I. INTRODUCTION (Heading 1) (bold, 12-pt)

A. Sub-part (Heading 2)

The introduction consists of research background, research problems, research objectives, literature review, and related researches.

B. Sub-part (Heading 2)

If there are two or more sub-topics, the next level of heading (uppercase Roman numerals) should be used, on the other hand, if there are no at least two sub-topics, then no subheadings should be introduced. Styles named "Heading 1," "Heading 2," "Heading 3," and "Heading 4" are prescribed.

II. METHOD

Method used should be complemented by cited sources. It consists of research design, research procedures, data collection technique, operational definitions of research variables, and data analysis method.

$$r_{11} = \left[\frac{k}{k-1} \right] \left[\frac{s^2 - \sum pq}{s^2} \right] \quad (3.6)$$

Keterangan:

k = Banyak butir pertanyaan

p = Proporsi banyaknya subjek yang menjawab pada item 1

q = $1 - p$

s^2 = varians total

(Sugiyono, 2014)

III. RESULTS AND DISCUSSION

Results and discussion are in the same section and contain research implication. The results present the research findings and can be complemented by tables/charts/figures. The discussion presents the result of data processing and interpretation. It also links them to the relevant references.

The tables are presented with single space, bookman old style font 10-pt, and without left and right border. The titles of the tables should be typed on the top of the tables, while the titles of the charts/figures should be typed below the charts/figures. The titles use single space, center justification, and bookman old style font 9-pt. The tables, charts, and figures should be presented in numerical order, for example:

Table 1

Group	Pre-T est	Treatmen t	Post- Test
Experimenta 1	O ₁	X ₁	O ₂
Control	O ₁	X ₂	O ₂

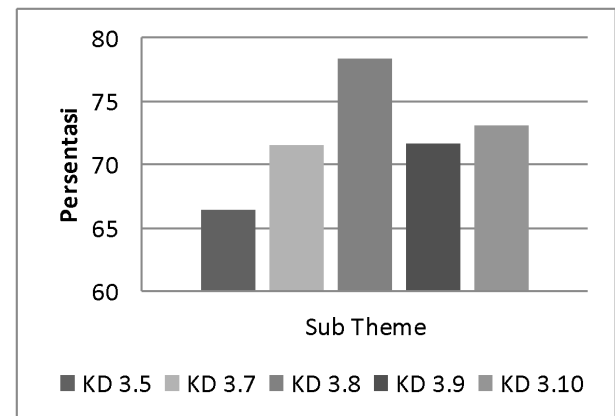

Chart 1

IV. CONCLUSION

Conclusion of the research findings can lead the readers to understand the important things obtained in the research and should be presented clearly and briefly.

REFERENCES

References include only those that are cited/referred to in the article. In addition, the references used should be from those published in the last 10 years and derived from books and scientific journals. Furthermore, the references should be presented alphabetically at the last section of article and based on the following (examples):
