

President Gunnz011 sends out a Tweet right before walking onto the stage in front of a group of a few hundred immigrants who were just declared as American citizens. The crowd cheers as President Gunnz011 approaches the microphone and begins to speak.

“Hello, Americans!” The crowd goes crazy with excitement. “I am so happy to be here with you all on this day that none of you will ever forget. Today your lives will be changed forever because today you are now an American citizen! America is the greatest country in the world and all of you will be able to have a better life now that you have made the change and moved to this amazing nation. America is a nation of immigrants and all of you now have the ability to make your mark on this world and this country like the first immigrants to this country did. The American dream is real and every single one of you on track to living your American dream.”

“Currently the United States of America is in a time of historic growth and achievement. America today is far better than America six years ago. You all have chosen a great time to move to this amazing nation. Now I do want to apologize to all of you. It took all of you far too long to become a citizen in this country and that honestly needs to change. It should not have taken most of you months or even years to get to this point. Back in the day, it took hours, maybe days at the longest. Today it takes far too long and for honestly no good reason. It is an issue on the American side of things, well all of our side of things now. So I am truly sorry about that but I expect that to change very soon. Hopefully within the next 4 years.”

“Now I know that all of you are excited to get out and make a difference so I’m going to end this speech fairly soon. I know that I am so happy that all of you are American citizens now. Honestly, immigration is one of the best things in America. Immigration to this country shows that people still want to move here to try to change their lives for the better. I feel that you all becoming citizens now is a great compliment to everyone in this country and our government because you all see this nation as a land of opportunity. Too many people in this country tend to forget that America is the greatest nation in the world. We guarantee more freedom rights than most other western nations and we allow so much more to be said and done than most other nations. We allow everyone to have a say no matter their background, beliefs, age, and other things that people say separate us. You see, I truly do not believe that we are separate. We all bleed the same color and live under the same great God and flag. All of you are now Americans. There is no difference in you and someone who has lived here their entire lives. You are the same as them because you bleed the same color, live under the same flag now, and have always lived under the same God. Never let anyone tell you otherwise.”

“Now I said I would not let this speech go on too long so I guess I will wrap it up here. I want to say thank you, to all of you, for becoming American citizens and for being part of this amazing nation. I am so glad you are all here now, in this land of opportunity and freedom. Thank you for choosing America to be the place you spend the rest of your life. Welcome to the United States of America. God bless you all and God bless America!”

President Gunnz011 walks off the stage and heads into the crowd as the crowd is cheering.

President Gunnz walks around the crowd shaking hands and talking to a few of the new American citizens about why they moved here and what they plan to do now that they are American citizens. After speaking to them for a while, President Gunnz011 leaves and heads to speak with some Border Patrol agents about his immigration plan. President Gunnz approaches the agents and begins to speak with one of them.

Gunnz: “How are you doing today?”

Agent 1: “I am doing great Mr. President, how are you?”

Gunnz: “I am doing pretty good. Just trying to win this election haha.”

Agent 1: “Yeah I get that.”

Gunnz: “Well I hope you like my policy points I’m about to release to you all, haha.”

Agent 1: “I’m sure we will. I loved your immigration policy back when you represented us in Congress.”

Gunnz: “Thanks, that means a lot to me.”

Agent 1: “It’s no problem, Mr. President.”

President Gunnz011 climbs onto the back of a border patrol truck and begins to speak to the group of border patrol agents about his immigration plan.

“Hey everybody!” the crowd shouts back “hey.” “As you all know I am here to talk about my new five-point immigration plan that I believe will help all of you do your job and will finally fix our broken immigration system. For so long our government has failed to lay out an immigration system reform that will actually work. Our government prefers to yell back and forth about random things and completely ignore the needs of our citizens and even border patrol agents. When I was elected to Congress, representing you all, I supported and pushed multiple pieces of legislation that would have brought comprehensive immigration reform to the country. Sadly, none of it survived because the Democrats, at the time, would have rather supported open border policies over truly fixing our immigration system to work for everyone. The Democrats have always pushed for a radical approach to immigration reform instead of what I have been begging for, which is a moderate approach. With that said, here is my immigration plan.”

“The first step in my immigration plan is to increase the number of immigration judges we have on our immigration courts. I feel that by increasing the number of immigration judges we will cause our immigration system to speed up and become more efficient. Currently, we have a major backlog and that causes so many people to have wait months or years to have a chance at U.S. citizenship. By increasing the number of judges we will solve that issue completely and will help you all by lowering the number of people trying to enter our country illegally. I personally feel that most people come to this country illegally because the system takes so long for them to have a chance, it is so expensive, and it is really difficult. Which leads me to my second and third points.”

“My second and third points are to make the test to become a U.S. citizen easier and to lower the cost to become a U.S. citizen, respectively. I believe by making the test easier we will increase the number of immigrants we take in and will lower the amount that fails and has to retake the test. If an average American cannot pass the test to become a U.S. citizen, then it simply should not be the test. I have said that for years yet for some reason Congress fails to pass legislation to bring that reform. Now in regards to my third point, we have to lower the cost to become a U.S. citizen. It currently costs most people over $400 dollars to become a citizen. That is ridiculous. These people are coming to this country for a better life, not to go in debt to get that better life. I believe it is unfair and not right for it to be so expensive. If both of those points are implemented, along with point 3, we will be able to drastically decrease the number of people trying to enter this nation illegally, which will make you all's job so much easier, haha.”

“My final two points in my immigration plan are to get new, modern, equipment for all of you and to increase funding for the Border Patrol department.” The crowd of border patrol agents cheers at the mention of those two points. “I believe that our border patrol are in desperate need of new equipment and more funding. Don't you all agree?” The agents shout in agreement. “If we can get increased funding and new equipment for you all we will give you guys the ability to do your job to the best of your ability. You guys deserve the best equipment our nation can offer, you should not have to deal with old and deeply used equipment any longer. When I am re-elected I will do everything I can to get these two points passed through Congress to ensure that you guys have the things and funding you all need to be successful.”

“I believe that if we can get this five-point immigration plan done we will be able to finally fix America's broken immigration system. This is a nation of immigrants, therefore our immigration system should reflect that, while at the same time our border patrol deserves the best we can give them. I want to thank all of you for your service to this country. You guys do so much more than people in America truly realize. Sadly, you all are one of the most talked-about political topics, yet nothing is ever done. I will get something done for you guys. So once again, thank you for serving the great United States of America. God bless you all.”

The crowd cheers as immigration policy fliers are handed out to all of the agents. President Gunnz011 hops off the back of the truck, shakes hands, and talks to some agents about their opinions on his plan. He also signs some things for some of the agents. Before leaving another agent approaches him.

Agent 2: “I want you to know that I completely support your plan.”

Gunnz: “Thank you. That really means a lot. I hope I can get it done during my second term.”

Agent 2: “I hope you can too. You have my vote and support, Mr. President.”

President Gunnz011 smiles at the agent before responding.

Gunnz: “Thank you!”

President Gunnz011 and the agent shake hands before Gunnz011 leaves and heads to his next campaign event.
