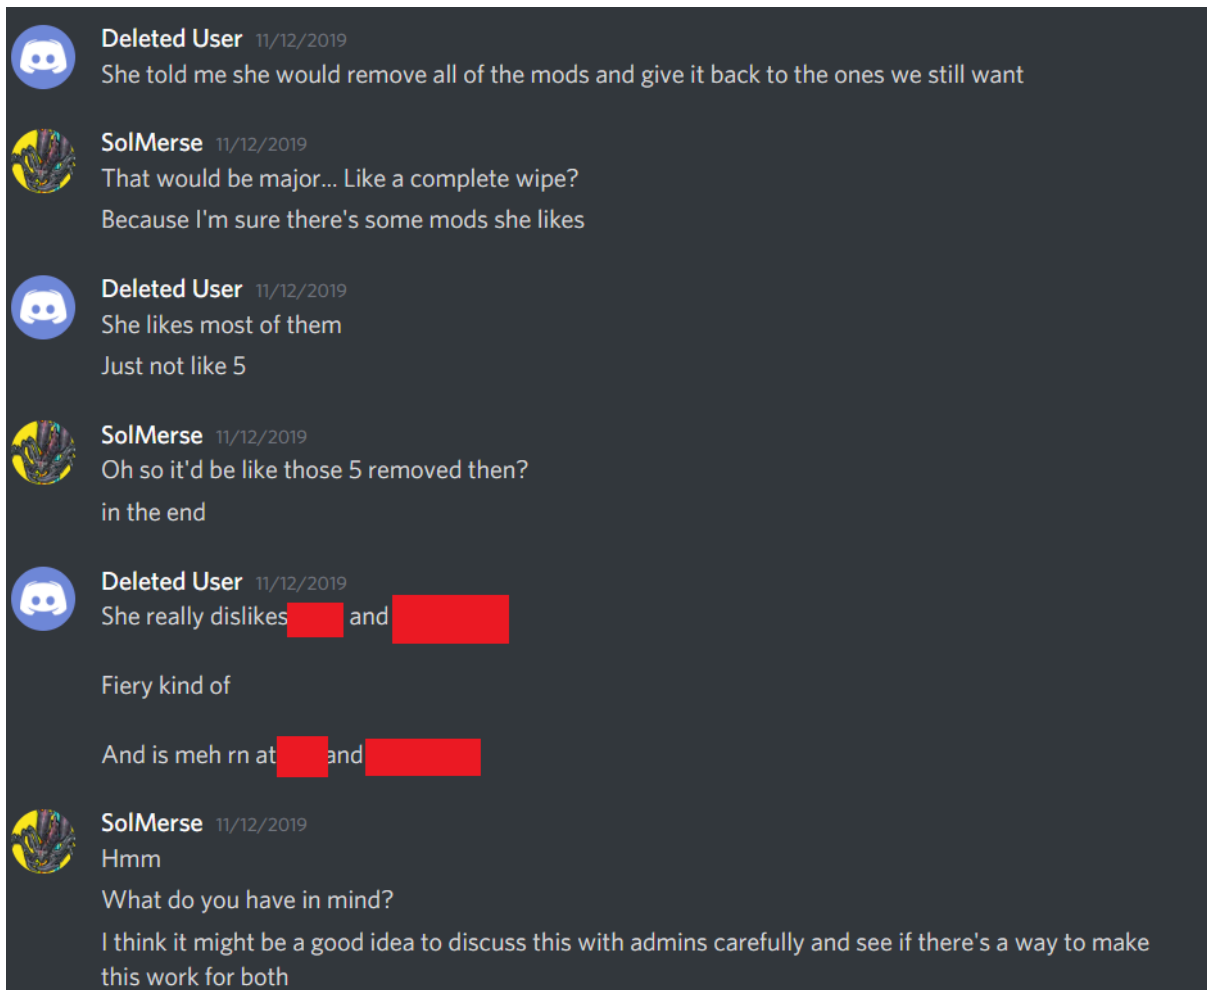

The Moving of Maru's Basement

When a staff member becomes an Admin, that's a big thing, something to be celebrated and something where that person begins work on their new increased responsibilities in the server. Less than an hour after an Admin promotion of SolMerse, something wasn't right. The staff team was noticing that the Maru's Basement channel was moving very often, and it even increased when this was brought up in the Moderation channel. That seemed very odd, and apparently this has been happening in some way for over the past few months. It's easy to accidentally move channels on Discord, but what happened here seemed intentional; it was only Maru's Basement being moved. Maru and the rest just said to cut the joke out but it continued, despite Maru's protests. It had seemed whomever was doing this was doing it specifically to bother Maru. One major factor that makes this situation so much harder is that moving channels was not something you could see in the Audit Log, a log of most staff activities on Discord. This means that it would be very tough to find out who was doing this. It was starting to really aggravate Maru and the staff team wanted to get to the bottom of this quickly.

So began another one of Sabi's infamous witch hunts, instead of having the team and the new Admin especially be able to improve their skills as mods, full focus was on solving this channel moving issue. Sabi began running several tests on who it could be, accusing more than a few people of doing it on baseless theories. But ultimately the user who was accused, who shall remain anonymous of it, didn't make sense. They couldn't have moved the channels because they passed the tests that Sabi had set up. Sabi was doing something to ensure that it looked like they did it. Although not confirmed, signs seem to point most at the idea that this entire issue was set up by Sabi and/or Maru to oust this one Mod from the team, basically making them get kicked or having the situation be so annoying that they'd just wanna leave on their own terms. This looked fishy to many other users, and many affiliated users left after this incident. This could have also fit into the Manipulation section of this document, but it clearly lays out how Sabi seems to not care for fairness, and would much rather do things his way. Even worse is that the mod that Sabi was targeting was the very same one Sabi was trying to stalk on in early to mid 2019.

The Mod Purge

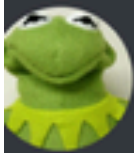

The Mod Purge is one of the most significant catalysts of the beginning of the end of Sabi Squad. There was always this divide between what Sabi Squad ought to become in the team. Most staff members were of the belief that Sabi Squad was to be the best speculation and leaks Discord server, that was their goal. But the goal of Sabi and Maru wasn't as big as that, they didn't necessarily want that to be what it became and they wanted a more chill and smaller-scope place, one that wouldn't be as strict on rules. So you would often find big disagreements between the core Staff team and the top 2 rulers of the server. Maru is not a big fan of people disagreeing with her, and Sabi isn't a big fan of this either. So it was clear that Maru did not like many of the mods. So Maru had a plan, one that Sabi detailed to SolMerse before the purge.

The plan was to demote/ban major members of the Staff because Maru didn't like them, eventually this would turn into the majority of the Staff Team as you'll see later. This suggested discussion with Admins did not happen, although SolMerse and Gov didn't quite know it yet, this was inevitable. This issue was escalated unfortunately when Sabi & Maru didn't have a good response to them being confronted for shit-talking members of the staff team in another server. When you're in a Discord staff team it's easy to feel like they're a family of yours, it hurts a lot to see them kinda hate you and not tell you.

After this was all brought up, the team was talking in a respectful and productive manner on what to do about this, on trust, honesty, transparency, respect: Important tenets of a team that Sabi & Maru did not have.

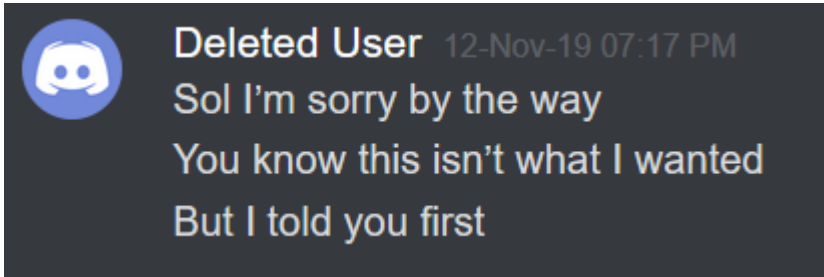

But then Maru came online...

And with Maru saying “Get the fuck out”, they were gone. No conversation, nothing. You mustn’t criticize Sabi or Maru or else you’ll get banned. You were disposable if you were a Mod, and you had to be okay with that. It was absolutely disgusting, some mods and Admins did survive the Mod Purge but can you really blame any of the staff for being afraid to speak out against Sabi & Maru after this? One thing was clear though, in our heads we all thought the same thing: This was very, very wrong.

Sabi claims to feel bad about it all the time.

But he never, EVER needed to let it happen. He had the power to stop this and basically every single problem with the server that involved the staff, but he stood idly by. He says he cares so much but his actions don't seem to match his words. It's pathetic.

Backstabbing

Backstabbing sources

You may have noticed by now that many of the misdeeds committed by Sabi tend to be to people you wouldn't expect somebody to do a misdeed to. They are very often of the people that Sabi has as good friends and uses for important things for Sabi. And what is more important to Sabi's very image online than his sources, what got him where he was in the first place.

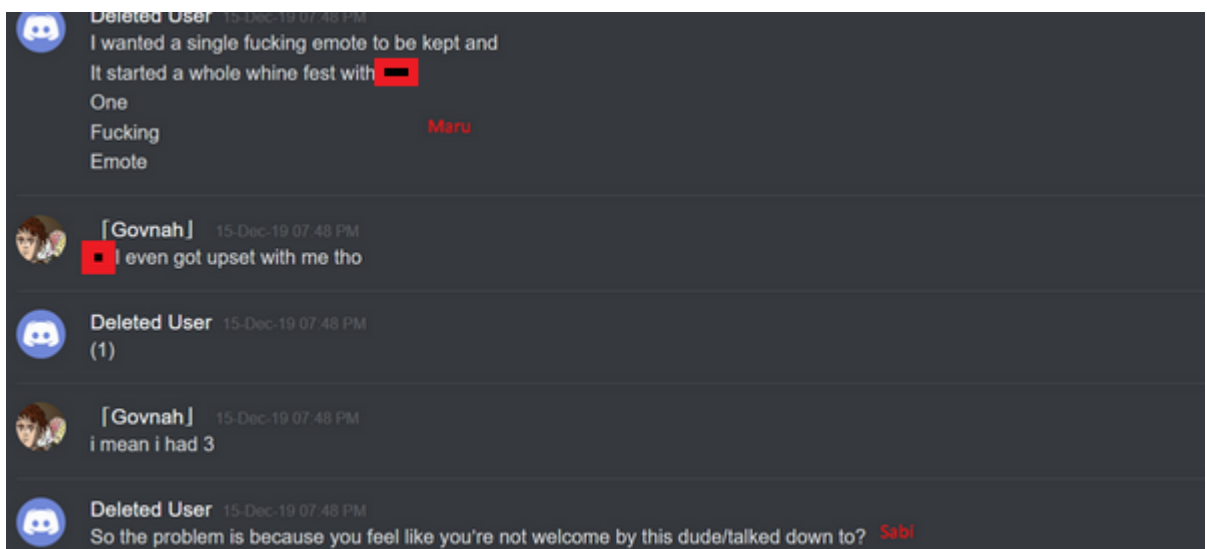

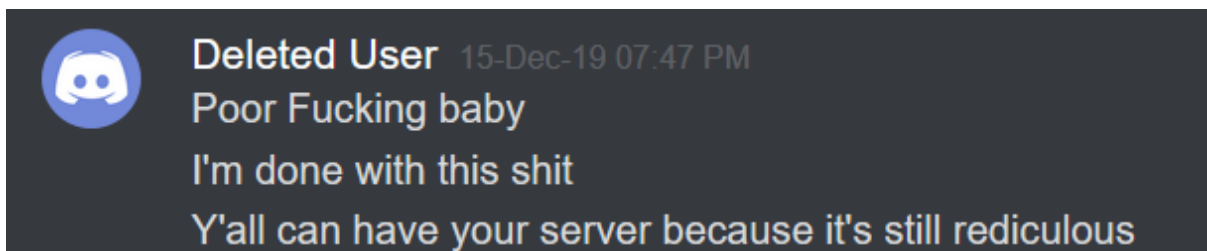

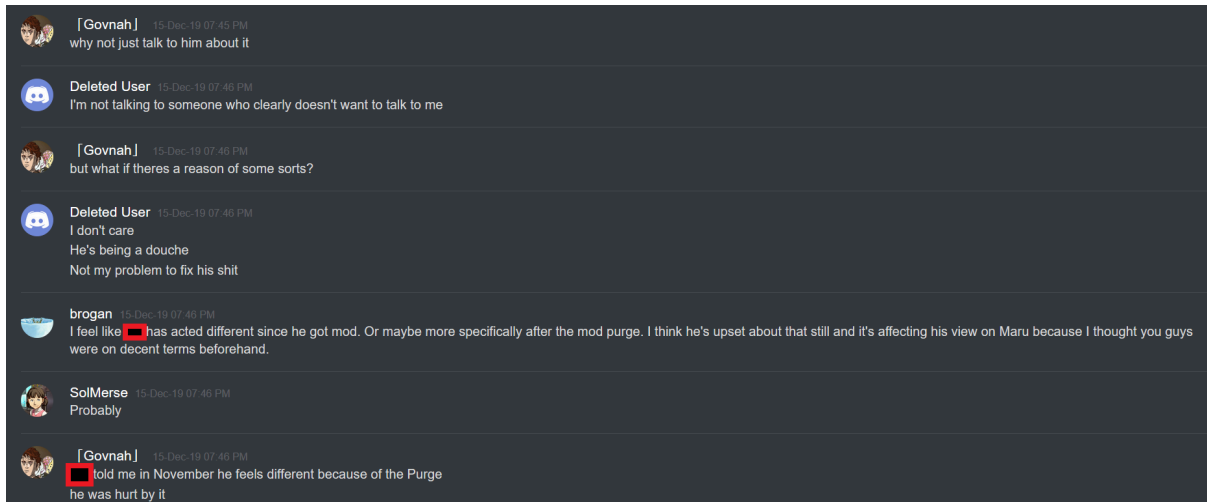

In February of 2020, Nintendo Lawyers had gone to Sabi's home. If you were really deep into the speculating community and of the common leakers of the time, you will notice that these leakers kind of became significantly more quiet with the onset of Spring. This event is why. When the Lawyers came to Sabi, Sabi basically ratted out the sources he knew, even though he didn't really have to do that. Of the people that we know for sure that he ratted out, NanaKarobi and Zippo at the very least were people Sabi ratted out, there may be potentially more.

There's also general negligence on the side of Sabi in this, and how when he screws up things for others, he does nothing to support them. Sabi once got his Nintendo of America source ratted out because of his own negligence. A post from late 2018 was dug up from the Forest Maze Discord server, in which Sabi for no reason at all said who his Nintendo of America source was. This was little known information in 2019 and 2020, so when this was dug up it was big news. To put it simply since the NoA source hasn't been contacted for this document, it kinda messed some things up for them and got Nintendo more on their case, which sucks. Sabi didn't really do much to help him through this situation, not even really saying sorry or trying to support them.

The anger from the source is pretty understandable then, imagine having something happen to you that would put your money on the line all because of some dumb negligent post that was made revealing the worst possible secret that could be revealed about you. Sabi didn't really seem to care about this, and just moved on. Despite the fact that these people built Sabi up into becoming who he is, he saw them as disposable.

“Internet Janitor”

You may wonder how business is conducted at a staff level in Sabi Squad, here’s a good example of how inconsiderate it can be at times. There was a moderator that will be left unnamed that Maru really, really didn’t like. Maru just felt that this person was being really passive-aggressive toward her, and she didn’t know why. The team noticed a rift between them and wanted a resolution, so a group DM was made on the matter.

Sabi and Maru don't really seem to consider that perhaps their actions have hurt others and have affected them in a different way than they would have expected (though the reaction to the Mod Purge was obvious). In fact Maru straight up says in those images that she "doesn't care" if he feels bad about it, and she has no interest in making things right with the issue other than to complain or get him taken down. Then Sabi suggests...

A ban?! Seriously?

Deleted User 15-Dec-19 08:06 PM

SolMerse 15-Dec-19 08:07 PM

It means a lot to them

Deleted User 15-Dec-19 08:07 PM

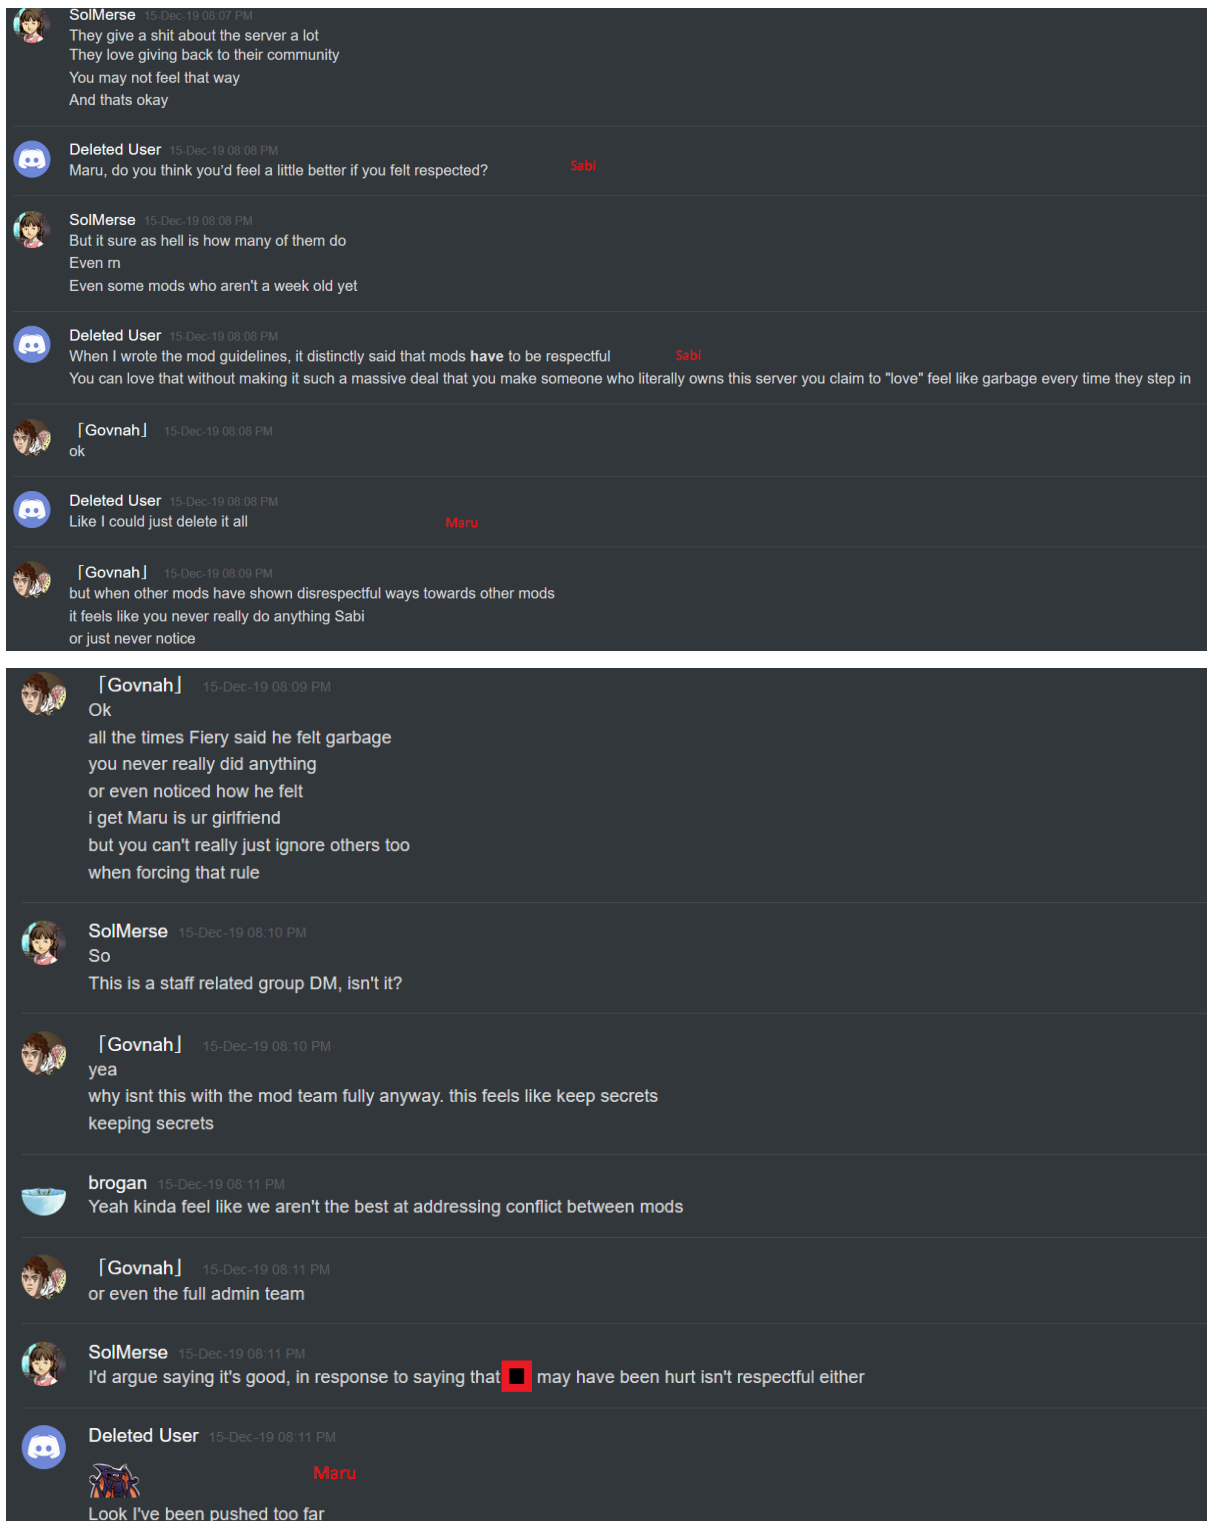

Like they treat this like a job

But then when they get fired like a real job

Oh woe is meee

C'mon

Maru

Gross. Maru nor Sabi seem to understand at all that this was a community of 5000 people that they all cherished and wanted to help, that's why they joined the staff team in the first place. Sure in the grand scheme of the world it may not seem huge, but in their world it may be huge. But Sabi & Maru refuse to consider how others view the world, and the world for others to them must conform to how they see things. Which is that people are easily disposable if need be. It's disgusting. It's emblematic of who they are.

Abuse

Sabi has a long history of abuse that continues to this day, both physical and emotional. You could honestly argue that a lot of the stuff here ended up being emotional abuse in the end, the Mod Purge for example did cause some deep mental scars for some folks. The most significant example of this relates to his girlfriend however, somebody who he has been with for a decade. You saw a piece of this already with the Group DMs from the early parts of this document. The emotional and physical scars of this relationship are blatantly clear, these two should NOT be together.

Witnesses of this abuse are all over the place, practically every single Sabi Squad Moderator and Fanged Pickle Moderator has seen the abuse between Sabi and Maru time and time again. For some Sabi Squad Moderators it was like a daily offense, everyday you had to be a moderator by day and Canadian Therapist by night. The toll this took on individuals was large, if you didn't involve yourself in the personal matters of Sabi and Maru you would end up being thought of as somebody who doesn't really care about them, it would place you in a negative light to them, although you didn't know this when you signed up on the team, this is the kind of thing that's on the job description for Sabi & Maru.

Sabi & Maru are both abusers to each other, Sabi enables Maru and Maru enables Sabi, and their dynamics are so locked in key that despite the fact that they're fighting all the time they can never seem to actually leave each other, even though both have acknowledged in the best that the best path forward for themselves and their relationship is to just leave each other.

You'll notice that people are so well-informed about the irl issues of Sabi and Maru that events are basically occurring right in front of them, it was always a bizarre observation that they would often fight in Discord channels while being in the same room. These feelings are certainly real to some extent but to another extent there is certainly a performative angle to it for them, they want, or perhaps need, somebody to be watching over their issues, guiding them and telling them what to do even though they'll never ever follow said advice. Regardless, this is the reality that Sabi & Maru live in everyday, and the reality that so many people had to be dragged into even though they never wanted to be. That was the catch, the sacrifice you needed to take if you wanted to be their friends.

Hi there. I first met Sabi on my 17th birthday, it was the day Sabi Squad also began. Sabi seemed to quickly take a liking to me, I was so willing to speak about a group that I was involved with that some others weren't comfortable talking about. I wasn't really aware that others felt like this so I felt like detailing my personal experiences was okay, it's clear though that Sabi saw this as a valuable asset to him. That my knowledge could be used by him as a way to harass and stalk other people. Had I known this at the time I would have stopped my involvement with him immediately. But I kept on going.

I was surprised at how conversational Sabi was, pleasantly surprised. Here I am talking to a big leaker man just as if he was one of my regular friends. That was something that I appreciated so much, I had now gained a new friend, and they can tell me insider shit before everybody else. Cool, huh? When Fire Emblem Three Houses was being leaked, he told me all about that, we had fun conversations getting to know him like that. I was also an active user of Sabi Squad. I loved the community, I wanted to do whatever I could for the community. So I filled out a Mod Application, and Sabi vouched for me in a way that I don't think he has for very many other mods. That made me so happy. So I became Mod. This also meant that I had to be introduced to Maru. I never quite understood Maru's role, in fact I didn't even know they were Sabi's girlfriend, but apparently they share ownership with Sabi on the server. The team was great, so many people there who I knew cared about the community just as I did. We went through E3 together, which was a great success for us all. But after E3 things started to become apparent to me that would be emblematic of the future of Sabi Squad, and my friendship with Sabi, going forward.

One thing was very clear about being a Moderator in Sabi Squad: Being a moderator means half-moderating Leaks-Spec, and half being Sabi & Maru's therapist. It felt like at least every other day instead of focusing on the server that I wanted to focus on, we had to focus on dealing with some dumb drama with Sabi and Maru. Now I think I'm a pretty sympathetic guy, and I cared for Sabi so I wanted to give him as much help as I could. So for over a half a year most of my DMs came to help Sabi with whatever. Whether it's some health scare, irl issues, online drama; I gave as much guidance as I could and I wanted to see Sabi's quality of life improve. I gave him so many chances, so many benefits of the doubt. So you can imagine how much it hurt when things like the Mod Purge happened, which to me made me feel like we were all just disposable tools. You can imagine how much it hurt when I realized that Sabi didn't have much empathy at all, that he just seemed to never, ever listen. At the very least I wanted him to be honest, at least say you want to do things your way, that you don't really care what we have to say all that much. I would have had a much easier time with that than just trying to make it seem like it's just oopsie after oopsie. It hurt me so much, but I kept pushing through despite all this pent-up emotion because I cared. I didn't care that it hurt because I cared about you more, Sabi. Now I think I realize that the only thing I can really do to to make things right is to just get all this out there, to help those who have been hurt, but at the same time this document may be the only thing that could actually get Sabi to stop fucking manipulating people and to get the help that I wanted him to get for over a year now. Honestly knowing Sabi I doubt it, I doubt he will finally do the right thing for himself and everybody, but even this document itself is me taking one, final chance on him. But this chance isn't going to put up with bullshit. Not anymore.

PapaGenos Today at 12:46 PM

I guess I just don't like stuff being kept secret anymore (not the time to hide things), some people are aware of this already anyway but here's my big secret: A huge amount of what sabi is famous for leaking is just stuff from me (that I had no intention of publicly leaking) that they decided to go public with. Probably 90%+ of "Sabi leaks E3" was just VR Plant info I shared with them that they then proceeded to dangerously make a giant game of Leaking on Twitter. Sabi was someone with some minor connections before E3 that year. we were sharing what rumors/leaks we had heard with each other for a couple months leading up to E3. This was around the time VR Plant contacted me. During E3 VR Plant knew nearly everything and I shared what I heard with sabi (as we had been sharing everything already to see what info lines up) but I did not know they were going to go ahead and leak it all on Twitter. I never told sabi who VR Plant was but I did explain how they were getting the info, which sabi ended up telling people in his discord despite promising me they'd keep that a secret. Again luckily sabi never had direct contact with VR Plant and couldn't out them directly. Leaking E3 was basically what put sabi on the map as "the leaker" and made people trust their leaks as gospel but it was all just stuff from me and VR Plant. I wasn't foolish enough to think leaking all of E3 would be a good idea myself.

Sabi got a ton of notoriety from doing this and that's when many other people with info/connections starts talking to sabi and sharing what they heard. Over time sabi threw people/connections under the bus when it was convenient and lost trust with a ton of people and put some people with connections in dangerous positions of being outted (I've also heard people's jobs were endangered or lost but I do not know that for certain). many of the people who had problems with sabi contacted me about issues with sabi but I've tried to be a forgiving person whenever sabi broke promises and keep things civil the whole time. This was mostly for the "good" of keeping the flow of rumors open but I've been regretful that I trusted sabi so much and basically got in "too deep" to turn back so it's been an issue the whole time dealing with them and I just kept hoping they'd start handling things better in the future but they never seem to grow and change or take any of this seriously. TLDR I'm basically responsible for creating sabi as a credible leaker, sabi is essentially famous for leaking E3 but it was entirely info they got from me that I got from VR Plant and didn't expect sabi to proceed to leak it all on Twitter.

These are the messages I sent to Sabi on Twitter. The short of it is he has always gotten away with bending the rules as an affiliate here, and I don't hear anything good about him. Its always about what's going wrong with Sabi, or them tearing down their own Discord, bullying Memory Man (even though Memory Man was causing issues here too, it wasn't okay what they did), and after the Twitter comments I said to admins "why the fuck are we affiliated with Sabi?"

So I pulled the trigger on that call, I don't want Sabi to come back. It was after he made the "FM is North Korea" tweet he either made or reposted. I sent the screenshots ill pin in a moment asking him to leave us alone. The first message was just to have him stop. But he kept making jokes about it and having his users go after us. As well as making false claims or stretched claims about Paragon, which Paragon has now addressed. I sent one more message to make things a bit more clear. He responded with his reasoning and that he would leave us alone. And that never actually happened.

But then they kept going after Paragon, instead of bringing it to him directly or out directly. And now Sabi is making a huge deal on Twitter about Paragon during one of the most sensitive and difficult times.

Legend

Hello. This is my experience with Sabi, Sabi Squad and all of the events that happened during this period and after. I will talk about absolutely everything that has happened during this time from me being a blue to becoming a mod to my eventual ban.

I first heard the name Sabi when he was under the alias "PolarPanda" during late 2018. Sabi was the inventor of the blog theory which I believed for a time and I really had no coordination with Sabi. I really began talking to Sabi around February 2019 when I was asking Sabi for info.

The relationship with Sabi was mostly information based at the time and I was talking to him about leaks at this time mostly. I was also a regular in Forest Maze at the time which was awful back in the day in my opinion. I then heard about a server named Sabi Squad and I joined that.

The server was a great alternative for me. It didn't have idiotic users and it was a lot more lenient at the time. There were also no insane debates back then, sure you had your standard Banjo vs Steve or Erdrick vs Sora debates but they weren't that obnoxious. The mod team was also good at its job and there seemed to be no divisions. I was trying to act as a very good user in that chat. I could notice some of the problems of the server even from that while back though. The server structure really praised boosters and gave them their own chat and there was prejudice against regulars and newcomers which were purples and blues respectfully. I tended to talk to Sabi about video games. We both shat on the Stadia and discussed things like the Paraleak and overall video games. I thought Sabi was a good guy back then since he supported me with some drama which involved a bunch of someone's folk harassing me. I felt like I could trust Sabi and Sabi could trust me.

Things began turning around however during this time around August-September, even when I didn't notice this at first but found everything out after becoming mod. The mod team wasn't stable after E3. There has been a series of incidents from around August time to December and I'll detail them from start to finish. I'll talk about these incidents and then I'll talk about my tenure with Maru as well. Okay, here we go. The very first major event that led to the collapse of the whole server was a series of events which involved channel moving. The owners blamed the channel moving on a Sabi Squad admin which I won't name out of respect since they wanted to stay anonymous. They harassed her over and over based on flimsy evidence and she really had nothing to do with channel moving. Hell, ex Sabi Squad mods figured it was probably Maru or Sabi that did it just to cut ties with the admin in question. This points out the first issue I had with Sabi. He is way too gullible and easy to bait. He will believe absolutely anything, could believe in a false narrative and try to destroy people without giving a fuck about anything. Sabi wanted the admin to come back but she was too stressed to come back and Sabi just let it go. This caused a big rift in the mod team from what I remember. Things wouldn't be the same afterward. Everything became quiet after that for a while, September came and went and there was some sort of normality. Unless you were a regular in the basement but I'll talk about the basement later. The second major incident happened in late October. Us ex Sabi Squad mods refer to this as the Turb0k incident. I'll explain. For context, Turb0k is a good friend of mine who was promoted mod and who was the main victim in this. For the record, I am so sorry Turb0k that I ever doubted you in this situation, it was super stupid and it was a detractor for all of us.

So Maru and Sabi caught on that there was someone taking screenshots in the basement chat which obviously pissed them off and posting them on twitter under the name Isaac. So they began investigating. I was kicked from Sabi Squad and questioned by a paranoid Maru who could've easily banned me on the spot. Eggplanet suggested this to Maru so she questioned me. I begged her to let me go and that I did nothing and she believed me somehow. She let me back in and gave me back my perms and invited me to a group DM. The mods were absolutely pissed about this because they were powerless in this situation and knew I did nothing wrong. I never got an apology for this. So the investigation continued. Someone in the DM group had a fantastic idea to screenshot the tab bar on the top of your phone so they demanded everyone to screenshot the bars until we found the person. Turb0k happened to have the same/very identical tab as the user in question and so they interrogated Turb0k since he had a HD version of the screenshot. This was a very rushed out and an unjust decision in retrospect and it killed morale even further in the server. Sabi also made fun of a user called memoryman3 before this, calling him transphobic insults which is a second thing I have a problem with. This man is racist and a transphobe. He mocked MM3 for saying transphobic shit and Sabi harassed people for being Muslims as you probably saw in the document. It turned out that the whole investigation was all for nothing. This was the beginning of the end for Sabi Squad.

Following this, mods have begun leaving the server en masse. By this point, I was promoted to a moderation position and I looked back on what happened in mod chat and I got what I posted above mostly from that and talking to mods. A document regarding a Sabi Squad mod whom I won't mention their name for anonymity released soon after my promotion. This was the third strike you can say. This person stood up against Sabi and Maru and what they did because he was too disgusted with what happened and a lot of mods were disgusted with this behaviour. I tried moderating the server as normal but everyday it looked gloomier and gloomier. And then the mod purge happened. Sabi went on a break (He was still online) and Maru took over the server. She wanted to wipe out every mod except the ones closest to her and she did what she wanted. This unfortunately included me. She abused her power just to get rid of people she didn't like and she shittalked these people behind their backs. This was a third issue with Sabi and the one I will emphasise with the next paragraph, his girlfriend and how she was manipulative and power abusive. She was given too much power and should've gone. While I never saw the Sabi Squad deletion in my own eyes, I knew it happened based on other mods who were in a mod reunion server an admin made. I feel all in all, Sabi Squad's deletion was inevitable due to two people, Sabi and Maru. They both share a cult of personalities around everyone they surround themselves with and abuse their power for self gain. Sabi Squad was poorly handled since E3 and Sabi never consulted the mods in any of the decisions. This all could've been prevented but Sabi didn't care, he doesn't care about his friends, he only truly cared about himself and his own interests.

I'll dedicate this paragraph to Maru and her basement chat because oh boy. Maru is a manipulative and an abusive person and anyone who got to know her well could see this. Don't feel pity for Maru because she was a victim of Sabi's for a single second. She's just as bad if not worse than Sabi and I'll tell you why. My introduction of Maru was like anyone else's introduction. I tried becoming friends with her and I was both invited to her server and her dedicated basement chat. In both of these, Maru would rant about absolutely everything in these chats from her job to her boyfriend. She also used these places to shittalk on people for no reason whatsoever and with no justification. Both places instigated so much SS drama it's fucking nuts. I would honestly connect every single major incident in Sabi Squad to Maru's places of dominance because that's where it all started. A lot of the people in these places were also minors at the time and Maru manipulated people to become her right hand men. Maru had a love hate relationship with Sabi and she whined about it all the time, there was always an argument going on in the basement the mods were getting tired of it. They wanted Maru gone for a while and wanted to keep her out of it but she came back and committed the purge. I believe Maru is the spearheader for the downfall of Sabi Squad. She also dominates Sabi's life as Sabi does hers and she's a very twisted person as well. Abusive. Manipulative. Dangerous.

So that is my account of Sabi. Sabi is someone I used to respect a lot but time and time again, he has been doing terrible shit from transphobia to extortion and he's basically an illegal immigrant. Sabi deserves absolutely fucking 0 on the internet, he shouldn't have a following, he should lose his platform completely and the springboard so that he can recover and I'd go as far to say that he should have charges put against him for the crimes he's committed. I hope he learns from all this and strives to become a better person but get off the internet Sabi and never come back. Never dare you harass my friends again. Never dare you to ruin people's lives and careers again like you done to Mystic. Never dare you rat your sources out like a snitch and ruin people's jobs just for self protection. Don't ever come back to the internet under a different name because once people figure out they will literally burn you down like everyone did in the past 3 days.

Just leave this community alone in peace. We don't need people like you.

Classy

Hello everyone, I'm assuming you all know me, but my name is Jahkai, or as I like to be known, Classy. I'm a former close friend of Sabi and Maru, and former moderator in Sabi Squad from October 30th, 2019 to the server deletion on December 19th, 2019. I'm also a former moderator/admin in the Fanged Pickle server, which is now known as Cheese World. I was an on and off moderator/admin in Fanged Pickle, after leaving the server multiple times and getting kicked unfairly. I was manipulated by him and Maru Multiple times. I'm going to share my thoughts and personal experiences on Sabi, Sabi Squad, and all of the events that have taken place during these past few months.

The first time I've ever heard of Sabi was in a PapaGenos video back during E3 of 2019. I joined Forest Maze and went to the affiliate channel. I saw Sabi Squad and decided to join. I wasn't active there until July 10th, 2019. Initially, my time at Sabi Squad was pretty fun. The first time I talked to Sabi was me DMing him on the next character in Smash Bros, and the first we had a full conversation was about the drama with a former moderator and events which led to the banning of said moderator. We began talking more frequently, which began our friendship. However, my friendship with Sabi at the time wasn't very strong, and I wasn't that close to him. I admired him and I wanted to moderate his server. I had looked up to him. There were no problems regarding Sabi at the time until I eventually got accepted into the basement. Sabi and Maru would argue everyday about their relationship. It was disturbing and their relationship was really toxic. Their relationship being so public for others to see was very irresponsible on their part, as it led to them going to others to play therapist for them. It had all come to a climax when Maru went on Sabi's account, and exposed him for abuse. As damage control, Sabi went to his alt to hide it, despite everyone in the basement already knowing. He had also threatened her in real life to stop coming out about her abuse. Thankfully, around 2 weeks later, he had admitted it.

Then, the Steve raids happened, which was already noted prior in the document. A few weeks after the raids, Sabi started growing an obsession with Fortnite and created a Jonesy leak with a bunch of /v/ users just to troll people. He acted like Brew Elfen, who was another notable leaker at the time, had made that leak to make it more chaotic. I used to think that it was funny, but looking back at it, I think he's an asshole for it. I remember the memoryman incident too; they made an entire channel just to bully him, as well as tossing around transphobic insults. I don't think highly of memoryman, but that was just uncalled for. He had then tried to cover it up, because he didn't want to ruin his reputation, but he shouldn't have done it in the first place. Also, during that day, I remember in the basement, some of the mods and users there were telling him that behavior was not okay, and it resulted in the departure of a few moderators. I remember him and a bunch of other users had harassed a user, because they were telling him to "NOT RUIN THE JOKE". That day was horrible. A few days later, someone with an android screenshotted the basement with Sabi's transphobic insults. Sabi had DMed several mods, and they were forced to send screenshots in the basement, this culminated in Turb0k being banned, due to him being suspected of being the one who leaked from the basement. In reality, it wasn't him, and was rather a misunderstanding. More mods left after these events. The account, who was posting screenshots on twitter, had scared Sabi and Maru, so they witchhunted and kicked an innocent. He did "apologize" about the whole ordeal on twitter.

Things were calm for a while after this, and then I had become a moderator because Sabi wanted me to be a mod for his server so badly, despite the poor quality of my application.

On November 11th 2019, the moderator purge had occurred. I was scared that my mod would be taken away, but Maru only banned mods and admins, who spoke up about her demonization, and other moderators/admins who were sticking up for them. I was so scared, I had to act like I was on her side, but I absolutely wasn't. I resented how that happened. Maru's irresponsible behavior led to her not talking to those moderators at all, but rather banning them. I felt awful for weeks when that happened, because I felt powerless. I remember venting to members about the situation. The hierarchy in the server was horrible. But in a twist of events, the hierarchy issue was addressed during a VC between me, Sol, Sabi and Paragon. Sabi wrote an apology after this. After that, the new mods came in and they were great. Sabi's cockiness during The Game Awards was angering me. Sabi Squad was then deleted, and a new server called Fanged Pickle was opened, in which I got moderator, and then admin. I left the server because I wasn't feeling comfortable with Sabi at the time.

Sabi, if you're reading this, I hate you. You have done nothing but be a toxic influence on my life for the past few months, I'm glad after this, you'll be gone. You won't be able to prey on any others.

Goodbye.

Monado

Here are my personal experiences as a Mod in Sabi Squad.

Prior to the creation of Sabi's original server, known as Sabi Squad, Sabi was a user in a Discord Server that I used quite prominently. After finding out Sabi had made his own server, I decided to join it, unaware of what would happen in this server, or who Sabi really, truly was. By this point Sabi seemed to be a bit of a weird, but overall not really a harmful person. Honestly when I joined Sabi's server, I jokingly asked several times for a Mod role, but I actually did get promoted (Unrelated to said Mod Begging, for the record) soon after, and I became one of the first moderators in his server. I talked with Sabi on several occasions, and some things I noticed were that he really liked getting attention. Thinking back, that was probably the reason for a lot of the things he did. Another thing I noticed is that Sabi was oddly careless, which is not a trait I'd expect from a leaker. He'd share personal information as if it wasn't really a bother to him, not even just to me but also in server channels. Another thing was that, he was a bit immature, and a bit petty. When a user (Who will go unnamed for their safety) was causing trouble in Sabi's server, Sabi and some other mods (most of which have legitimately matured since this incident) went and raided that users server. When I caught wind of this, I wasn't even aware Sabi himself was responsible for this, I only thought it was the mods. When I brought this issue up in the staff chat, I was met with criticism, and being told that "Nothing would happen, because Sabi was doing it too". Sabi to my knowledge never really apologized for this, and I was annoyed. Honestly, this was a minor thing, but it did really stick out to me as a legitimately negative experience as a Moderator in Sabi's Server. I will note, several other mods had a similar reaction that I did to this event, but I did make up to a lot of staff that took Sabi's side (Most of which now realize Sabi for who he is).

It was during this that I became more familiar with Sabi's girlfriend, Maru. Maru was a person I would later recognize as a very spiteful, and somewhat unnerving user. There were many times where I thought I would eventually be demoted from the server, by request of Maru alone. It became clear to me Maru had a lot of power over Sabi. There were other more minor incidents with Sabi and Maru in the server, mainly Sabi and Maru making decisions within the server, such as promoting and demoting users, or making changes to the server, without consulting other staff. I, as well as others, questioned why we were even Mods, if our input didn't mean much to the server owners. We were encouraged to make our own decisions regarding the server, but were criticized for doing so. It quickly became clear I would not be a Mod on this server for much longer, whether by my own choice, or Sabi and Maru's. I honestly enjoyed being on this server, and had a good relationship with much of the staff team, so I was a bit disheartened to see this. There was also another scenario where I saw Maru, openly talking on her "private" channel (That mods had access to), and shitting on some of the staff members. I brought this up with some of the staff that were being talked about, and we were obviously annoyed at this.

At a certain point, I was no longer giving Sabi the benefit of the doubt. Who started as a seemingly weird but overall innocent user, eventually became seen by me as a controlling megalomaniac. There were a lot of really disturbing instances as well, including one time where Sabi was openly discussing very NSFW topics in an active, Non-NSFW channel. At this point I probably should have left but I wanted to stay. Again, I was attached to the community itself, and most of the staff team. What tipped me over the edge, was what was known as the "Channel Moving Incident" where Maru's Private Channel was frequently being moved up and down in the channel sidebar. I don't know who did it, but I have my suspicions about a certain dastardly duo who may have been secretly moving the channel. Honestly, no reasonable person would make a big stink about this. Maru was not a reasonable person. She was quick to essentially organize a "Witch Hunt" to find out who was moving the channel. Of course, there's no log for that sort of thing, and thus there was never any proof pointing towards any one user doing this. However, Maru and Sabi somehow managed to "pinpoint" the channel mover, on a fellow moderator, with nothing but very flimsy proof. Maru hyped up the ban of the "secret channel mover" for an entire day, while making it obvious who her "suspect" was, using passive aggressive language. After a few hours, Maru decided she was going to wait another day to ban the "mover" because, "She was tired". I, and other mods, including the accused (And I'll just say straight up, I know for a fact that the accused did not move the channel, and I while I won't say definitively, I do suspect Maru knew this as well), and we decided collectively to leave the server. We defended the accused mod, so we knew if they did end up banned for the Channel Moving, we'd likely be banned as well for "covering it up".

We weren't going to wait around for Maru to wait until it was convenient for her, to ban a moderator (she explicitly did not like, for the record.) to be banned for something the mod was clearly not guilty of, and honestly Maru waiting and waiting to deliver the ban just felt like a means of mentally fucking with us. We don't deserve that, so we decided enough was enough, and we left.

If there's anything I hate, its corruption of power, and lies from people in power. I recognize after writing this, I talked much more about Maru than Sabi here, but I do feel between Sabi and Maru, it was Maru that made my time as a moderator on Sabi's server much more unpleasant. While Sabi may have done horrible things to Maru, that I know Maru did not deserve, I do wholeheartedly believe Maru herself is also an awful person, and my personal experiences as a Mod, as well as my experiences with Maru herself, don't even scratch the surface of what kind of person she is.

Can absolutely confirm this. Sabi outted me last year, and now I can no longer do any work for the industry. Not only that, but he claimed I mentioned someone by name that I never did.

What Sabi did is, while I spoke to him and gave him info in a safe manner, he claimed someone from another country "hacked" his account and the info I gave was spread, and he gave me screenshots. Turned out that there is an explanation for that, and it made him look worse.

Oh, want another Sabi story? I invited Sabi to a group chat between me and good friends. He used it as a way to gather info, and then when he outted me and broke things down for me, he laughed with his friends about how I was now depressed and lost everything.

Yikes. I don't know Sabi very well but every interaction I've had has been awful, they've tried to publicly drag my name into places it doesn't belong multiple times. Calling them a journalist is a stretch.

Thanks to everyone who reached out to me about Sabi. Yo DM'd me back in April or May before I published my story about no Direct happening in June. I answered a question about that, and asked Sabi not to repeat that anywhere because my story was going up in the morning. Within minutes, I had people I don't know making references to me about what I said to Sabi. It was obvious that I shouldn't even use this person as a sounding board, and I've not shared anything else with yo since.

As a regular user of their "news focused" server Sabi Squad, I got to witness a lot of users including myself get kicked and often banned just because they said or did something Sabi's girlfriend didn't like; often controlling their user base to gang up on them and then dismissing it as 'just drama'. Further proving how manipulative and mentally unstable they are. Not kidding when I say the server felt like a complete dictatorship when Sabi and Maru were around.

Context for the screenshot: I pinged them both to ask what happened with most of their mods that suddenly disappeared (the infamous "Mod Purge"); me getting kicked shortly after that and then returning to ask for the reasoning behind it.

It was after this point that I learned how sick and wretched these two individuals really were, from everything we gathered from the victims and everyone else involved; this was barely the tip of the iceberg.

Zorkats

Hi. I will start this saying English is not my native language, so please forgive me if you see typos. My story starts in December 2018, I was 16 (my birthday was in late December) and that year was really depressing for me, I was still with antidepressants and stuff. My first time seeing Sabi was because a friend showed me a video (the Blog Theory one of GameXplain) and I began to follow Sabi on twitter. Some months after, on March 20, he invited me to the “Sabi Squad” server (I was already 17 by this time). We were about 40 users at the time of creation, and we were slowly getting bigger. I got promoted to Moderator on April 21th, and that’s when everything started going downhill for me. I began to talk to Sabi’s girlfriend in DMs that day, because of a fight they had on mod chat. (Mod Chat was very chaotic, and I was manipulated to believe some of the mods wanted to overthrow Sabi, later I knew this was all bullshit mostly created/caused by them).

This user is Maru, for context.

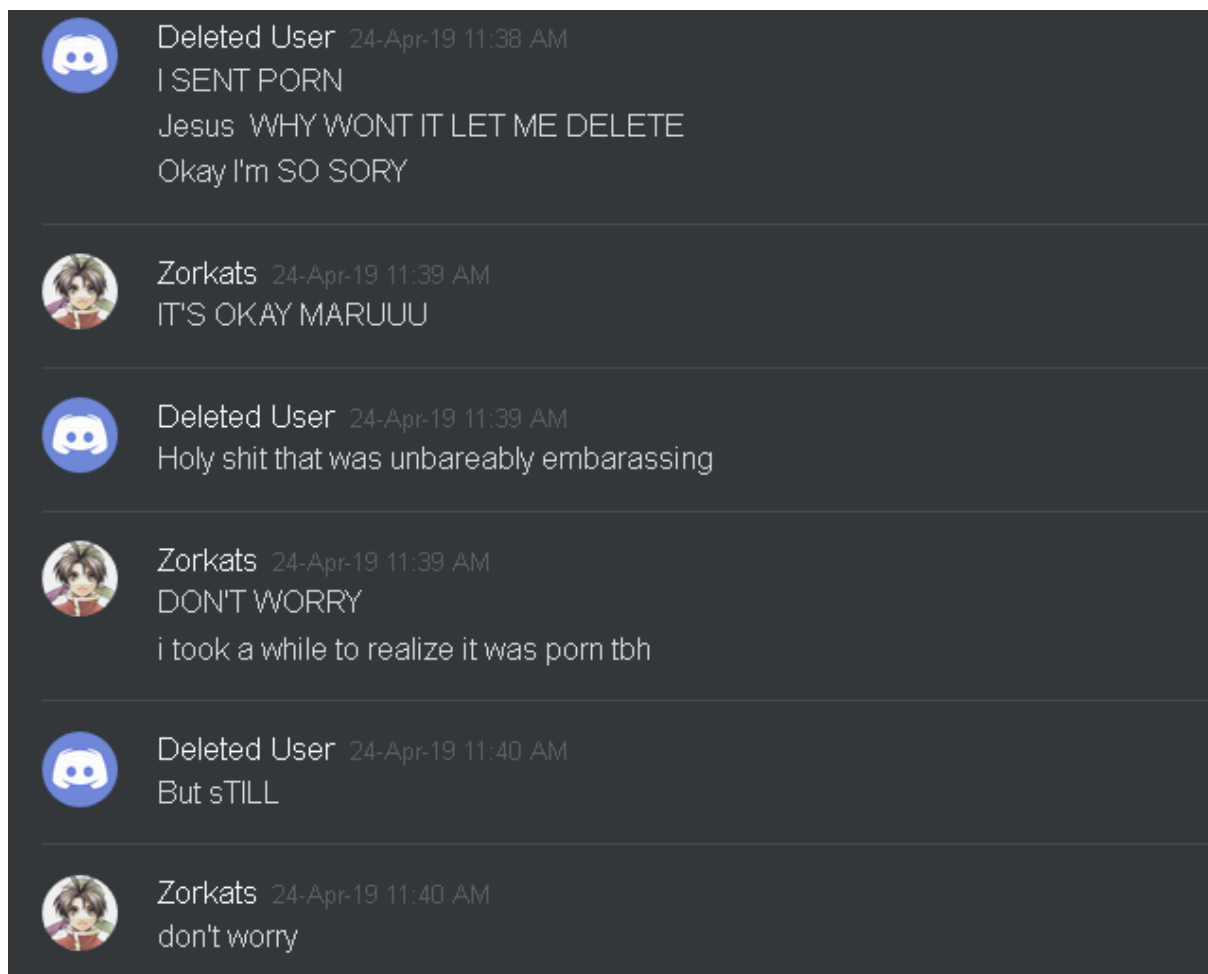

Deleted User · 21-Apr-19 06:01 PM

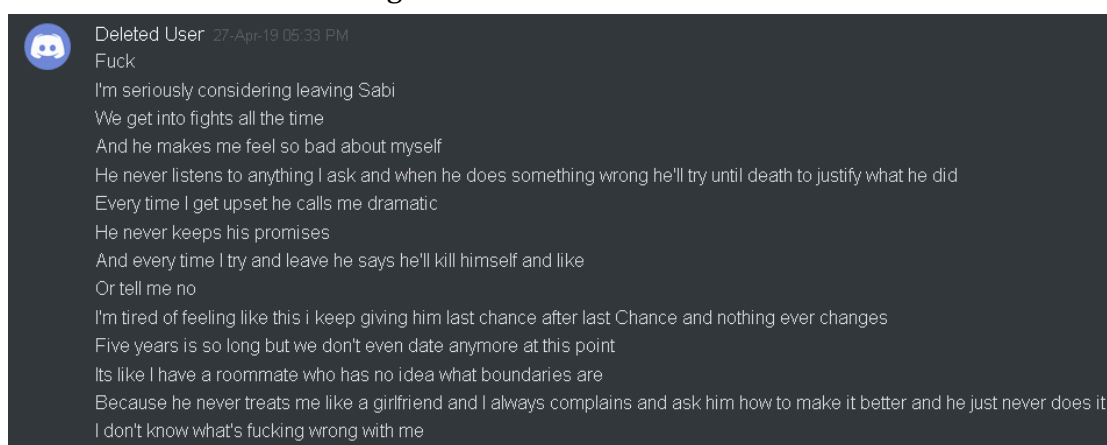

It feels like a mildly abusive relationship . He's the owner but he isn't allowed to do anything unless they say so and if he does he gets dragged hard And he's scared if he does anything they'll ruin the server

I personally talked more with Sabi about games or stuff he “leaked” (see the other statements, I will not talk about that.) and I occasionally talked with Maru on Sabi Squad. We shared some irl experiences of abuse and I felt she was a good person in overall. However, one time she sent me some hardcore dragon porn, which I was very uncomfortable with, and even today I still don’t know why she did that. I pretend I didn’t see the image very well and forgave her, even though I should have realized it was a red flag.

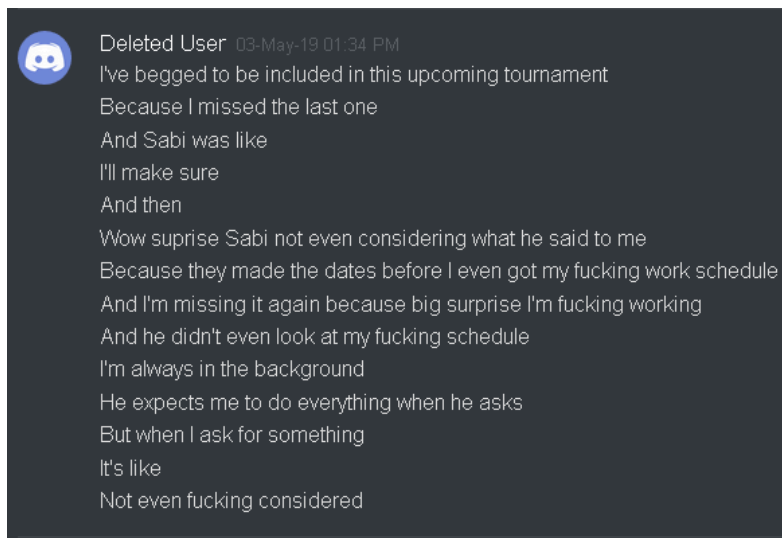

Maru on dragon porn.

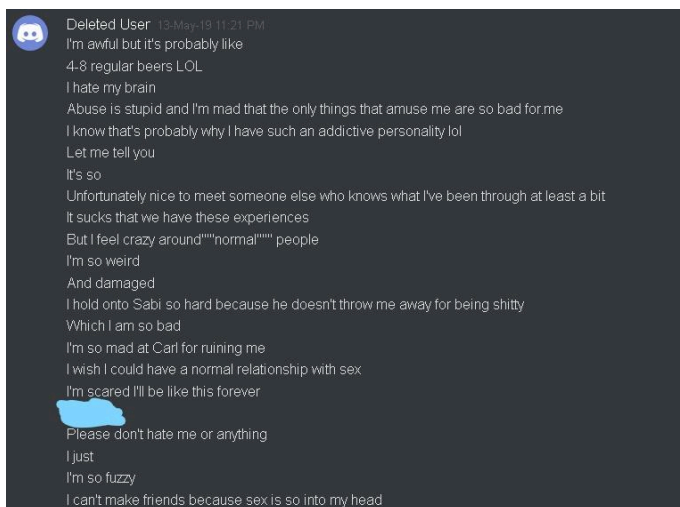

It was nice talking to her, but then she began to tell me about her experiences with Sabi, which I was too uncomfortable with, but I listened to her because I didn't want to be a bad friend. This is her talking about Sabi:

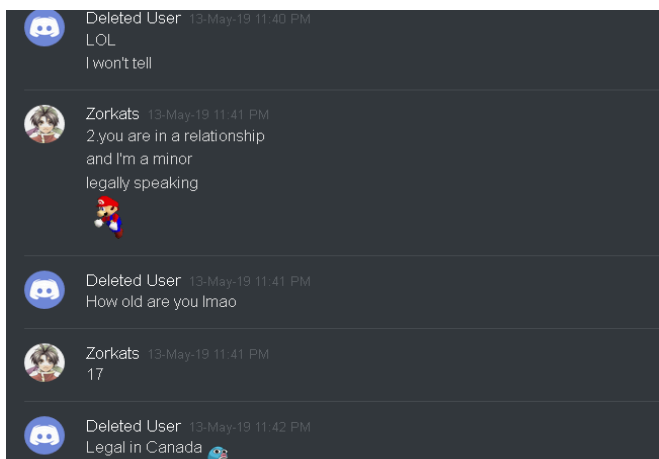

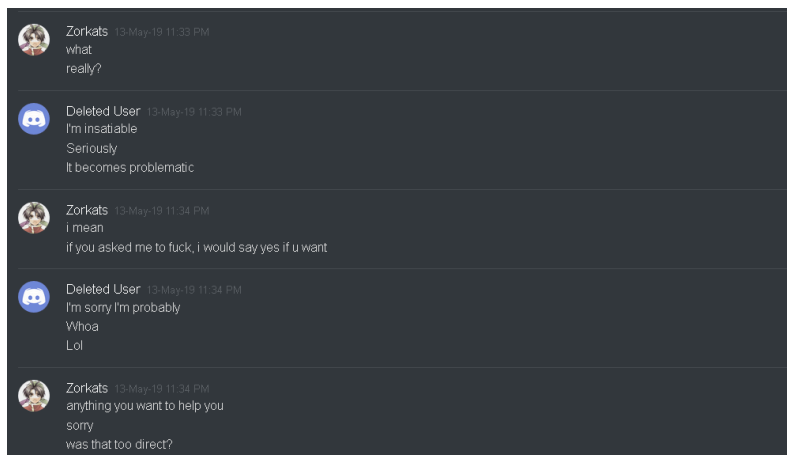

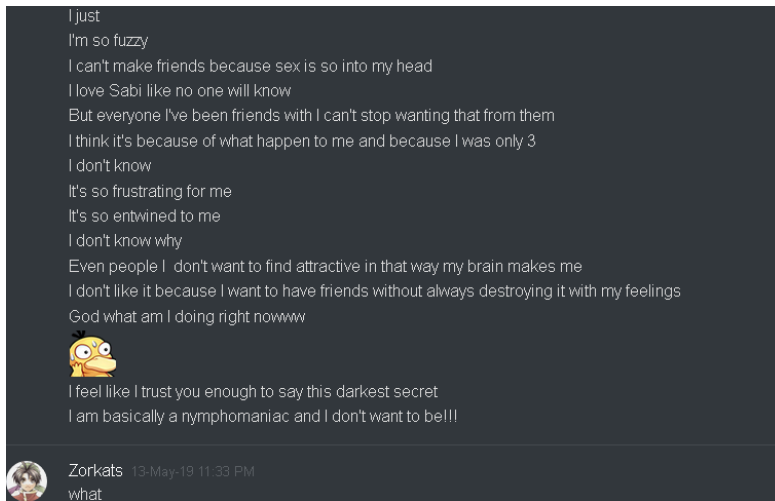

Other occasion of Maru talking about Sabi:

and some days later while she was drunk (she talked about her addictions frequently) she proceeds to talk (without my consent and I was 17) about her addiction to sex. (I censored my real name) I want to say that I responded this way, because I really didn't know how to help and she used to flirt with me, both while she was sober and drunk before, but I never really responded back because I didn't want to.

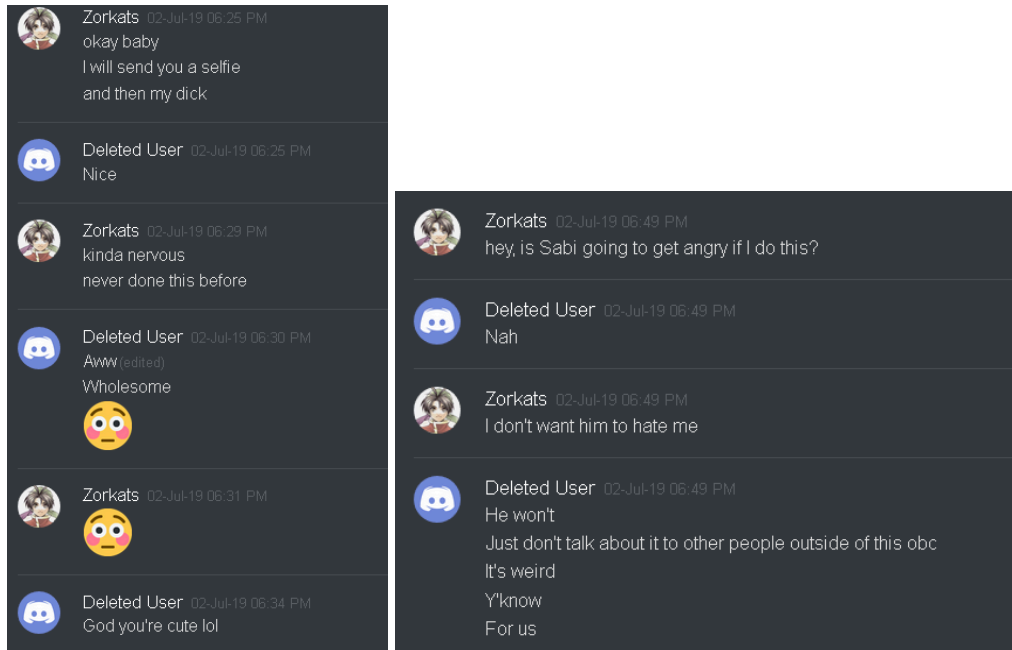

She knew my age before this, I did mention it on Sabi Squad many times before.

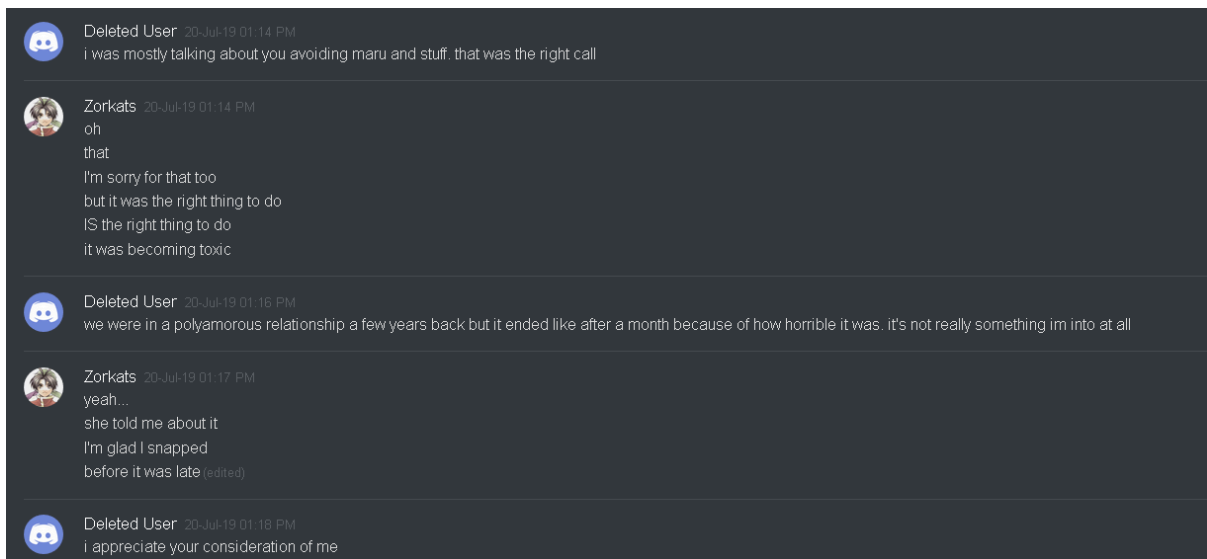

The context for the fourth image is vague but it's a continuation of the 3 images, I just cropped unnecessary bits. Fast forward to E3 2019 and our conversations were getting sexual. I must admit I have a fault here because I never said "no" even though I wanted to stop, that plus Sabi insulting a prominent figure of the Nintendo Community by saying he was a “drug addict”, and then damage controlling the situation, which made me go ghost on sabi squad for some time. And on July 2nd we agreed that I would send a selfie of me and a dick pic. I had many troubles saying this because it’s something I never did before, and yes, I know I have a bit of fault for consenting to this and saying these things even as “jokes”, I can’t really justify my actions and I really feel guilty about this.

I never sent the nude. I just couldn’t do it because I felt it wasn’t right. So, I decided to get away and stopped talking to Maru and Sabi, and ghosted Sabi Squad, barely sending messages. July 16 was the last time I spoke to Maru on good terms, I said I couldn’t stop thinking about the nude thing, and I that I didn’t want our friendship to turn toxic and sexual, because even while ghosting I still couldn’t get over the stupid shit I was doing. On July 20th, Sabi and I talked about this. (I skipped the first part because we are talking about the Nintendo Community figure I mentioned earlier.)

And, the next day, I was kicked from Sabi Squad. I rejoined through Sabi's invite on twitter and was kicked again. I contacted Sabi by discord and after a while he sent me this.

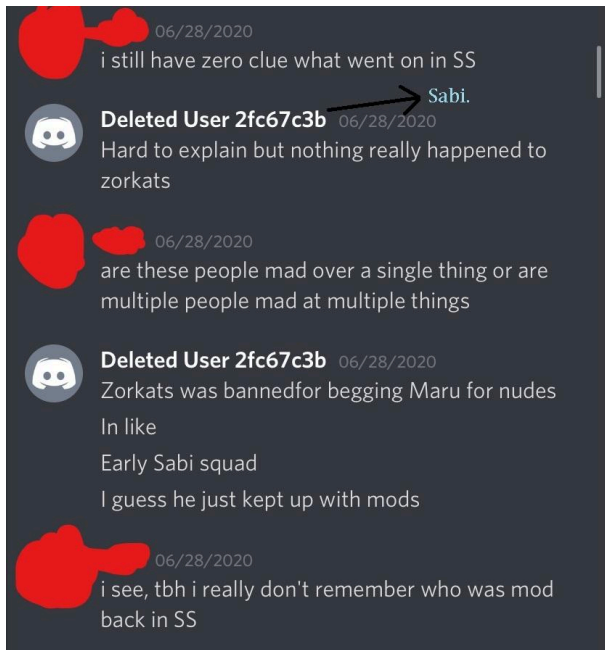

I went to talk with Maru, and I will not post screenshots on that one, but she mostly insulted me and said I only talked to her for the picture. She never considered how I felt, even though she knew I was going through a bad time.

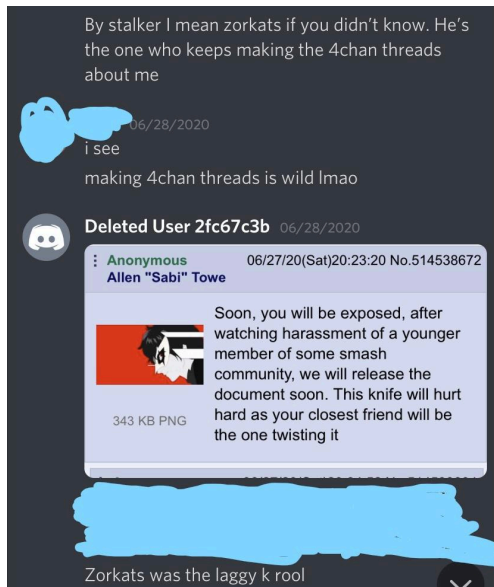

In November 2019 I regained contact with some old mods and told them the whole deal. I also knew that, even while Sabi “apologized” to me some weeks ago due to him thinking I was Calling Card, he still went and spitted lies about me with other users.

Really?

I want to apologize to all the mods and friends for never contacting you earlier, I just ghosted and never did nothing. I'm sorry, I know I have said this many times. But it is in part my fault you all ended up suffering because of these two horrible people. I also want to apologize for not including the whole conversation, but many things were irrelevant to the topics we are discussing in this document. Just want to say that these two people are horrible, abusive, manipulative, zoophiles, pedophiles and they need two things: psychological help and jail.

I want to end this by saying that, Sabi, if you are reading this, I despise you and your girlfriend for everything that you have done, not to me, but to other people, and if you think this is because of some “mod drama” you don’t have an idea of your actions. You said to my friends and many other users I was a sexual predator, and even today there’s still people who think that lie is true. Please get help for you and your nonce girlfriend and realize that YOUR ACTIONS HAVE CONSEQUENCES. Goodbye and never return. You did more than enough damage. To me, you left me scarred for months and even made me distance myself from people and commit self-harm. To others, you not only left them scarred, but damaged their ability to trust and make bonds.

SabdierZ

He (Sabi) can piss off for trying to make me look like a sexual deviant toward Maru.

Pride Today at 11:59 PM

So uhh I thought it would be best to do this in a documented format but this is my experience with Sabi (and a little bit of Maru)

I joined FP a couple months back in May, which began when I dmed Sabi on twitter looking for more info on leaks. He sent me the invite, and I joined the server. I began as not really wanting to talk with anyone and just stayed for the leaks, but gradually became more involved with the really nice community that were present.

First real event worth noting was when Sabi was banned from Forest Maze. He was extremely angry about this, so came to general and began to rant about it. I made a joke about posting the message they sent Sabi (to tell him he was banned) into FM and Sabi encouraged me to do it. At the time, I was pretty sure it would be funny so I decided to do it. From here, it spiralled into lots of different copypastas being posted into the FM chat. In hindsight, I was clearly being manipulated here and I honestly regret it so much because the mods were nice and gave me another chance, but then again it was my stupidity that landed me there so what else could I do.

A few weeks later came an argument between Sabi and Maru. At this point I had no issues with Maru and thought she was pretty decent, so I would say we were getting to be solid friends. Sabi and Maru had an argument, and Maru had added me to a server so she could rant. Now, I've always been quite transparent about my age in FP, and it's always made me a tad uncomfortable when people went a bit overboard with the sex talk. Anyway, I joined the server and found Maru ranting about her and Sabi and how annoying he was, and going into quite a lot of detail about their lives (if you get what I mean). I kept my words few and decided to sleep for the night.

However, when I woke up in the morning I found that the server had vanished, Maru was no longer on my friends list and I had a suspicious message from someone (this person has already made their statement).

As it turns out, I had been accused of taking information Maru had been talking about in this rant server and sending it to Sabi to keep him informed. Obviously having been asleep I was quite shocked, and found the person who was stuck in this situation with me to be quite nice which was equally as strange. Sabi was the source of these rumours, and as far as I'm aware spread fake screenshots of me and this other user providing him with info. Me and Maru never really spoke much afterwards, and after trying to bring this up I got ignored completely.

It isn't much compared to everyone else, but I thought I may as well document what happened. Please don't be too tough on me after reading lmao

Govnah

When I was modded back in June 2019 up until the Sabi Squad deletion in December, I got fairly close with Sabi. A few others and me would occasionally have to get him to not do stupid shit. I felt like a PR manager for someone who just didn't care about anything but to push his fame more and more. Sabi was very cutthroat, I watched many mods come and go due to really stupid BS. As someone who has had depression for years this took a huge toll on my mental health where I'd constantly have breakdowns and the topic of modding a Discord Server became a main topic of my therapy sessions. I'd cry and shake over how toxic Sabi and Maru's relationship could make the mod chat feel. Constantly being the therapist to a relationship that clearly felt had no future. The biggest issue I had with him? The fact that when it came to the Group DM with underage people Situation and Sabi admitted to Solmerse and me that Maru was into upper teens which included the 16-17 range. Even though using the law of consent in Canada it still didn't feel right holding that info. On the day of the deletion of Sabi Squad I vented to a bunch of mods about that knowledge, and it somehow got back to them. I was constantly made fun of and my name being dragged through the mud in Fanged Pickle. Constantly being called a false accuser when in reality I wasn't one, I had the DMs for proof and he knew that but still put me up to be some evil guy in his server when I just didn't care about those two anymore and was doing my old thing. It got worse when they started to attack Forest Maze for modding me. Now, fast forward to about a few days ago after the Sabi stuff got out. I asked him why he put that narrative through about me lying about Maru being a Pedophile (Which I still never said, I just said what they do to 16-17 years old is gross).

He basically blamed it on another mod who called Maru out for her BS once before instead of taking the blame for his actions (I will attach the final DM with him below). So that's basically a quick sum up of my story with Sabi. I'm happy stuff finally got out against him but honestly, if it wasn't for Sabi Squad I would have never made such amazing friends in the end. Thank you for taking the time to read this.

DuckMeat

My history with Sabi practically starts during my history as a Smash speculator. I joined my first spec server after seeing the K. Rool reveal and did so because of the hope of seeing the holy trinity of him, Ridley, and Geno - I was well aware of the rough details of Brawl speculation as it was the game I grew up on. Despite this, that server was practically my first time talking on the internet with anyone about GAMES, period. It was such a surreal experience to me to get used to, and I was like a caveman to it

I was always a mathematically inclined person and wanted to set myself apart by using those skills to make something cool for the community to bide the wait for Ultimate's release - Blog Theory. After I posted my first draft of it to the server, it blew up and I caught Sabi's eye. He offered to post it to Reddit and Twitter, and I let him because again, caveman to games-related social media. I had skills he didn't and vice versa. We worked well together. He even netted that interview we were on two years ago...

...in hindsight, I can name more than one occasion where he took advantage of my naivety and tried twisting the narrative in his favor, every step of the way. From making his own document to ape the work I was doing, to allowing GameXplain to consider doing the interview without me until I reached out myself (he didn't), it felt like he was trying to soft-block me from being seen with equal regard in the community for my own work. This backfired since I had the spine to set out myself but it still ended up being one of his many attempts to springboard into the public sphere.

When Sabi set out to make his own server, he offered me a chance to join him and I accepted. At the time, I felt like he did me a favor with GX and that helping him with his endeavors was proper repayment. I saw him as being ambitious like me and felt like I had made a good deal with him....

... but this was also a mistake. Now, I can see that while we were both ambitious, that we were different. While I wanted to provide to the community in a way to express my identity... Sabi wanted more than that. He wanted to get big like Vergeben, be someone people would beg and worship to hear what would come next... he wanted the closest thing in his field to complete power.

His server reflected this, but not in ways you would expect. A specialized role for close friends of his became a caste system that was often used to block out new users and discriminate against them. He would break his own rules to do things he wanted without council from other moderators or myself. He used his "leaks" as a carrot on a stick to make more and more people join him and polarize them against my first server, which wasn't comparable in size or purpose in the slightest. It was incredibly petty but did a great job showcasing his true colors.

And then there was Maru. We practically never got along, it was almost like a cartoon the way we would always inevitably bump heads. She wanted to have her own safe space in Sabi Squad and lorded control over Sabi himself at her will, and I made it clear to her every time how unremarkable, ill-conceived, and unfair to other users it was. If she wanted a safe space for her private thoughts on things, we had these wonderful resources called “Direct Messages”, “Group Chats”, and “Dedicated Private Servers” that all filled the roles better while being less intrusive. Her safe space (#marus-basement) ended up hurting her more than protecting her, making it flawed by design. And the way she would demand her way in the server discounted the fact that we were a TEAM of moderators that had to talk and agree on things. While I would tolerate Sabi’s mishaps at the time, Maru was a stark exception to that.

I was pulled aside by Sabi on multiple occasions to be less harsh, but the way she would use her power to actively make the server a worse place had it’s toll on me. It’s what led to me being one the 5 names on her kill list during the Mod Purge. It made clear to me that Sabi cared more about her than she did the server. And with that, I quit his server and didn’t look back... until now.

Paragon is a person I’ve had a mixed history with but almost a week before he not only brought me down from a pretty severe mental breakdown on a particularly bad day. My mind was racing, and all I could think about were how bad people were, and how bad I felt I was. I practically spammed his DMs, apologizing to him for something I had done in the past to him, practically indebting myself to him with how badly I felt... my voice of reason was screaming internally to shut the hell up because I could be used again, just like with Sabi. My interactions with Sabi severely damaged my ability to trust others, but everyone has a limit and has to vent - I couldn’t vent properly at the time without feeling like I was setting myself up to be a tool again, with my own pain as leverage. Instead, Paragon accepted my pain and gave me closure to our past. He showed concern for me and helped me when I was vulnerable and he asked for nothing. He’s somebody who I consider a ... Paragon of community leaders in this particular niche of interest, for lack of a better term.

Then, no shorter than a week afterwards, Paragon was falsely accused of sexual assault by no other than Sabi himself, setting me off like a runaway tire. Not only did it trigger my extreme phobia of being doxxed or falsely accused on the internet, but it also reminded me of how he would target people he saw as “competition” to him like my first server and many others. If I had chosen to strike out on my own and reject Sabi’s help with Blog Theory... that could have been me. He was hurting people because it would push him to greater heights in the most destructive way possible, just like old times.

When I get stressed by things like that, I work against it, as did many others. It's instinctive. I put in lots of time to ensure our operation went smoothly along with others named here. I wrote a mission statement that prioritized vindicating Paragon first and deplatforming Sabi under any identity he took close after. I wanted to make sure that the folks that Solmerse and Deku and others brought together could do so efficiently and undivided. We worked together to collect the info you read and recall the experiences you're reading. And we're gonna have a goddamn karaoke night to give ourselves a Sabi enema more effective than a frat party on a Sunday night.

Overall, my interactions with Sabi had hurt me most on a personal level. I became much more of a skeptic after him and now have major trust issues from the trauma he caused me. Very rarely did I let people into my life without bypassing a far too scrutinous eye, making myself socially distant and lonely. He made me feel like I not only naturally attracted manipulative people to myself, but I also primed myself to get caught in their momentum. It made me seriously doubt my ability to choose my friends and open up socially without exposing myself to sociopaths. It weighed too hard for too long.

Since writing this and reflecting I've been able to view things a lot more positively now then I was then (therapy is a godsend). In hindsight, I stepped away from Sabi in probably the best way I could have in the moment, and the friends I've come to know in university, work, the smash fanbase, and elsewhere proved to me that the world isn't full of Sabis who want to use me as a springboard for their own devices. I can trust myself to trust others again. After this dark period in our community's lifetime subsidies, I hope others who have suffered can realize this faster than I did.

To Sabi, I hope you realize how much pain you caused me, and then look back at everyone you put through much worse than that, you know their names now if you didn't before. You made people disposable and played with their trust like you already owned it. You hurt people in ways that can lock you up for a very long time, and with good reason. You never wanted praise and fame and attention, you just wanted more people at your disposal to stand on and twist and hurt. I hope you look into yourself and realize this. Do you know that saying that step 1 is admitting you have a problem? Step 0 is realizing you have problems, which to me you have yet to do. Read this document, and memorize it like you have a goddamn test on it, this is everything you have to atone for. Start today.

...to Maru, I don't have much to say. Even if I did, you wouldn't listen that long ... anyways, grow the hell up and be Sabi's study buddy, you're both F students.

NintenZ Today at 9:15 PM

Okay so we first met sometime the beginning of last year in about... February I'd like to say? I had heard about him previously in an insider circle and he actually got Banjo waaaaay before anyone else did, so in about February he friend requested me on Discord and also followed me on Twitter, this began our "Relationship". He was really nice to me, very welcoming overall, and treated me as a friend, I was also in his Discord server which was pretty neat when I was first there. In about June of last year he got his with a C&D and asked me and a user named Spazzy to defend him publicly, he showed me legal documentation which included his real name, address, and etc, which was proof it was all real. Not only did I stand up for him, I insisted that he was to be trusted and he was reliable, but despite my efforts only Spazzy was recognized for standing up for him with me feeling brushed aside. When people did doubt him such as after the Game Awards, I'd try defending him because I thought he was what I considered

"A friend", but I ended up getting little in return with no recognition. I would occasionally try reaching out to him, asking how he was doing, and try starting conversations, but every time I did I'd just be put on read. He'd never respond and he also would like posts that were oppositional towards me and would in general be pretty cold. Not helping things was his awful Discord server with some of the worst moderation I've ever seen and some truly toxic people in there. Eventually one day Sabi just randomly unfollowed me, which I had considered doing with him for awhile. That was when I finally knew he could not be trusted, and that he only cared for himself and making him look better than he was.

A former friend of Sabi's

Some of the things I'd sent to Calling Card were faked by Sabi, obviously. However, there was a truth to my claim. I had been harassed by Sabi when we first became "friends" but then he let off after he deleted the first account and made the newer one (which is now "farewell"). I thought things were fine after that and then tried to reassess my boundaries with him when we started talking once again. I liked being "friends" with him because hey, leak info before he went public with it was a pretty sweet gig ngl.

However, I let myself get too comfortable. And then one night I was a little drunk and was taking some lewd selfies for my partner and was feeling confident so I sent him. After that, I was worried about him using

And then one night I was a little drunk and was taking some lewd selfies for my partner and was feeling confident so I sent him one. After that, I was worried about him using it against me. I knew he had a lot of followers and a lot of people listening to him and I was afraid he'd use that power and reach against me. I was afraid he'd give it out or show it to other people. I was scared. So I decided it would be best if I stayed on his good side and did whatever he wanted or needed me to do.

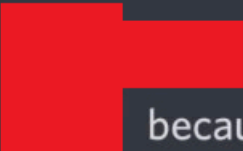

Which involves this. Even afterwards, I expressed displeasure in what I'd just made myself a part of (to which he tried to say that "what I'd done was a good thing" and plenty of other things that didn't sit right with me).

There was a screen I'd sent to Calling Card mentioning a time a couple months ago where he told me that he had to go masturbate (though he worded it as "getting rid of the horny")

This is even something that I went to a friend about back in December

I feel manipulated and gross and I just needed to tell you when I saw that you were doing this

An anonymous Fanged Pickle user (note that some parts of this will be censored as they refer to sensitive information for parties involved in this document)

I am going to preface this with an extremely important statement: I do not have proof for a lot of the earlier incidents in this story, as not a lot of them directly happened to me and I have no screenshots or anything like that, so whether or not you believe what I have to say is up to you. I am also not calling card. I don't know who that person is and I'm not affiliated with them in any way. If it does end up being a person that I'm familiar with, they've been doing what they're doing without my knowledge.

Ok so I have basically zero clue where to begin so I'm just gonna write as I go along and hope it's coherent.

Sabi and Maru are both emotionally abusive, manipulative liars. I can't speak for a lot of the info that's come out about them in the past few days, as I've been on hiatus and a lot of it has come out without any of my knowledge, and also a lot of them are more recent developments; but my story begins far before all this, back in Sabi Squad. Now back then I wasn't super invested in the server, just there for leaks really. But a friend group of mine, we'll call it [REDACTED] for the sake of simplicity, had owned a speculation server before that called [REDACTED] (remember this for later), and after sabi had gained their connections in the industry, they started SS and left [REDACTED], taking a good portion of its user-base with them. A good number of [REDACTED] mods ([REDACTED] people) were also made mods in SS, and stayed that way for a while. Sabi had already kinda let their newfound power in the industry go to their head in a number of ways from what I remember, and this kinda ended up pissing off a lot of the [REDACTED] people for reasons that I don't really know much about because I HATE getting involved in drama and didn't bother asking at the time. But after digging a few months later (for reasons that I'll get into), I discovered that Sabi and Maru had been having relationship issues that they openly discussed in chat at multiple points and had gotten angry at the mod team for responding poorly to this, not just [REDACTED], but a number of old mods as well. Incidents like this would continue for a long time, until eventually I became mod on the server not only because I thought I could do a good job, but with an ulterior motive of trying to find out what the fuck was happening to my friends at [REDACTED] since they had expressed a lot of their frustrations with the way the server was run in private chats beforehand.

Fast forward a couple weeks, and it happened. Mod chat has devolved into a huge fight, ending with Maru kicking out every single [REDACTED] member, among a few other people including myself, almost exclusively because they didn't like how the mod team was responding to a situation regarding the two (that I was unaware of because I wasn't even active that day). So then I ask for mod back and after a lot of deliberation purely because I was associated with [REDACTED] Sabi decides to give it back, and then I go digging to find out what happened. After asking around with a number of people, I had discovered that not only were these relationship problems severe, but it was in fact a mutually abusive relationship. I had been told a lot of things, ranging from emotional/verbal abuse on Maru's end, deliberately sleeping with other men just for the sake of spite and regularly threatening to kick Sabi out and expose them as an illegal immigrant and have them deported back to the states (over something that seemed really small that I admittedly don't remember); to all kinds of other abuse on Sabi's end like breaking Maru's bones, or threatening/manipulating her into keeping him at her house after he ran into legal trouble with Nintendo and her father wanted him gone. There are also a LOT of other issues as well, Sabi's drug issues, Maru verbally harassing my friends for weeks on end, probably a lot of stuff that I cannot even begin to cover here.

Now a lot of this, mind you, was happening in the open. Maru has talked about it openly before, and while Sabi really hasn't in public, they have apparently brought it up in private convos a few times (but I cannot verify that). This was also happening, like I said, to the knowledge of the mod team, or at least to an extent (to which extent at the time I really can't be certain of), and when some of the mods tried to speak out about the situation and call out the both of them as horrible people, or if they criticised how Sabi treated Maru, or how Maru has a tendency to overreact to the SLIGHTEST things and label people as attacking her or as evil, they got banned. [REDACTED] gave up trying to bring it to people's attention afterwards, and anyone who brought that particular incident up would be banned and labeled as someone trying to stir up old "drama," perhaps as a way to minimize the issue and make it sound like people were being petty over it, I'm not sure.

This was a reason I did not speak out about this until now. I had to wait until the right time, otherwise anything that I had to say could EASILY be squashed, and I'd be banned with no way to communicate anything to anyone. I had to gain Sabi's trust so that they didn't suspect anything of me, so I played along with a lot of their charades, which leads me to where I directly come into this story.

Fast forward a few more weeks after the initial incidents, and Sabi starts nervously asking me a bunch of questions about [REDACTED] given a couple of raids that had taken place in the server previously. I told them the truth, [REDACTED] had nothing to do with it. So then I guess Sabi took that as a sign that I should be a spy of some kind or something to make sure they weren't plotting anything (Please note they never directly said they wanted me to spy, but they did strongly imply at several points that my word wasn't really good enough) despite me telling them that they had given up and were ready to just put it all behind them and move on. I never did anything they asked, naturally, I wasn't going to be manipulated by them, but this should go to show that they have very paranoid and manipulative tendencies. They became increasingly paranoid over the course of the next few months, until eventually Calling Card shows up. Now like I said at the start of this, I don't know who that person is or what they were even doing, but apparently they had Sabi scared (for good reason I suppose), and then they start to suspect yet again that it's "old SS mods" meaning they suspected my friends were the ones behind it despite not even mentioning Sabi in well over 4 months at that point. Sabi then reaches out to me and starts ranting to me about all of this like they usually did with anything that even remotely had them concerned for their reputation. They had sent me some screens of him and [REDACTED] (who I have no problem with, please note) speculating as to who it could be and told me to "warn" [REDACTED] about someone going around asking about old drama. Another tendency of theirs, to try and cover up anything that they deemed to be a threat. They didn't wanna warn [REDACTED] of any inconvenience, they just were looking out for themselves and trying to prevent any info from coming to light.

I am sorry for not coming forward about this sooner. It's like I said, I had to wait for the right moment, otherwise anything I said could instantly be stricken down and I'd be labeled as someone not to be trusted, not only by Sabi, but by Maru too, making any fears that I have about this doubly intense. I get that some people may not even believe anything I've said since I technically can't prove anything except what Sabi said to me directly about calling card, and I will gladly provide proof of that to anyone that asks. I hope everything that I've spoken about here has been worded coherently enough to understand completely, I had a lot of trouble trying to properly express everything that had been going on.

Thank you for hearing me out, I hope something is done to prevent these two from harming anyone (or each other) ever again.

Enia

I remember back when I was first added to the basement channel, and just like a week after one of the members in there I had taken a liking to suddenly left altogether, and I had already gone to ask them if they left because of the arguments Sabi and Maru had all the time. I remember Sabi consistently demonizing a former member that was nothing like he described once I got to interacting with him. I remember the obscene amounts of Fortnite Sabi would play and while Maru was getting off work and needed a ride home, he would just continue playing like nothing was wrong. There's plenty more but I'll keep it brief cause I'm sure this doc covers more than enough.

Anonymous Friend of Sabi

To the people who will read this and know who wrote this. I hope you understand my coy way of adding to this pile:

My friendship with Sabi started around late-2018 during the ultimate pre-release drought in smashboards under the name of "PolarPanda", We became fast friends over DMs and often chatted about stuff outside of speculation and as the year pushed onto 2019 i pretty much became his right hand man in order to make sure he doesn't go too out of his way with information or say the wrong stuff that his sources was giving him or correct his wordings to make sure it didn't come off as too odd or all that, (having been friends with one of his earlier sources which i will not out) things were great with him and our circle. We had plenty of great chats and speculation thrown around (besides fatmanonice throwing some stuff out too early because he's fatmanonice. You are a good friend though even things went south just know that alright?) By E3 2019 we started getting information from VRPlant (see Papagenos's testimony for more details) and we all kept it shut from our ends including Banjo's inclusion and more. I started to lose my sway within his methods of info, slowly I just became a witness to his info, an early sightseer to put it lightly. I frankly have to agree that he went overboard, by that time i also started to notice his manipulative traits more and more, and while in my cases i've mostly just nodded as it was something i was indifferent to (like voting in the mod channel and general discord server maintenance) i started to stray away from Sabi in time.

I don't have much to say about Maru but i will say that we had our problems at first on the server but i got to know her and she was nice. but i would agree that Sabi/Maru has had a very.... toxic relationship, it was noticeable from a mile away. (and i once tried to help it.)

Back to Sabi, around fall our circle had a bit of a scuffle with Fatmanonice/Sabi, Sabi feeling like he threw info out way too early (ironic) and I agreed to Sabi's point personally because it was a grievance of mine as well.

Also around fall-end of the year. a lot of Sabi's very loose lips finally caught up to one of his sources and got them pushed away from Nintendo. Let's just say that they want to rip Sabi to a million pieces and as for the rest of our circle? well we are all still friends and still talk to each other to this day, it's been healthy and we've liked it like so since.

Around the time Sabi Squad fell apart (a server I moderated) I had to deal with something that occurred between Maru and a Minor? i wasn't 100% sure of the situation but i was very close to throwing my hands and leaving it all behind, but instead i stuck around and tried to resolve it until i got no more updates on it. I know it was because I still in my heart considered Sabi a friend of mine despite a lot of the problems he had. and i know a few mods stuck around because they wanted to help them improve their quality of life. So Fanged Pickle was made and while i wasn't a lead moderator anymore. i was a moderator and that remained so until last week. around most of 2020 i became super lethargic towards Sabi and the server he hosted. I tried motivating myself to help them out twice but I fell back to my hind. only really talked in mod chat when important ordeals were occurring or new moderators were around to make sure they had a fair time transitioning to helping the server out.

I've tried a fair bit to try and help him out with his troubles and get him to sit down and understand a few things but he would never listen, by 2020 until last week he would only occasionally send me DMs about stuff happening that i had no involvement in and would never give me the context to it.

Last week I left when I found out how deep rooted and unchanged Sabi's manipulation had gotten. Even hurting someone closer to them than I was, I made the decision to leave the server under the clause that if Sabi were to come back to me and understand his mistakes and account for them. The most he did is leave me with an image to his new account three days after I sent him a recap message to what I said to the moderators of Fanged Pickle.

So now we are at the end of the testimony. Sabi, Maru. I hope you guys can move on from this and find a healthier way of living, until you can show me that. Goodbye.

To those who read the whole thing, well? Here's another hint into who was behind this.

Addy

Hi. My name is Addy, as you can tell. Sabi and I met in 2018, prior to Ultimate's release in a server we both used when I went by my now deadname so if you know who I am from back then I have to kindly ask you do not refer to me using that deadname if you are to discuss this section of the document with anyone. Setting this up is just important. Sabi was cool at first. He would DM me with stuff he would talk about with his supposed sources, we would just chat, later on would talk about helping me with some drama that was going on in his own discord which I deem unimportant now. I confided in Sabi with something I had felt uncomfortable and scared about due to a horrific bout of paranoia I had for days. I struggle with post-traumatic stress disorder, panic disorder, severe depression and anxiety - possibly cognitive dissonance as well. Being a victim of sexual assault myself, what Sabi has done sickens me beyond belief given what I had told him I had been scared of - which what I think now, I was merely paranoid and baseless and things have already been hashed out and are okay. I apologize if I upset anyone - I know those DMs were leaked.

Sabi would put on a face about caring about my problems and fears in ways I do not want to divulge prior to these events due to several reasons, as people involved have likely changed for the better - with which I am happy about. He used them as leverage to make somebody else look bad in the wake of his horrific actions, and for that I despise him. Absolutely. I've felt sick for days knowing what he did, and knowing that so many people now know these things; whether people think less of me or not is something that scares me, but the fact he had attempted to cancel somebody with it is awful. That was never the intention. I was merely scared and paranoid and wished to confide in someone else. That was a mistake.

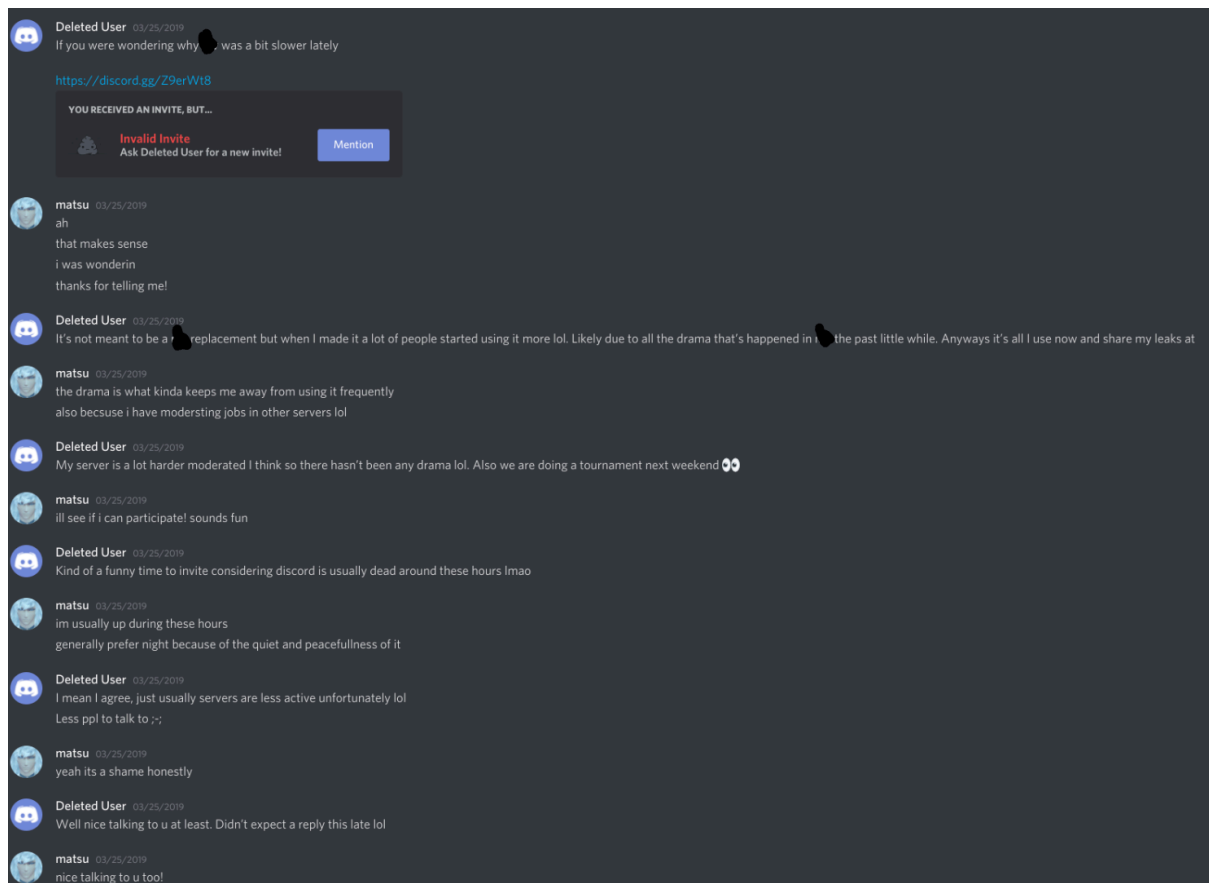

I am sorry if I have caused any trouble or heartache; if I have, I hope you can find it in me to forgive me. But don't forgive Sabi. There is a special place in hell for people like him.

Thank you for reading.

Matsu

Hello. I'm Matsu, and I want to share my story as an ex-Sabi Squad mod.

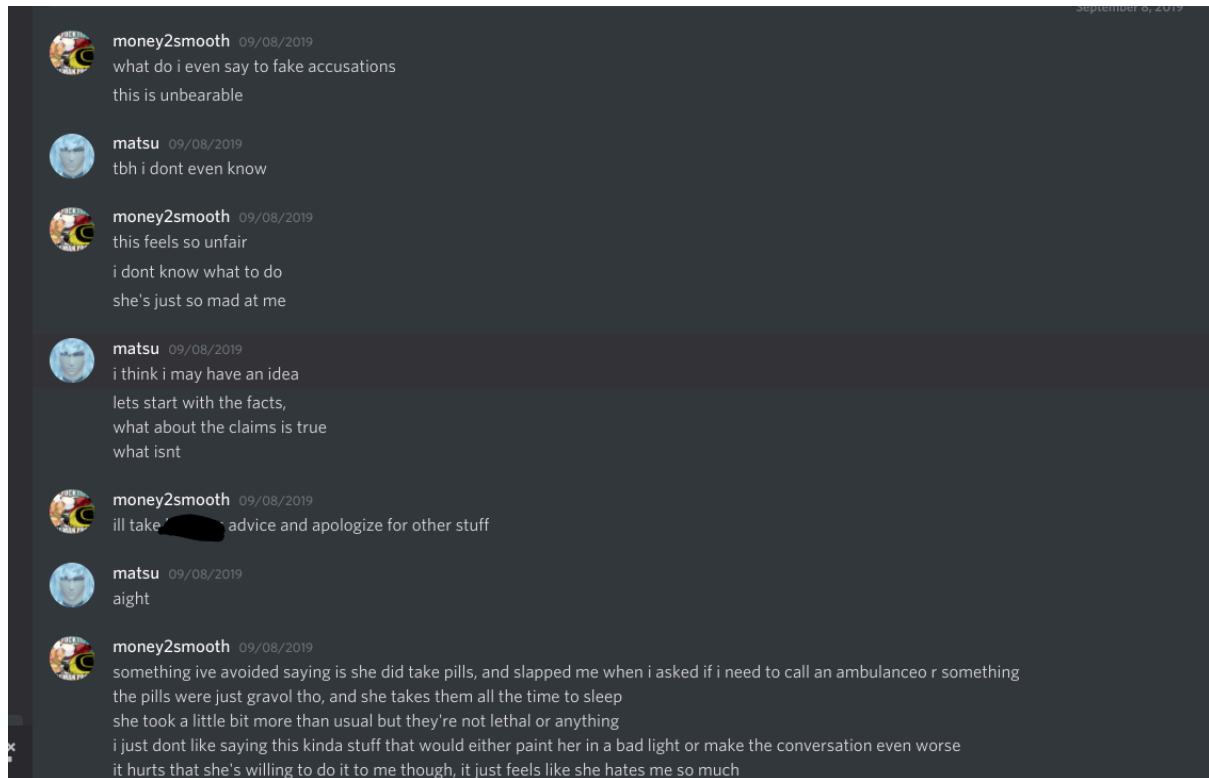

It all started in March 2019, when Sabi dms me to join this new server, called Sabi Squad. They wanted me on the server as I was once an active user of another speculation server that had gone silent around that time.

This is what kickstarted my initial respect for Sabi, as they seemed like a very kind and respectful person. The initial few months outside of this interaction aren't too notable, so I'll skip ahead.

My story begins to really kickstart at this point, July 26th, 2019. I was just in chat, when I noticed in the general chat, Sabi and his girlfriend, who I knew very little at the time of, Maru were making fun of an user. I knew this user ahead of time, due to another server, that they were also in. So, I was added to a group chat with me, an user called "David" (who will be playing a key part in this story), Sabi and Maru, and of course, the member mentioned prior. This group chat was used to harass this user over an admittedly poor in taste joke, and both Sabi and Maru refused to listen to their side of the story. In my head, I felt bad, but due to my naiveté, I chose to go along with them, besides staying comparatively quiet to Sabi and Maru, who were bullying this user over the joke. It all came to a close in the group chat, when "David" removed the user from the group chat. In Sabi Squad, I saw the two making fun of this user by asking them, "Are you trans?" This is the first I witnessed of Sabi's transphobic behavior. I initially didn't understand it, but it wasn't until later on in the year that I began to understand what this meant. We skip forward a couple days towards the end of July, which is when I became a mod in Sabi Squad. I was initially shocked by the fact I was a moderator, since I just woke up to it, but I chose to go along with it anyways. The reasoning given by Sabi was a drama between them and a former moderator, which I didn't think much of at the time. As a moderator, I tried my damned hardest to make sure the server was in peace, but with Sabi and Maru at the helm, it was so fucking difficult, I swear. Anyways, we skip forward to the beginning of September, the eighth, to be precise. If I recall correctly, there was some drama in mod chat, which resulted in me being dragged to the basement channel. There was some conflict between Sabi and Maru, which is when I first saw the cracks in their relationship. Sabi, who was on an alt, then ran to me to ask for advice on their problems. I was a minor at the time. 17, to be precise, and I didn't understand well, what he wanted me to do, but I tried my hardest to try and help them, as I still respected them at the time.

[money2smooth in this screenshot is Sabi.]

Not only is this irresponsible as an adult from Sabi, it's also heavily uncomfortable, as I was one to try to distance myself as much as possible from real life trauma. The next month starts with Sabi's actions against memoryman3 and due to my previously mentioned naiveté, I participated in it, but afterwards, I felt super gross and manipulated by Sabi to do such toxic things. It also exposed me fully to Sabi's especially gross transphobic behavior. It was after this incident began the incident with Turb0k, as previously noted in this document. With the Turb0k incident, Sabi was contacting me about it, and as I still believed him, I followed his word.

Deleted User 10/24/2019

Matsu you gotta give us a screenshot of Marus basement on ur phone

Deleted User 10/24/2019

hello?

matsu 10/24/2019

oh sorry

i fell asleep lmfao

Deleted User 10/24/2019

It was turbOk

We are gonna confront him soon

matsu 10/24/2019

wait what happened?

Deleted User 10/24/2019

Somebody tried to call me out on twitter over the memoryman shit

Turned out koiwai was an alt too

Memoryman never wanted it public lol

matsu 10/24/2019

so it was turbOk doing that?

Deleted User 10/24/2019

Yup

matsu 10/25/2019

why are there always like people who are active who begin to start doing dumb shit

Deleted User 10/25/2019

I dunno. I'm so disappointed

I'm not confronting him till the morning

Not sure what level of punishment I'll do

matsu 10/25/2019

why are there always like people who are active who begin to start doing dumb shit

Deleted User 10/25/2019

I dunno. I'm so disappointed

I'm not confronting him till the morning

Not sure what level of punishment I'll do

matsu 10/25/2019

i'd say attempted cancellation is a REALLY serious deal

no matter who you are

Deleted User 10/25/2019

He also have it away lol

Gave*

Besides his phone matching

He did something stupid in Marus basement

This was the Marus basement screenshot tweeted aye?

matsu 10/25/2019

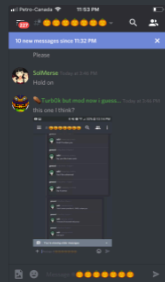

because cancellation can ruin someone's career and people who involve themselves with that someone

yeah

Deleted User 10/25/2019

Later in the afternoon he mentioned it and posted the image... except it was an uncompressed version. It's still there. Just nobody pointed it out LOL

Biggest yikes moment ever LOL

He basically proved himself that he took it because he posted the non-twitter compressed version

matsu 10/25/2019

yeah

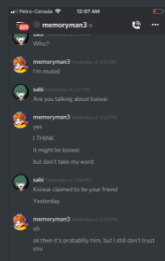

Deleted User 10/25/2019

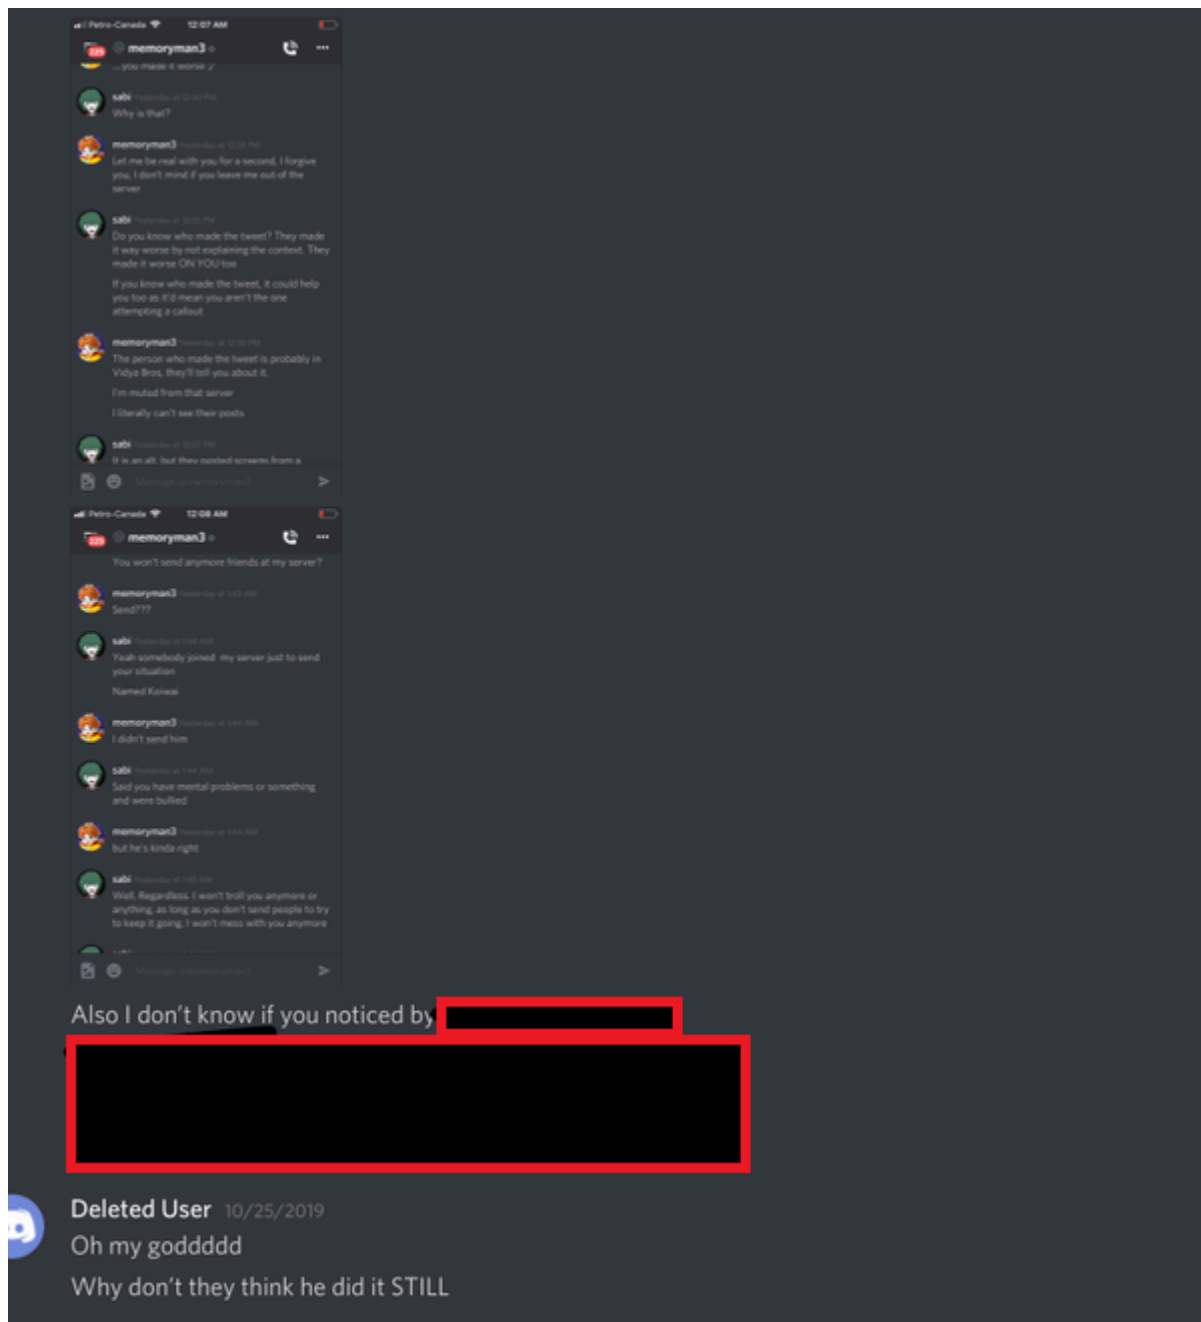

Idk if memoryman is telling me the truth about not knowing who this tweeter is, but I don't see a reason for him to lie

He told me the koiwai person from last night wasn't his friend either

So it's likely another alt used by the tweeter

AKA turb0k

And so, Sabi chose to witch-hunt one of his mods. It got to the point that said mod was SHAKING and was extremely nervous at work. It made me feel disgusted, after it was discovered that Turb wasn't at all involved. Sabi just chose to use his platform to harass an innocent. At this point, my respect for Sabi had begun to plummet quickly. A couple days later, my friend, "David" leaves the server. He leaves with a document expressing his grievances with Sabi and Maru. Maru quickly turns "David" into a boogeyman, claiming that he had said disrespectful things to Maru. I decided to look into this, as I've known my friend wouldn't do such a thing. Here is their response.

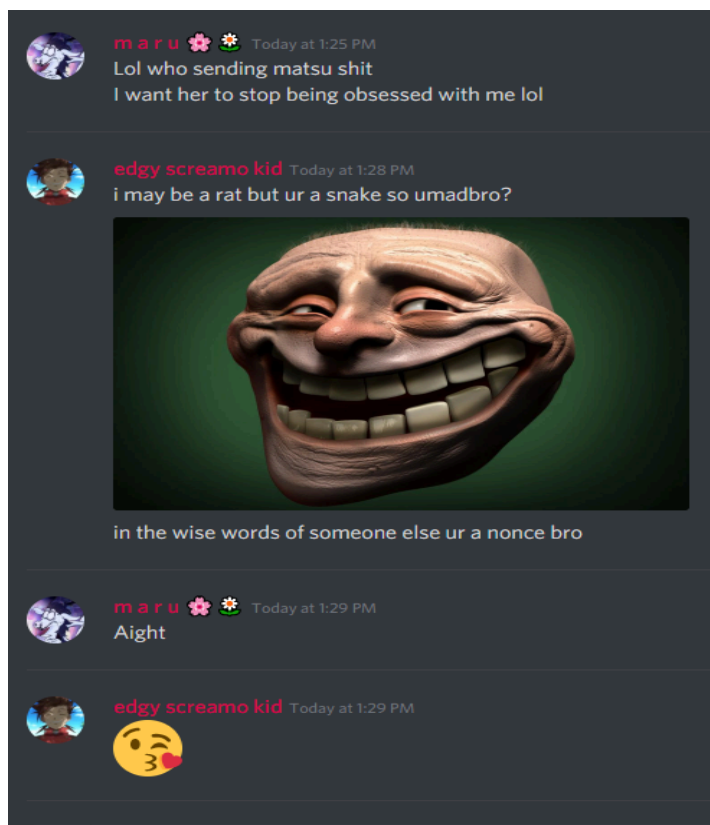

<https://imgur.com/a/fxxmdRr>

After seeing all of this shit happen with "David", I felt disgusted. I wanted so badly to speak up for my friend, as he genuinely didn't mean any ill will but I feared the consequences of doing so.

This is what also caused my slow resentment towards Maru, seeing her manipulative words against “David”, an innocent? It pissed me the hell off. So, as the next few weeks went by, this burning feeling in my head raged on, until eventually, the mod purge happened. I chose to not sit still, and let my friends be demonized and attacked by them, and I stood up for them. I was demoted on the spot, I was pissed off. I went on my alt, after I left and said “Too bad, all of the mods have to be a yes-man to a tyrant.” Maru got pissed, and wiped the chat. Sabi wanted to give me back my mod, but I declined if I was going to be censored for stepping up for those I care about. Sabi sent me an apology, which I later discovered was copy-pasted, and wanted me back on the mod team. December rolls around, and I decide to rejoin to mod again, both because I wanted to moderate and I wanted to see if anyone was shittalking me or my friends in the chat. Sabi wanted me so badly to apologize to Maru, but I declined because I knew that she hadn’t earned an apology from me. This had resulted in my inevitable demotion and my final departure from the server. Later on, in December, I was told about Maru shittalking me, so I decided to confront her in that group chat I mentioned earlier.

<https://imgur.com/a/vWtPt5m>

As a laugh, I decided to have my friend Enia post this into Maru’s server.

This was my final interaction with Sabi + Maru. By the end of it, I felt gross. I felt manipulated, lied to, and disposed of because they no longer found me useful. Since I already know they’ll be reading this, here’s my final message to you two. You both let your fame get to your head and use your power to prey on others, and for that, I hate you. I don’t want to interact with you any further because of that. However, I believe that you deserve the right to get help. I just don’t want you to ever be in power again.

Lazy “Mother Fucking” Gambit

So how was my experience with Sabi Squad? Well I'd say I met some cool people on that server that I do continue to talk to today, yet my experiences with them is almost entirely overshadowed by negative experience of being in the presence of both Sabi and Maru, or the Cuck and Nonce as they have been dubbed by many.

A Lot of people ask me how I became a moderator on that server. The answer is very simple, get somewhat close to Maru. That's right, I became a moderator because I interacted with Maru a few times. If only I knew then that accepting the moderator position on that server would only bring so much useless drama into my life.

Who even is Maru and why is she so important in all of this? She is Sabi's girlfriend and a very weird person. Through my conversations with her, it is very obvious that she has some sort of mental problem. She has talked a lot about her abusive past and though I feel sorry for her, it does not excuse any of her actions. As well in Sabi Squad, she had mentioned that she has some medication to help her with her mental problems, yet she doesn't take it. From what I understand, Sabi has very rarely tried to make her take the medication.

Both are very toxic to each other and have brought their real-life relationship problems to the server. Many times, in Maru's secret chat known as Maru's Basement, they would argue over their relationship. Mind you, they live under the same roof. I was one time dragged into the middle of their drama. Sabi and Maru had got into a physical fight and would both rely on me to send info between them. I try to be nice when I can, so I felt like I had to go along with it and be the “connection bridge” between them. Waste of my time. They would just continue to fight. Sadly, do to me deleting my DMs with them a while ago, Sabi's habit of deleting messages and their old accounts being deleted, I do not have screenshots.

You would expect a server that is called Sabi Squad to be owned by Sabi but behind the scenes she was the real owner, or rather ruler is a better fit. All Sabi Squad decisions were ultimately made by her, even if people on the mod team did not agree with her. Many of you who have been banned on Sabi Squad would know that this is true. One time she had banned a user who had made a simple loli joke. Now I understand that many see these jokes as distasteful, but at the end of the day it was most definitely a joke and not deserving of a ban. Now what was Sabi's opinion on this? To be frank I don't remember him doing anything about this situation at all. This isn't the only user to just get hit with the ban hammer of the tyrant Maru as her little pawn Sabi was nowhere to be found. I will discuss this more later.

Earlier I had mentioned a channel called Maru's Basement. This was a channel that Sabi had made specifically for Maru. Only Maru, Sabi (sometimes depending on if she let him have access), and the people that Maru liked had access to this chat. Coincidence or not, 90% of the mods were on that server were a part of that chat as well as a few regular users. The fact that Sabi allowed this channel to exist only showed how much he let her control the server. Within no time, it became the second most active channel on the server, killing off almost every channel besides mod chat and leaks/specs. In fact, Sabi would actively ask users to use her chat anytime a lot of them would move to general chat or the second general chat. This channel would bring a lot of problems with it.

Maru is a very sexual person. You can tell that by the way she talks and interacts with users she likes. There is nothing wrong with being more sexual in nature, but you need to understand that there is a limit to how sexual you can be and who you can be sexual with. Maru clearly did not understand that and Sabi publicly did nothing to stop her from doing what she did. Many of the people in her chat were young. I was about 17 at the time but there were users as young as 14 there.

Another problem that her channel caused was the time that Maru and Sabi decided to make up a situation where someone was moving the placement of the Maru's Basement channel. A quick notes version is that Maru and Sabi had accused a few specific moderators of moving a channel, did a bunch of "tests" to see who was really behind it and ultimately pressured some of them to leave the server. That's right, they fucking made people gang up on each other over a placement of a fucking discord channel.

Now I would like to discuss what many of us former mods dubbed as the "Mod Purges". The "Mod Purges" was the time that Maru was confronted by me and my fellow mods on her behaviour in the server. As the name implies, the mods got purged. In a fit of rage, Maru had banned and demoted almost the entire mod team because they confronted her toxic behaviour. What did Sabi do in this situation? Take a second to guess. That's right, he did nothing. Nothing is a bit of a stretch, what he really did was message me saying that he was giving the remaining mods who weren't banned their roles back one at a time. Yea right buddy, as if I'd stay after a move like that.

I would like to end with a message to Sabi and Maru. You are both disgustingly toxic to each other and the people around you. Solve your problems in person and face the fact that you might not be meant for each other. Fix yourselves and your disgusting behaviours. Lastly, as you both have had your fair share of abuse, in my eyes you should be the first to understand that emulating your experiences on others does more harm than good. Do I believe in second chances? I don't really know. As an Evangelion reference, You Can (Not) Redo.

Final Word

The past week for me has been exhilarating, so much has happened in so little time. But what has happened has given me, SolMerse, more hope than I think I ever had. I feel so fulfilled and empowered, Sabi's fate is already determined, it has been for a little while now, so this document may be seen as overkill to some. But a big part of it was working with those 20 or so other friends on this. It was making something that we wanted in the past stay there, once and for all. It was a sense of catharsis to do this with the best team that I have ever worked with.

I could not have done it alone, even though I slept four hour nights just to make sure this document could be done properly and well for over 100 pages, it was well-worth it. To be able to work with my old friends again like this was great, I hadn't really worked with them like this before, considering that for most of our time we were under the grip of Sabi and Maru. Now here we are turning the page to a new chapter without all this. I'm so glad. It's about time.

So I wanna thank them, thanking them for putting so much faith into me and helping, I think if it was just me I would have given up half-way through, honestly. Thank you x45x for your wise words in how to do this right. That VC call we had on this helped guide me, and surely the others. Thank you Matsu for detailing so much of your story for this, I never quite knew it at the time, so I'm glad. Thank you Legend for being there through it all and giving so much advice, I appreciated it all. Thank you Zorkats for being so brave to do this, I know it was very, very hard for you. But like I told you at first, you'd get through this. You did! Thank you Deku for being such a guiding force on this all, it was great to have you on our side and I'm so glad you'll be hosting this document. Thank you Lazy Gambit for being a great voice for the discussions we had regarding this document and other subjects we as a group discussed. Thank you also to the numerous anonymous people outside of the server to give help and support, your assistance was vital. This document was meant to be comprehensive and with your help we got there! I'm only mentioning people who I know for sure are okay with being named this way, but I will extend this thanks to the 19 other people in the server. I appreciate every single one of you immensely. Thank you all so much for being a part of this major thing for me and so many of us. Perhaps it would have been better to do this earlier, maybe back when Sabi Squad was still around. But I wouldn't want it done any other way. You're all the best.
