

Call for Equity-related materials for the ASNNA Website's Resource Clearinghouse

The Race, Health and Social Equity Committee is developing a set of resources for SNAP-Ed programs related to race, health, and social equity, which will be housed on the updated ASNNA website. This clearinghouse will provide resources, materials, and ideas from SNAP-Ed programs that have implemented explicit equity-based work into different aspects of their program models. We are inviting you to send in materials for possible posting. These include:

- Training resources you have developed related to equity, anti-racism, or similar topics
- Land acknowledgement resources
- SNAP-Ed plan language:
 - o Language around professional development/training related to anti-racism, equity, or similar topics
 - o Language around culturally responsive programming (including adapting materials, trainings or other program elements to be culturally responsive)
 - o Language around leveraging SNAP-Ed resources, especially funding, to those most affected by SNAP-Ed programming, such as through engaging SNAP-Ed eligible residents as consultants or advisory committee members, through participatory budgeting processes, or via subawards to local organizations.
 - o Language around developing equitable PSE efforts
 - o Language around trauma-informed practices
- Equitable evaluation resources, trainings, and/or processes
- Other relevant resources that support equity and anti-racism in SNAP-Ed
- Resources that guide community engagement of those impacted by SNAP-Ed, such as community residents as consultants and/or collaborators on the direction of SNAP-Ed initiatives or programs.

Submissions should come from approved SNAP-Ed Plans.

Note: We will stipulate on the website that any SNAP-Ed plan language be vetted through your State SNAP-Ed Coordinator and/or SNAP-Ed Regional Coordinator prior to implementation.

If you have any questions, please contact Molly De Marco at molly_demarco@unc.edu. Materials can be emailed to Snapedworks@gmail.com.
