

When you are working with John Sabol, you are working with the best. I have been working with John since 2006 on educational tours abroad for college students, and John has always come through with a tour package that offers attention to the details of every aspect of the trip—including support before, during, and after the trip—and a fair and reasonable price. All this is accomplished with integrity and transparency in dealing with his clients. I have recommended John to many colleagues over the years, and I plan to do so for the future. His experience in the business and his joy in the work are palpable in everything he does. John cares about young people and about their education, and he crafts his tours with the student experience at the center of his work.
