This is the one hundred and ninety-two of Shatter The Vain! My name is Brad Chmielewski and this is a podcast all about Vainglory. Every Week I try and breakdown the news, gameplay, game tips and hopefully we all become better players together.

This week I'm joined by WookieForc3, Welcome!

It's great to have you here!

Please introduce yourself...

So I think we're going to mainly talk about what happened at the Pre-Launch party but first I wanted everyone to know a little more about you.

Tell everyone about your stream?

How Often?

You've been streaming a lot more than just Vainglory?

How are you liking AoV compared to Vainglory? Do you think AoV is going to hold the audience in NA once 5v5 Vainglory is here?

Pre-Launch Party

Ok so let me first set up the event for anyone that just was watching the stream... not I didn't watch much of the stream and I have to go back

What did you think of the event?

I really didn't watch many of the matches but I would say players are still learning the map. I saw multiple times when there was 4 in the bottom lane someone was in the top farming rather than pushing out a wave. And I can tell from the games I've played that happening well we don't need to always be fighting.

New Music

3.0 - Launching February 13th Global

Skins

Esports - Not starting till June. VPL (Vainglory Premier League) April Pre-Season

Razer - Global partnership (I didn't win a phone but I'm still down to test and review the phone if SEMC or Razer wants to send me a device, they should really get me a device to give away here)

ESP Gaming - All the VPL events are gonna take place here? In the heart of the Vegas Strip So they are moving out of the Lair. This likely frees up a lot of time for the team at the office but it also means you're gonna see some of the team traveling more.

ClosetNerd part of this… https://twitter.com/SJeneris/status/961777766109659136

Ok so that was the main news we saw at the event but you know as the night goes on you get people drinking and they start talking. A few things I've heard there is likely a new hero in 3.1 which isn't s shocked since 2.12 and 3.0 didn't have a hero. THen the VGL / VIS challenger series… there hasn't been a full announcement but this haven't been forgotten and I think they had to make it a bigger and more important part of the esports road map.

Over all talking to the devs it seems like they are pretty excited for 2018 Vainglory. This is gonna be a defining year for the game.
