

The Ultimate Resolution

by Skipperdoodle Productions

You chafe at situations unresolved.

Understandable, given humans' desire for closure.

As you've aged, though,

You've realized some things linger unresolved.

They stick in your craw,

Recurring and annoying.

But now you see that some of them will just have to stay unresolved.

Over time, you conclude that maybe resolution wasn't as vital as your heart believed.

Until one day the epiphany strikes.

All things of any importance were resolved

Long ago,

When Christ died for your sins.
