

Take another look at the Agile Manifesto,
Reimagined to reflect the projects and tasks you and your teams take on to support students this summer.
Although we can't do everything, we can focus on what's more important.

The Agile Manifesto

We are uncovering better ways of developing software (supporting students) by doing it and helping others do it.
Through this work we have come to value:

Individuals and interactions over processes and tools
Working software (Student successes) over comprehensive documentation
Customer (Student and stakeholder) collaboration over contract negotiation
Responding to change over following a plan

That is, while there is value in the items on the right, we value the items on the left more.
