And then, this is a fun story, I was wearing so much makeup at that point. And then last week I was on the sidewalk, and this girl in my class Antonia was like, "Hi!" And hugged me. And she was in this like WHITE PUFFY VEST and she guided my head to her shoulder and my face went on her WHITE PUFFY VEST and then when I pulled away I had left this just MASSIVE just FACE on her shoulder.

So then I was like...this is a bad situation. You know? Give me the good stuff. So they were like you have to be on two forms of birth control because if you get pregnant on this stuff, your babies can look like THIS. And then they showed me these GNARLY BABIES with crazy heads and I was like this stuff is not messing around. And now my face is falling off and my lips are falling off but my skin looks TIGHT right?

So Catherine was like, "You can't be on my N.O.S.B. team because you have a social hesitancy in your voice."

Right?

I was like, I know way more about marine life than all of you combined: A! B! I don't like, I don't get distracted! Catherine knows Benny and Charlize both have no buzzer control. And C! I took physics, (I'M SORRY!) as a SOPHOMORE. I'm there for the seismic portion, I've got the bio-ecosystems down, I wear ballet flats every day. I'm born for this.

I wonder if it's like, that I can't hang out afterwards.
