

Paraprofessional: Deaf and Hard of Hearing

Course Final Project

Be prepared to share your work within a portfolio with the Course Guide during your module completion final meeting.		Course Guide Notes
Share one target or discussion point your student centered team or your Course Guide identified when reviewing the Levels of Independence in the Classroom for Students Who Are Deaf and Hard of Hearing related to your role and the student you support.
Reflect on the Observation Tool that you completed during the first section of the module. Complete the Observation Tool again. If you have completed the Observation Tool during this module training, please be prepared to share these Observation Tools. Write a short reflection on how you felt using the tool.
Be able to identify the amplification that your student utilizes. Be able to demonstrate how you monitor and troubleshoot the student's personal amplification and the district owned devices. Write a brief reflection on your responsibilities vs. the student responsibilities related to their amplification. Make a copy of the most recent Amplification Monitoring documentation.
Select one article from the section regarding the Impact of the Hearing Loss. Identify which potential area from the pyramid the article addresses. Write a one paragraph reflection on how this article impacts your student and your support for the student.

The Auditory Verbal Strategies to Build Listening and Spoken Language Skills (AVS) included a comprehensive list of strategies. Identify two of the strategies which are important for your student to build and develop independence.
There were several strategies targeting vocabulary. List one of the strategies tried and the corresponding targeted word.
Identify the eleven social skills on the website, Improving your Child's Social Skills , identify which skills your student has mastered or need to improvement.

Once this face to face conversation occurs, the Course Guide will submit for final approval and certificate of completion will be given.

Congratulations!
