

Part 1

Circle the pronouns.

1. In a rush of excitement, she darted inside the library's welcoming doors, racing to find the book her sister had been talking about.
2. To everyone's surprise, Justin dribbled the basketball down the court, skillfully maneuvering past his opponents and then dunking on them.
3. That's Sharisse, the girl who volunteers with me at the animal shelter. She's someone I can rely on to have a good attitude, even when the dogs bark at her.
4. Jane Austen, a figure synonymous with classic English literature, crafted narratives that are still beloved by a wide range of readers today.

Part 2

In each sentence, circle all the pronouns. Then, in the chart below, add each pronoun and its antecedent. If there is no antecedent, leave it blank. (An antecedent is the word the pronoun refers to.)

1. On Saturday mornings, Myesha loved going to the skatepark, where she practiced kickflips and ollies until her mom called her home for dinner.

Pronoun 1: she	Antecedent: Myesha
Pronoun 2: her	Antecedent: Myesha
Pronoun 3: her	Antecedent: Myesha

2. In the quiet of the library, Javeria found herself lost in a science fiction novel, glued to its frightening plot of evil computers taking over the world.

Pronoun 1: herself	Antecedent: Javeria
Pronoun 2: its	Antecedent: a science fiction novel

3. When the Lumière brothers unveiled their invention—the marvel of moving images—they couldn't have imagined how it would revolutionize society.

Pronoun 1: their	Antecedent: the Lumière brothers
Pronoun 2: they	Antecedent: the Lumière brothers
Pronoun 3: it	Antecedent: their invention

4. Whosoever among ye finds a certain golden sword, which has been lost for some time, shall receive a reward for thy noble act.

Pronoun 1: Whosoever	Antecedent: N/A
Pronoun 2: ye	Antecedent: N/A
Pronoun 3: which	Antecedent: a certain golden sword
Pronoun 4: thy	Antecedent: N/A