

Dear [mention the name],

It is the day when [mention the name of your child] loves you more than me, (laughs). Though you ask him or her not to do anything special for you, you know him or her. He or she never listens and I am with my baby. He or she shouldn't. After all, on this day he or she should do something for the man who works hard all around the year, to give us a good life, loving his or her mom and him or her. What can be a better day to show love to such a man, than the father's day?

I have seen how much you have done for us. There have even been days when we saw you pulling all-nighters at the office and you came back home the next day. You compromised a lot in your life to make sure that we live a good life and received promotions in such a short time. I was able to get all the happiness I could have imagined or wanted because of you and [mention the name of your child] could receive a good education and good values because of you.

It's true that he or she loves me the most but then; you are very much special to him or her. You know how he or she is. He or she is unable to express his or her true feelings, but the truth is, he or she cares and respects you the most. I have seen him or her working hard last time to receive a gold medal in [mention the name of the subject] so that he or she can free you from your burdens soon and can get a good job in the near future.

Let him or her do whatever he or she wants to do for you today. Make sure to pretend like you are surprised (laughs) and just thank him or her for his or her efforts.

Yours [mention your name]
