

We need to talk about Fawn.

@kaeyadore.bsky.social - BEWARE!

Please, I beg of you. Copy the link to this document, share it to everyone you know. Eat it, shit it out, and flush it down the toilet to share this information even to sewage lovers who must listen.

I met Fawn on January 26th, the day and year of my birth. We were both babies, creatures who were pure. We had not sinned. We were as fresh as snow, until it all grew into a bloody mess that could never be reversed.

Fawn sent me something unforgivable.

I'm scared.

I can't even look

Fawn isn't a Fawn. Fawn is a Monster. There is nothing about Fawn that is innocent. This is someone who knows how to manipulate the ones he "loves", this is someone who uses people he "loves" for things I could never imagine.

That image is how he does it. He sends it to others and hurts them with it. It's disgusting. It's deplorable. I'm sure you all get it by now. He's the creator of that creature. That creature who is the symbol of yuri.

You know why Fawn did this.

He's trying to normalize IRL yuri.

...

I'm sorry, but I don't support IRL yuri.

This image further contributes to Fawn's manipulation tactics. IRL yuri is harmful to our ecosystem and our daily life.

And the worst part is how he twists the narrative to make it seem harmless, even “artistic.” He hides behind the creature’s design, pretending it’s all just an aesthetic choice, when really it’s another layer of his influence. People deserve to know when they’re being pushed or coerced into accepting something they never agreed to in the first place. It’s not just about the image, it’s about the pattern of behavior, the pressure, and the deliberate erosion of boundaries. That’s the part I refuse to overlook.

In the end, all I can do is stand by what I believe in and call things out when people cross a line. If others choose to look the other way, that’s on them, but I’m not going to be silent about something that’s wrong.

Stay clear of Fawn. Don't interact with him. Please, stay safe.