

Rodney J. Neal was raised in the church and could be found singing at the tender age of three at his great grandmother's church (Church of God of Prophecy- Cambridge, Md). It was there Rodney received Christ at an early age under his great grandmother's leadership, the late Pastor Shirley Ann Batson. He comes from a family background full of singers and preachers.

Through his music ministry Rodney realized there was a greater calling on his life other than singing; and always used the opportunity to also minister to God's people. Truly he has been preaching for a long time and although he tried to resist as long as he possibly could; the word was there and God always prevails! God was calling Rodney to higher heights of ministry through the Word of God. In 2012 Rodney finally acknowledged his call to preach the gospel of Jesus Christ.

Rodney currently serves as President & Founder of United Worshippers Collective; Uniting, Educating, and Activating emerging leaders to impact the world. He is also the CEO of RJN Conglomerate "Building Generational Bridges through Leadership, Communication and Branding Development in every sphere of influence." He is the proud father of one precious daughter Lyrik Neal who resides with him. His favorite scripture to live by is Proverbs 16:7 When a man's ways please the Lord, he maketh even his enemies to be at peace with him.
