

Recent blizzard shouldn't pose a major problem for Maine's deer March 14, 2018

Bangor Daily News

... "We've had a really mild February for the most part, so I think a big storm coming after all that mildness is not going to be that big a deal for deer," ... "So far [the winter] has been more severe than the last two years," Bieber said. "I would estimate by the end of the season the winter severity index will be higher than the last two years, but it has still been a pretty mild to moderate year." ..,
