What we do

With extensive experience in both print and digital media, we help all campus offices and departments achieve their marketing and communication goals.

We concept, plan, write, design, and execute materials and communication that reaches out to internal and external audiences; attracts people to events; and delivers important information effectively and creatively through articulating and implementing Augsburg's branding initiative. When a project demands expertise or equipment beyond what's available on campus, we coordinate with outside vendors and consultants to complete your project.
