

Study Information Sheet and Data Privacy Notice - Survey

Study Information Sheet for:

An investigation into the progression of sexual freedom and autonomy across three generations, with a focus on gender differences.

About this research

This research is an investigation into the progression of sexual freedom and autonomy across three generations: Boomer, Millennial and Gen Z, with a focus on whether this progression is mirrored across genders.

You are being invited to take part by completing this survey. The survey is anonymous. It does not collect any data that could be used to identify you.

The lead researcher is Alex Thomas at at2023@york.ac.uk. They are being supervised by Dr Silvia Falcetta silvia.falcetta@york.ac.uk.

The research is being carried out as part of an undergraduate degree in Social and Political Science at the University of York.

About the survey

The survey includes questions about

- What beliefs each generation hold about sexual freedom and autonomy
- Whether those beliefs become more or less liberal with each generation
- Whether the views of different genders in each generation mirror each other.

It will take you around 15 minutes to complete.

Your responses will only be included if you complete the survey and press submit.

Do I have to take part?

No. Taking part is voluntary. You do not have to answer any questions you don't want to. The only compulsory question is at the start, which asks if you meet the inclusion criteria.

You can exit the survey at any time.

Where will survey data stored and how will it be used?

Your data will only be used for the purposes of the study, and it will be treated as highly confidential.

Only the researcher will have access to data provided.

Your data will be stored securely on university account google drives.

Your data will only be kept for the purposes of the research until graduation.

The 'Data Privacy Notice' at the end of the Study Information Sheet provides further information.
