A new feature launched by Facebook this week has business owners and every Facebook ad agency (especially ours) rejoicing.

Facebook Pay is a feature that allows you to make purchases from the social media company's family of apps without being redirected to a different landing page. You can, for example, send payments to your Messenger contacts. You can also purchase digital gift cards from businesses' pages. When you make transactions using Facebook Pay, you will not incur any processing fees.

This feature is currently rolling out to Facebook and Messenger users in the U.S. and internationally in the future. The social media company also plans to roll this out to WhatsApp and Instagram.

Transactions via Facebook Pay are secure and protected. It has the following:

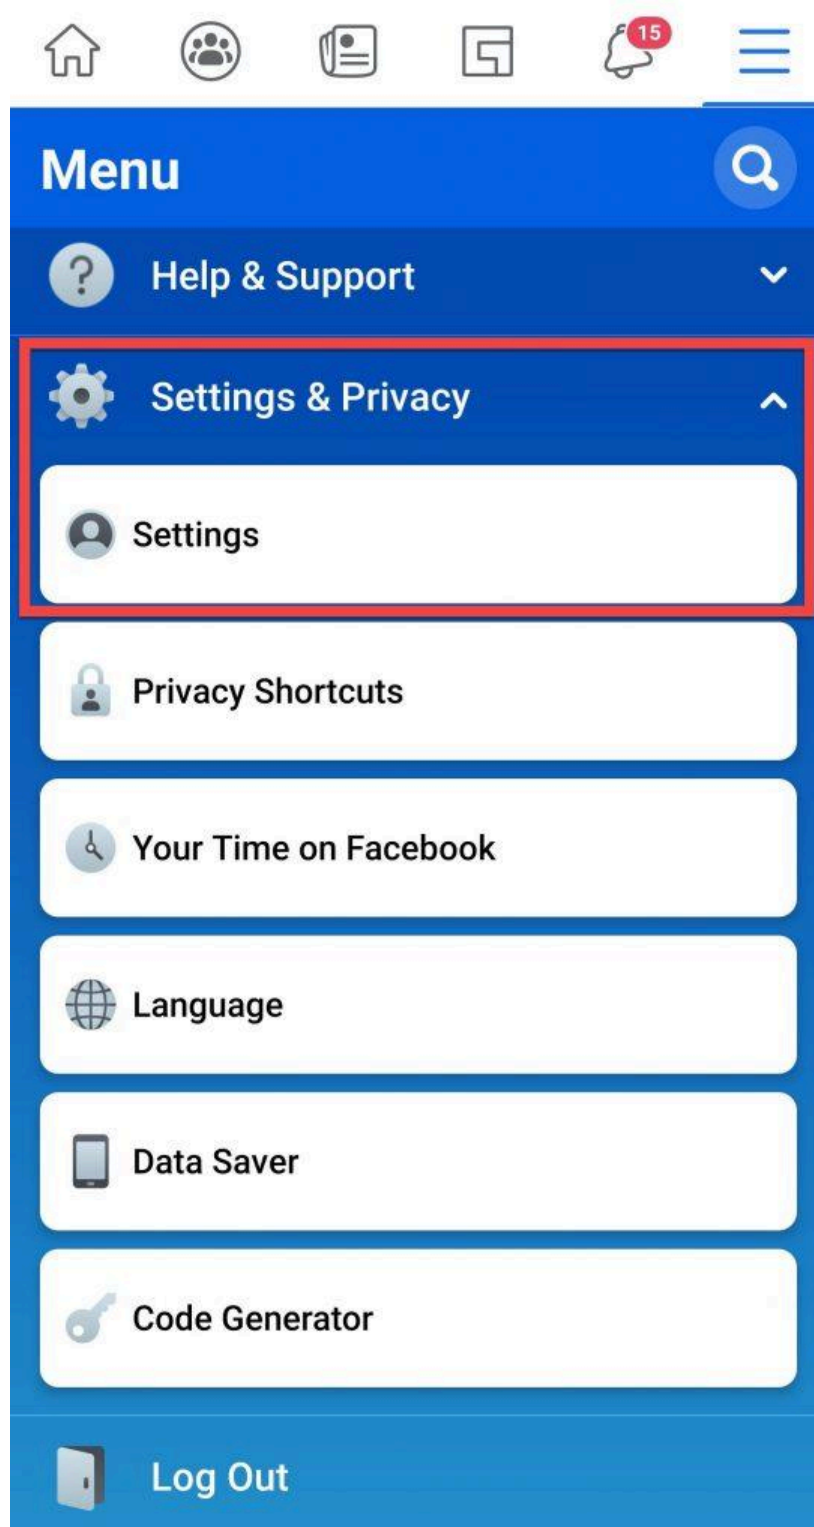

- An anti-fraud feature that monitors suspicious activity
- Data encryption that protects your payment information
- Biometrics and pin options for added security
