RISK CLASS:

Danger

LOCATION: Uncontained

SPECIAL CONTAINMENT PROCEDURES

§1. CONTAINMENT PROCEDURES

SCP-19876 should be held in one of the many humanoid containment cells posing as suites in Site-666. It should include a king sized bed, a large mirror, air conditioning, a 70 inches television, a leather armchair, a separate bathroom with a large automatic bathtub and a sauna room. SCP-19876-A should constantly be put under the illusion it's in a luxury hotel, and that it can only leave its room once it has completed certain tests for its "next tour". SCP-19876-B should be supervised at all times by a hidden security camera, and so should SCP-19876-C.

Alternatively, if SCP-19876-A is uncooperative, Naismith-Henderson Lambda Wave Sinks are to be activated so SCP-19876-A cannot use its anomalous properties to attempt an escape.

§2. RECALL PROCEDURES

Should SCP-19876 make its way out of containment, be it via an aggressive outburst of SCP-19876-B, or SCP-19876-A managing to leave its room to explore the site, security personnel are to be immediately dispatched to the location, equipped with Naismith-Henderson Lambda Wave Sinks. If only SCP-19876-A has breached, it should be calmly guided back towards its containment cell, with the sink activated. Should it be non compliant, the use of Anomalous Humanoid Sink Restraints is authorized, along the sink previously mentioned.

Should SCP-19876-B have breached, the use of the BLASTR and Thaumic dampeners are authorized, as well as the use of regular bullets. After it has sustained enough damage, SCP-19876-B will return to its original form, where it should be returned to its containment cell. Alternatively, personnel can attempt to break SCP-19876-C's bubble, consequently waking up SCP-19876-A, and forcing SCP-19876-B into its original non lethal form.

DESCRIPTION

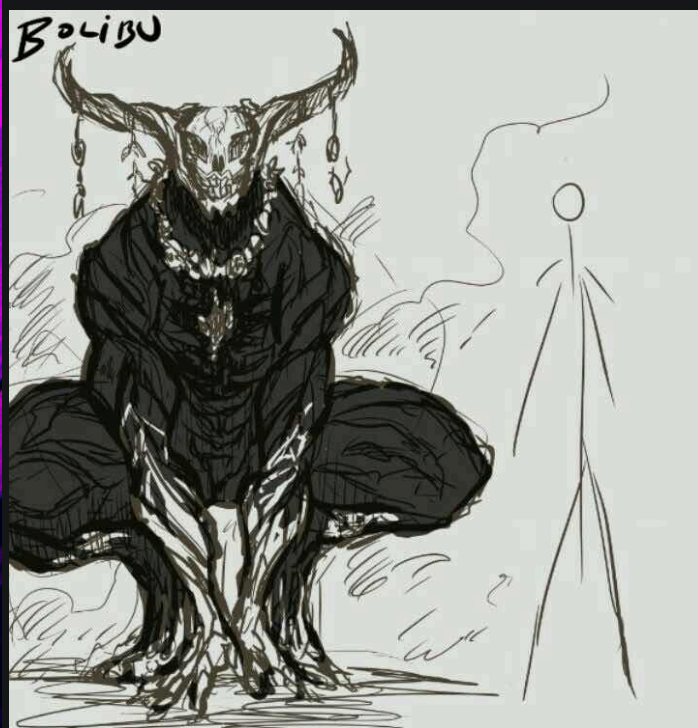

§1. APPEARANCE DESCRIPTION

SCP-19876-A refers to a tartarean entity of the Acedia Subtype. It takes a humanoid appearance, resembling a 23 year old female human with white skin, short white hair, purple colored eyes and measuring 166 cm in height. Long black horns pointing upwards are also typically seen in this form. It will wear many different outfits that it stores within SCP-19876-C. However, it will often wear a black hoodie, white sweatpants and purple slippers. She will also wear accessories that can typically fit a purple jewel, which it refuses to hand over to further analysis.

SCP-19876-B refers to a plush doll, measuring 15 cm. It resembles a wendigo with demonic features, being black in color, possessing white horns, thin white eyes and a set of white sharp teeth. It is made of plush and presumably stuffed with cotton, with only an unidentified red jewel being composed of unknown materials. Alternatively, SCP-19876-B will take the appearance of a Tartarean entity also of the Acedia subtype, measuring 270 cm, with sharp claws, larger horns and teeth, and an iron necklace containing the same unidentified red jewel.

SCP-19876-C refers to a cloud that is variable in size, but typically measures 60-190 cm in length. It takes a pitch black coloration, and often can be seen with electrical currents in the purple color. Strangely, it doesn't seem to harm SCP-19876-A and SCP-19876-B in specific, at least naturally.

§2. PROPERTIES

SCP-19876-A possesses psionic capabilities. As of January 2024, it has displayed the following capabilities:

- The ability to read thoughts and desires, being able to access memories from when the subject was 18-25 years old, and recent memories. It typically takes advantage of this to make fun of its victim.
- The ability to make objects and people levitate via telekinesis. It seems to have more difficulty executing the ability depending on the weight of the item affected. (Range of 10 meters around it, can't lift more than 110 kg)
- The ability to talk to organisms via psionic means. (Maximum of three individuals at a time, in a 10 meter radius)
- The ability to influence the mood of organisms, primarily intensifying happiness, fear, anger and sadness.

SCP-19876-B possesses both psionic and polymorphic capabilities, along others that can't be classified. Examples include:

- The ability to induce visions and hallucinations into people. It seems to have more difficulty executing this depending on how detailed and realistic the vision is. (Range of 10 meters, takes two turns to complete)
- The ability to influence the mood of organisms. It has been able to intensify rage, tranquility, sadness and fear.
- Superhuman strength, capable of breaking through walls and lifting cars with relative ease.
- Climbing capabilities. Due to its sharp claws, it manages to climb surfaces, even if completely flat.
- The ability to run speeds of 80-130 km/h by the use of its four limbs. It can also leap and jump 6 meters ahead of itself.

SCP-19876-B has only manifested into its secondary form if SCP-19876-A is asleep or endangered. Although SCP-19876-A is capable of talking to it psionically, it rarely has controlled SCP-19876-B's form when awake.

SCP-19876-C can only be safely interacted with by SCP-19876-A and SCP-19876-B. Any other organism that desires to touch it must convince SCP-19876-A to "allow it". Otherwise, touching may lead to a weak electric shock. The item is capable of housing objects larger than itself, and has no defined space limit. Objects found inside were a microphone, an electric keyboard, a guitar, many outfits, maps, books and comic books, perfumes and cameras. The instance is able to have the first two instances stand, sit or lay on it despite its gaseous properties. It can fly 5 meters upwards and is controlled psionically by SCP-19876-A. It typically follows the first instance, and acts like a transport method.

SCP-19876-C is also able to encase SCP-19876-A when it sleeps on top of it via a purple substance taking the shape of a bubble. The substance is very resistant to damage, yet can be destroyed by sustained gunfire. (4 turns to destroy it)

All instances displays high levels of Tartarean Resonance Energy.

SCP-19876-A can be called via a demonic ritual. The summoner must use different types of foods, preferably sweets and apples as an offering, while begging in Latin for fame and fortune in the fastest possible way. The ritual must happen in dark places, either a small room or a forest past 7 pm. The demon's name is "Zoru". It is not guaranteed that SCP-19876-A will answer the call for the ritual, but it has displayed a tendency to appear because of it.

DISCOVERY AND HISTORY

§1. PRE-DISCOVERY

SCP-19876 is regularly seen in not only Undervegas but the American states of Florida, New York, California and Nevada, typically singing in subway stations. It only became a veil concern when it started to host its performances in casinos in Nevada. It started to gather a small portion of local fans, and managed to avoid capture by Iota-10 agents posing as local police.

ADDENDUM §1 – NOTES

N/A

ADDENDUM §2 – RESEARCH ROUTES

- Discover the preciseness of SCP-19876's psionic capabilities.
- Test how much control SCP-19876-A has over instance B
- Determine the level of sapience of SCP-19876-B
- Analyze the components that make up SCP-19876-C
- Question SCP-19876-A about it's past
- Test SCP-19876-A and SCP-19876-B's physical reaction to holy water.

ADDENDUM §5 – ACTIVITY EXCERPT

“Oh, please! I'm civilized, even if not human.”

Zoru would say, as she laid down on SCP-19876-C, taking a relaxed position, and holding SCP-19876-B in its plush form.

“I didn't mean to offend, I'm sorry! It's just.. I never had a calling ritual actually work until now, nor have I talked to a demon before.”

A young lady would say, as she stared at Zoru from across the pentagram drawn on the floor.

“Full transparency, it wasn't exactly your ritual that had me come here. I entered through the window of the house, if you didn't notice. I was more interested in your 'chanting', if you can call it that. You wanted fame, didn't you? Fans and money and the like.”

“Y-yes, I do. And I was wondering what would the price be-”

“Can you sing or play anything?”

“I can play the guitar...decently enough, I suppose.”

“Works. Give me a second.”

Zoru reached into SCP-19876-C, pulling out a black guitar with purple strings. She approached the girl slowly and said:

“Here. Show me what you got.”

“But I'm not professional yet! I may miss a few chords and-”

“We die in the dark so that they may live in the light.”

“Wahh wahh wahh, just play it, girl! Nobody is born as Elvis or MJ, you know?”

The woman then took the guitar and started to, slowly but surely, play “Hercules” by Elton John. During it, Zoru danced and sang the lyrics of the song. As the song ended, the demon spoke:

“I’m not lying, I DO like that! You have a bright future up ahead, honey. You just got to practice a wee bit more.”

“So this is it? You’re suggesting I become a singer for fame? But there are so many better singers out there-”

“Shhh.”

She laid her finger on the lady’s lips, before saying:

“Even I started as a nobody, girl. Undervegas seemed scary at first, but now I do have some folks who do like me. I’m sure it’s even easier for a full on human like you. Just dream big.”

“I guess..”

With that, the demon got on top of SCP-19876-C, and flew away by the window, waving the girl goodbye, as she headed towards Las Vegas once more.
