

Ryder Millet and his fiancée, Alice, who appeared to be quite pregnant, were spotted entering the property of the Law office of Matthew Dune Thursday evening with another woman with striking white hair and translucent white skin. Her identity is currently unknown. They appeared to be bringing food.

The visitors were greeted by a large man, with dark hair and beard, assumedly Matthew Dune of Dune Law. Officer Fuller showed up some time later. Perhaps there are legal troubles afoot, at least for Millet. It is public knowledge that he has a rather sordid past.

Eyewitness reports spotted Hope Lockhart in the window allegedly breastfeeding a tiny baby, assumingly her own. This begs the question of who is the father of the child? Could it be Millet's, whom she had the affair with? They had claimed via twitter that they had not had sex but the presence of the baby suggests that this affair had been going on for much longer than they let on.

A reliable source revealed that "He calls her his wife all the time", suggesting that Dune and Lockhart are married. The same source said that Lockhart insists that it is Dune's baby. Sources say that it is questionable. Perhaps Lockhart is not sure who the father is.

Shortly after the cop arrived, the unknown woman left the house.

The rather pregnant Alice was seen in the window on the second floor briefly with said child. Alice's nerves were apparent, as she was seen pacing in the baby room until the nanny came in to take over. Was Alice worried about possible legal issues with Millet or was it the fact that Lockhart possibly had a child with her fiancée?

Eventually, both Officer Fuller and Alice left the premises. Millet was never seen exiting the house. Did he spend the night? Is he still there? It is possible he sneaked out the back but is unclear why he would do such a thing. One thing is clear, there is much more to unpack in this story.
