Day 1 - Camping

Annie (Mikhail/Chase/Claire) 07/28/2018

Mikhail: Camping! Always a lovely way to spend a weekend off-- if it wasn't so Goddess-forsakenly hot. It was a bit odd camping around the same two towns he usually presided in, but he supposed any place was home if he made do. With his usual gear (read: absolutely nothing but the essentials and the trenchcoat off his back), he roamed the area to just take in the view. And boy, did it look like people were already rearing to go-- shooting off arrows and testing their strength with a graceful wield of a mallet.

For now, he'd just watch and enjoy the view.

Given the circumstances of his travels, he had ended up bringing a friend... A... Hm. Well at the very least, he assumed he assumed she was a friend. Whether or not she'd continue on with him the entire weekend was surely up to her.

"Princess, don't look too down-- A night in the woods is up your alley, no?"

Reina sighed, resigning herself to the camping trip. She was honestly hoping to not go. As much as she enjoyed plants, she wasn't looking forward to being around so many people, but she also recognized the danger of those who didn't know the native flora entering the area for the first time. She felt it was.... a responsibility of hers to go and make sure everyone interacted with the health flora of the area. If she heard on the news that someone had been harmed by a native toxic plant, she'd be extremely guilty for at least not trying to help.

She began walking through the game stalls and activities along the camp site. She stopped at the Tug of War game because she saw something titled an "Ever Blooming Flower Crown" as a prize. That's when she knew she needed to at least try winning this game.

Mikhail thought that it was a matter of time before he recognized faces in the crowd. He always felt a bit silly, as though he were seeing the people from the two towns for the first time in a long time. He was always on the go someplace, somewhere, so there was a divide he couldn't quite put his finger on. They had been long term acquaintances, yet distant all the same-- like there was a line drawn and no one knew who was holding the chalk. Though he had lugged another along during his travels-- his gaze was cast on Vivi for a moment-- it didn't hurt to say hello. Especially when the girl in licorice braids was lingering by herself, as though she were teetering between lines of her own.

"Reina? How have you been?" Clearing his throat, he greeted her with a good bout of warmth. "It's been a while, but I do hope life's been treating you well." The last time she caught up with him, Mikhail was sure she accidentally snagged onto him at a strange prelude, as he murmured to her plants. They just had such a lovely tune to them, rustling ever so slightly. If she thought him odd, he wouldn't blame her.

It was. One of those types of outings. You know. The kind that required dragging by the heels and exasperated sighs all around. If Maya had any more influence she'd probably be able to run for Mayor. That'd surely make Gill tear up in silver dollars. Chase assumed that Maya would catch up eventually, since she was always caught up in her own frumpy cupcake mix but... whether she would catch up anytime soon or leave him to wallow in his own poison ivy was beyond him. And what was worse was... well.

He didn't bother to turn around. Any acknowledgement of the guy behind him was as sparing as food scraps off one of his tables. Whatever frivolous world Gill frequented was honestly not Planet Earth. But. They had a tent together with Maya and... it wasn't something he could cancel out of the blue now that he was already here. Yolanda would probably give him a taste of the cookie dough knowing he was letting his patience run a little longer before it dried up.

"...Couldn't you have afforded your own tent?" The slight distaste running on his tongue.

@Lavender \(Carlos / Rusk / Gill\)

Lavender \(Carlos / Rusk / Gill\) 07/30/2018

Gill threw his bag into the tent after what seemed like an eternity of walking. He didn't have the broadest of shoulders so carrying several days worth of clothes, his sleeping bag, and all sorts of other odds and ends had done absolute havoc on his back. He tilted forward in a pose very reminiscent of his father and his back cracked with a small relieved sigh from the lanky blonde.

"Maya invited me first if you don't remember in your old age." Gill all but sneered at the older man, a sour tone thick and lingering on every word. It was no secret to anyone that the two men were like oil and vinegar, not mixing together well and always butting heads.

In Gill's humble opinion, which was most certainly correct, it was because Chase was an asshole. Pompous too.

"If it bothers you that much, you are more than welcome to sleep outside."

"Rachel, you ought to check this out!"

Claire lugged along all the camping gear she could afford, eyes lit up like she had bottled stars in a mason jar. She had ended up catching wind of this new festival and happened to invite practically all her friends in one form or another. (And friends to be. And friends in process. And half friends that didn't really want to be.) So... that was practically everyone she could get in touch with, to be honest! Hopefully she'd be able to catch up with them in time, but for the time being, good ol' Rach was stuck with her, hahaha! Well, it didn't hurt for a little more sister bonding time. They ended up passing the fields filled to the brim with all those endearing minigames.

"I heard by the end of tonight there'll be fireworks and everything, so..." Pausing, she tucked a few loose hairs behind her ears and shot Rach a crooked grin. "If you wanted to catch someone under the stars, it better be tonight, huh?"

@Beth (Rachel/Skye)

Beth (Rachel/Skye) 07/30/2018

Rachel readily agreed when her sister invited her to come along to the camping festival. Rachel could be a little high maintenance, but camping was always fun if she prepared ahead of time! While she thought she had overpacked, Claire was surely her twin with the backpack she was carrying. Both girls definitely brought along much more than they needed.

She snickered at Claire's teasing and nudged her twin with her elbow. "You're one to talk! If I don't see you with someone cute when the fireworks go off, I'm totally never going to let you live it down. You can bet that I'll be keeping my eye out for someone for my fireworks partner."

Rachel winked, then broke into laughter. "I mean, we'll both try!"

He dropped that bag like he had be lugging around gold bars all day. Damn. It was too bad Chase knew the guy and, well, something about him said he couldn't carry his own weight in gold if he had four of him. (But if he had four of him, Chase would surely be driven to something like rat poison in his cake so--) He just wanted this weekend to end so he could get back to work. Which was a pretty sorry soup to spoon down, if you asked him.

"I'm so glad Maya asked you first, because I don't think your sorry ego would be able to take seconds. Even if Yolanda was cooking." He sighed, heavy lidded from this whole ordeal. If he didn't find dark circles the size of saucers by the time he was out of the woods, Chase would probably buy himself a tea set to make up for it. It was so easy to burn a fuse when the guy on the other end was always so short.

"You know, the sentiments would be the same if you weren't so..." Much like yourself. He gestured tiredly at Gill's entire visage, before turning to put down his pack.

"The animals deserve better though."

@Lavender (Carlos / Rusk / Gill)

Aphelion (Lest/Woofio/Candace) 07/30/2018

It is a trip that she agrees to with great reluctance.

It is not to say that the festival does not agree with her sensibilities. It is to the contrary, in fact. She takes to open spaces and the quiet a touch too predictably. It is not the festival nor the company that she finds fault with — instead, it is the proposition that she should abandon her grandmother in a bid for her own youth.

Of course, it was at her grandmother's insistence that she depart for the weekend along with the others from Castanet.

So, yes. She agreed that perhaps it wouldn't hurt to venture outside of the coastal town. A passing and poorly made decision, Candace thinks as she remains seated in the shade smearing sunblock across pale, freckled arms. It would be good for her, she said. Candace would make a lot of friends from going, Shelley said.

Some things were just easier said than done.

"YOU HAVE TO BE KIDDING ME."

THIS IS WHAT HE GETS FOR WANTING TO PHILANDER WITH PEASANTS.

Honestly, he should have expected this. Lest had specifically written ahead of time to the organizers on what he needed to survive the weekend: a large tent, an 800-thread count quilt, goose-feather pillows, an air conditioner and an electrical outlet with enough plugs for at least five plugs. Four of which were just for his hair, the last for his whale sounds so that he might sleep peacefully in spite of the abysmal heat.

Yet upon his arrival, he finds none of what he had expected nor requested. Nay, he had been given even less than what he had demanded of them. Who did they think they were? LEST COULD SMITE THEM OUT OF EXISTENCE.

"I AM NOT SLEEPING ON THE GROUND AND YOU BETTER PULL A TENT OUT OF YOUR ASS OR SO HELP ME I'M SHOVING THIS SLEEPING BAG UP YOUR —"

Annie (Mikhail/Chase/Claire) 07/30/2018

"Someone cute," She air quoted, with a light chuckle under her breath. "If that was the only requirement I could just take you, Rachel." An easy smile. Claire wasn't really looking for her own summer romance. Or-- well, she supposed... any romance. If she could help it. The sound of romance off of one weekend kind of tasted of citrus zest after popping in a mint. Like a crate full of fragiles and she happened to be the one handling it. No thanks!

Wagging a finger in jest, Claire huffed. "But I'll be the one playing cupid, thanks. I just need some good aim..."

Setting up camp under a tree by some.. err... other guys that didn't know how to keep it down, Claire scratched the back of her neck. "Do you like the view or should we keep moving?"

@Beth (Rachel/Skye)

Beth (Rachel/Skye) 07/30/2018

"Awww~!" Rachel squealed with joy at how sweet her sister was. To think they'd missed out on so many years of being together was sad, but they were definitely making up for lost time of sister-bonding. "You're such a sweetie. I don't get why you don't let someone else enjoy that! I mean, I don't mind hogging all the love, but they always told me in preschool that it's good to share." Rachel held her finger up, eyes closed in a mocking manner that resembled a strict teacher.

They set their things down and Rachel took a look around, holding her hand up to her brow to guard her sight from the sun. "I think it looks good here!" Her gaze flashed to the noisy neighbors and she shrugged her shoulders. "Real estate seems alright. Value of the neighborhood, debatable. But I'm fine as long as I'm with you~!"

@Annie (Mikhail/Chase/Claire)

Aphelion (Lest/Woofio/Candace) 07/30/2018

There is nothing like a birdsong to start the day.

It's nice to be back to basics, they think as they remain poised at their perch on a branch high above the other festival-goers. It was nice, he thinks, that they extended the invitation to them though it was unnecessary.

Woofio had no shortage of work, but they supposed that there was no harm in coming along for the Extra Muscle™ on the security team. Leaving people who knew nothing of the forest's creatures left a bad taste in their mouth and it is with that knowledge that they set upon Bluebell and Konohana.

They watch as others arrive in pairs or alone, setting up camp in the open spaces.

These campers, he thinks. They set upon this unknown territory, pleading with their captors for aid. This festival, this camp — it needs a hero. Woofio stands, his worn blanket cape fluttering in the wind behind him. He would be that hero. He would Protect them.

"CACAW!" The birds fly away from the forest thicket and he leaps, casting shadows over all those who dare walk beneath him.

THEY WERE WOOFIO, THE TWENTY-NINTH AVENGER.

Annie (Mikhail/Chase/Claire) 07/30/2018

Claire clutched at her heart. "Enter stage left. Dramatic betrayal. Shot in the heart with my sister's own arrow." Even if there was blood on the quiver, at least it was by Rachel's hand. With her face scrunched in utter dismay, Claire's faux-exaggeration came to an end right away. She broke out in another lighthearted laugh. "You can share but you ought to be careful where you aim that thing."

Surveying the area, Claire was sure that they'd be able to handle whatever came their way. But even the nicest real estate could be spoiled by poor neighbors... "Well, at least I'm in good company, hahaha!" A grin of reassurance to her sister. She started unpacking, though it was pretty obvious that none of the stuff actually belonged to her. Pulling out her old tent, she was really hoping it'd hold up. "You make finding home a breeze."

"Though it's been a while since we were out together... You'd think that twins would be less of a circus show, yknow?" Unwanted attention was always their forte. But hey, they couldn't help being casted from the same mold.

@Beth (Rachel/Skye)

Beth (Rachel/Skye) 07/30/2018

Rachel rolled her eyes at her sister's melodrama, but chuckled nonetheless. Seeing Claire like that was always funny, especially considering the other's usual demeanor of mostly no-nonsense. "Don't you make it seem like this is the Hunger Games. That could set this whole camping group into a chaotic frenzy."

She knelt down and began to help Claire with the tent, seeing a few holes here and there. "Geez, we should invest in a new one... Did you borrow this one from someone?" They managed to get the poles through the tent successfully, though it was clear they'd be a tight fit even with their smaller statures. "Well, twins used to be a part of the circus, so I guess we're just naturally drawn to being a spectacle." Rachel chuckled, wondering when someone was going to come along as ask about them.

Max (Ella) 07/30/2018

The Fireside Festival was one of Ella's favourite festivals. There wasn't much that topped enjoying what nature had to offer with other people. Rhapsody and Harmony would have loved to be here, but there were going to be too many people attending for her to bring them.

However, she did bring one thing that never failed to brighten her day up like her dogs: her flute. It had been sometime since she had been able to sit down and play for long periods of time. The festival would be a good time for her to just let it out and play as she pleased.

While she had no fear of playing it around people, Ella still tucked herself away from most of the people. Not everyone would appreciate having a flute play over their conversation or keep them awake while they try to sleep.

Sitting with her back against a tree, Ella fiddled with her belongings that were next to her, making sure her snacks were readily available before she played. She brought the flute to her mouth and began to play a soft, calming tune. As she continued to play, she closed her eyes, beginning to focus solely on her song.

Steph (Reina/Rebecca/Alexa) 07/31/2018

Reina heard a voice call out to her. She was a bit surprised honestly as she had just decided to try and be more in the background than anything. Though not every plan panned out perfectly and here she was, talking to.... a stranger? No, she had met this person before. His name rung in the back of her head, unsure of how friendly to be with the musician.

"Good evening Mikhail. I trust you've been enjoying your time in the towns?" Reina asked, giving the man a polite nod in greeting him. "I've been well. My jobs are steady and aiding my uncle has kept me busy. How about you?"

@Annie (Mikhail/Chase/Claire)

Lavender (Carlos / Rusk / Gill) 07/31/2018

The calm and cool nature of Chase's degrading tone was something that agitated Gill beyond the threshold most people were capable of. It was as if Chase was the living embodiment of everything that ground his gears, of everything that challenged and hindered who Gill was and what he wanted to accomplish... and this weekend he had wanted to spend time alone with his childhood friend without any third wheeling second-rate chefs.

"Exactly. They deserve someone unkempt and savage, just like them." He gestures to Chase, trying to mimic that gesture of disinterest but looking quite sloppy in his actual execution. Words were more his weapon, and trying to convey his feelings through something as primal as body language was beneath him, or so he thought.

He didn't trust Chase, especially around Maya. Romantic or platonic the way his features softened around his figurative older sister was infuriating to say the least. Maya deserved better, which was to say anybody but Chase. The sandal wearing waste of space was absolutely NOT worth her time.

"Perhaps it's for the best we paid the extra money for a pre-built tent, after all I don't doubt your inability to follow simple instructions."

Abi (Vivi/Fritz) 07/31/2018

Witch huffed.

"Hmph, I don't look down." It was just the sweltering heat making her pouty. She was sweating underneath her hat and it felt gross. When she decided to tag along with Mikhail she didn't think he would just bring her to a different woods. Oh well, it seemed there was quite a few people here. She caught sight of the people playing the various games, with arrows and something with a hammer. She wanted to try.

"Mikhail -- oh." He was already talking to someone else. Ugh. Fine. (What a traitor.) She didn't need Mikhail to be her supervisor. She'll just entertain herself. Witch wandered off from Mikhail, unsure on what to do first.

Fritz surveyed the festival grounds - was he supposed to bring his own tent? He watched others set up their stuff and started to sweat. He only brought a sleeping bag because, for some reason, he thought there would be a giant tent for everyone. That would be weird, wouldn't it? Oh heck - no, this was fine. He didn't need a tent - but it would be nice - he could imagine the woods as a big bedroom he would be sharing with strangers.

At least the festival had games? Those were always fun. And he heard there would be other activities. Despite his no tent situation, he was still brimming with excitement. This was a prime opportunity to make more friends.

But now that he was watching all the people and how they talked amongst themselves, he felt a little... intimidated. It seemed like everyone knew each other. For now he rolled out his sleeping bag and tossed the rest of his things onto it. Maybe he could rope someone into playing a game with him.

Allie (Sebastian) 07/31/2018

Though his mother's enthusiasm towards his exploration of worlds that aren't in the pleasant little town they live in is... encouraging, Sebastian can't help but think he needs to learn to say no to her more. Especially when she calls him over and points excitedly on her monitor, showing off a "Camping trip of all things, Sebby! Imagine what fun you'll have!"

He knew this wouldn't be the most fun thing in the world, but he couldn't look her in the eye and say, "No, I'd rather sit in my room alone on my computer than risk being eaten alive by the probably shit-ton of bugs that await me out there." Because then her face would drop, and Sebastian refuses to let himself be the cause of a drop in his mother's mood any more than he absolutely has to.

So, here he is. Camping. Or, getting ready to camp, and though he smells like he just walked out of a bubble full of nothing but bug spray, he's also missing something very important to his ghostly-pale-aesthetic. Which he notices, as soon as he sees something else walking by with the telltale white sheen on their skin. Sunscreen. Of course! Who would Sebastian Hayward be if he didn't forget something so essential to his wellbeing such as that on this three-day trip? Now, he's on a hunt for the skin-saving substance.

He groans, gravitating to shade like the pale gremlin he is, and looks around warily. These people are nice, right? And it's not... weird to ask for it, right? What if I get slapped and called a creep? Highly unlikely, but probable all the same in his anxiety-riddled mind. Better now than never...

"Hey," he says, trying to ignore how awkward the entire world feels in that single moment. "Do you, uh... have any to spare?" He gestures to the sunblock with a nod.

Rebecca stroller into the campfire square, excited to take a nice day off from all the building she had been doing. But a campfire and a relaxing time was always something Rebecca enjoyed. In general she enjoyed being outdoors in most circumstances.

Right before she got to sitting by the fire she heard something interesting. Not far from the center of the festivities someone was playing a flute. It sounded pretty good too. Rebecca followed the sound to the edge of the campsite and found a young woman playing her instrument. She didn't hide, but she leaned on a tree to listen in. When the young woman finished her song Rebecca spoke up.

"You play beautifully." She remarked, clapping gently for the woman. "Where'd you learn to play?"

Annie (Mikhail/Chase/Claire) 08/02/2018

Now, Claire wasn't one for chaos (except when she was) but there was something about a Hunger Game scenario that would really suit this pretty, rolling landscape. Tree studded, encased between two local villages, and frequenting with keen overgrowth, she could see it. She could definitely see it. But, Claire didn't want to jinx the whole ordeal. "Ha...haha..." Knocking on the nearest tree that was overlooking their camp site, Claire scratched the back of her neck. "Knowing what I know about these events, I'm going to knock on wood, thanks."

"Though I'd volunteer for you anytime." That was as cheesy as glorified asiago. But hey, she meant it.

Pitching up the tent with little difficulty, Claire laughed. "No, it's just that I'm sentimental and this thing has been with me since forever, haha." She'd probably have to buy a new one eventually but-- Claire wasn't going to get rid of something that could last longer with a little care. "I'd rather this than a circus tent though."

"Though... I know there are a few game stalls set up. Did you want anything?" Her eyes flitted curiously, trying not to make it obvious that she'd totally be down to get her sister something.

@Beth (Rachel/Skye)

--

"Evening," He casted a polite nod in the girl's direction. He was prepared to introduce his silvered haired companion to Reina, but with a quick glance behind him... he had definitely lost track of the princess. Well, she was a free spirit, it didn't hurt for her to roam as she pleased.

"I've been well, really. Bluebell and Konohana are always beautiful, no matter the time of year."

"Though it seems as though the heat in this area is as..." He paused, twirling his hand in a roundabout manner. "Grueling as ever." Summer was the one time no one could catch him in one place. He flickered in and out, the ground not meeting his feet.

"I am glad though, it's always music to my ears to hear that life's treating you well." Tilting his head, his smile reached his eyes. Familiarity was an odd thing for Mikhail, but he supposed it wasn't difficult to be attached to routine-- to the sense of... security that the villagers around these parts gave him. "I send Mako my greetings. Though I hadn't had the time to write since I've been off, I did gather some information for him about Fugue Mushrooms and their cohabitation with Harmonica's greenery."

His eyes flickered to the Tug-of-War sign and back to her. "But I could go on about that some other time, really."

Annie (Mikhail/Chase/Claire) 08/02/2018

"See, now that's a stand-in mayor for you," Chase rolled his eyes, feeling them making their rounds out of his sockets. "And here I thought your bold candidate speech about caring about animals was a front." Sarcasm. Totally sarcasm. He didn't know what was worse, the fact that he totally made that up and it was still believable.... or the fact that Gill didn't really have to make some flowery speech to get to share that nice position with his father. Mmm, mmm, mmm. The crisp smell of nepotism.

That being said, he wasn't down for a one-sided fist fight, so he'd keep those thoughts out of the frying pan. "Oh trust me, I follow instructions as well as you can knot your little..." He gestured with his index, tracing a bow by his neck to mock his little necktie. "It just so happens that you're a man of convenience." And Maya probably accounted for some hell-bound argument involving tent poles. But he was going to swallow that bile without an inch of admittance.

Ducking inside the tent, he left Gill behind with little thought. His mind was firmly pressed upon ignoring the guy for three days, so Chase pulled out a sleeping bag to dictate that he was settling. He was settling on this weekend and he was settling on this terrible get up as well. There was no doubt this guy was going to take up a lot of space either way.

"So, are we dividing this space evenly by three or are we going to play a game of gerrymandering for your convenience?"

"A man can never be bothered to do today what can be done.... later... today." Lukas concluded, dropping all of his supplies on to the ground in the messy sort of way. He was good at setting up tents and prepping supplies-- he had been forced to do it a handful of times when he couldn't make it to town. Which meant he could procrastinate a bit. He didn't enjoy the wilderness, per se, but there was something fantastically romantic about camping in groups. "Now all I need to do is acquire a suitable camaraderie."

Easy peasy for someone like himself. He brushed his hands off as though he had done so much work in the several minutes it had been since he arrived and looked around. All of the women seemed preoccupied. Maybe he could force his way into a conversation. He was exceptionally smooth, after all. Adjusting his vest, he looked around for a victim he could dazzle and impress.

A camping trip. Emiko had really thrown herself out there--right into nature, where she enjoyed--but was still, more or less, on her own. Ah! There we go! Search and ye shall find! Lukas observed his target, mentally flipping through all of his conversation starters to decide which angle to go with. Well, as long as he was saying it, he was certain the execution would be perfect! It always was.

"Eyes as clear as crystals, I can only imagine how beautifully you view the world." Lukas snuck up behind the curtains of ebony hair, trying to be as nonchalant as possible... but the look in his eyes said he wasn't going to be able to keep it up for long. With a grin, he introduced himself, "I'm Lukas. You look like you could use some company. Best to go for quality rather than quantity."

"I'm glad you're enjoying the towns. They indeed are quite beautiful. Though I must agree the heat is less than appreciated." Reina replied with a soft laugh. She was pretty happy that the man was doing well. It was rare to see the man here in the summer, but she supposed that the festival brought many people back in the same way the heat drove them away.

"I'll be sure to give him your greetings. I've no doubt he will appreciate them." Reina concluded, knowing her uncle did enjoy hearing from friends. Even if second hand.

"Oh is that so? I recently went off to the Fugue Forest myself to learn a bit about the Fugue Mushrooms. What have you learned?" Reina asked, until Mikhail said he'd go on about it another time. His gaze seemed to be caught on something for a second. Was he looking at the tug of war sign?

"Yes, another time for sure. By the way, were you able to see the prize on this game? An ever blooming floral crown." Reina started, obviously quite excited.

That they're being collected and used in magic brews? That they accumulate in only one part of the forest because they can only be sustained at a specific temperature? That one pretty Miss has put her stakes on all the remaining ones? No, no, he couldn't just out his friend so simply like that. Humming vaguely, he murmured to her. "Hmm... I wonder."

And then it clicked. Of course. The gears didn't need to turn far to figure out where her heart laid. Mikhail found himself grinning a little wider, as he hadn't had his eyes on the Tug Of War at all, really. It was the girl standing lonesome, with handspun ivory braids, shoulders slacked, and head tilted-- that made him turn her way.

His laughter softly clicked in the air, as he clapped his hands together thoughtfully. His eyes glinted with a level of curiosity that could parallel Reina's with ease. "Is that so? Shall we gather our wits then? I wouldn't mind a game if it meant collecting a throne to go with." He was.... Actually jesting, really. He found no need for thrones or qualms of the rich.

But, a queen without her crown was a bit unsightly, no?

Beth (Rachel/Skye) 08/04/2018

Rachel could see the sparkle in her sister's eyes when she mentioned such a chaotic situation, and she knew that she probably shouldn't have put that idea into the other's head. She laughed when Claire knocked her knuckles against the tree to protect herself from a jinx. "Superstitious, are we? I think you'd do great in the Hunger Games, but you know I'd never let you volunteer for me!"

The idea of having a circus tent was tantalizing, but Rachel knew better. Sort of. "Well, maybe you can keep this one and next time, I'll buy one and bring mine. Just so we don't get rained on or something." She laughed, poking a finger through a thready hole on the top corner.

The game stalls... She'd nearly forgotten about those! "Oh, that's okay! You should get something for yourself! Decorate that farmhouse of yours." She could just picture a big fluffy stuffed animal sitting in the corner of her twin's house.

Of course she wouldn't let her volunteer. Poor Rachel would probably cause mayhem before she'd let Claire do something so reckless like that, anyway. But she'd do it. One can't test what this girl would do if no one was watching, honestly. But that was certainly something Claire didn't want to dig into if she knew what was good for her.

"Aw, look at you... Rachel Scotts, impulse control!" She will smithed gestured to her sister playfully, before finishing up the last of their tent prep. "I mean... I guess you're right." She popped her head into the tent for a second, pressing her eye into one of the holes like it was a eye hole. "Though rain isn't the problem, I would think."

Peeping toms on the other hand... Shaking her head, Claire let those thoughts tumble out one ear. Pulling out the stuff from her pack, she wondered how weird it was that this endless supply of stuff was actually all Rach's. WIthout a wink of shame, she just started setting things up in a way she thought her sister would have liked them. "Oh come on, Rachel! You've got to want something.... Like a shell phone, or a-- uhh... dab trophy...?" Claire was joking about both of those and prayed to the Goddess her sister wouldn't ask. Because then she'd definitely have to deliver.

Camping wasn't the kind of thing Neil would normally go out of his way to participate in, but after being nagged by several people in Echo Village, including Hana (how could he say no to an old lady?), he felt obligated to at least look around and get everyone off his case.

He was walking around when suddenly his mood was soured by bumping into someone. Normally he would just mutter a quick sorry and move on, but something he overheard grabbed his attention, and not in a good way. A dab trophy? You've gotta be fucking kidding me. What even was a dab?

When he glanced over at who he bumped into, it of course was none other than Rachel, that girl who kept bringing him milk for whatever reason. Did he look like some kind of pity case?

However, the blonde he thought he recognized looked a little different today. She looked like she had just rolled out of bed, said 'fuck it' and left. Similar to his usual 'getting ready' routine, to be honest. He opened his mouth to comment on how Rachel's really let herself go, but he was taken back at what he saw before him.

There were two blondes. One looked like the Rachel he was (unfortunately) familiar with and the other looked like a copy of Rachel, only messier and disheveled.

"Oh, look. Dumb." He motioned with his head at the first blonde, "And dumber." He nodded toward Rachel.

Rachel was about to laugh rather loudly at the idea of a dab trophy. She had a very strong feeling that she was the only one of the two to know just what exactly a "dab" was, but it was still sweet of her sister to offer. However, before she could comment about it, there was suddenly another presence at their tent site and she recognized Neil immediately.

"Oh, hi Neil!" She completely disregarded his comment, having learned early on to deflect literally every rude comment the man made. "This is my sister, Claire! I guess, I never mentioned I had a twin, but here she is!" Rachel beamed at her twin, very proud of her very existence. "Claire, this is the animal dealer in my town, Neil! Isn't he just a ray of sunshine?" It was obviously sarcastic, but easily masked by her own bubbly voice.

Scratching the back of her neck, Claire felt like this guy just hit her on the back of the skull with a hammer. Being called dumb was one thing but calling her sister dumb was a completely different story. From the saccharine sweet way her sister addressed him, Claire could probably assume this guy was on her case quite a lot. Rachel, you can't just-- Sigh. And if that didn't boil her noodles the wrong way, she inferred that Rachel would just let the guy be for the most part. Tapping her chin, she wondered how she should go about this? Probably with a grin and a...

"Oh! It's nice to meet you, Neil!"And a hand to shake.

"I don't suppose you kiss your animals with that mouth, do you?" With a tilt of her head, she said that with the kindest conviction on this side of the forest.

Oh, of course they were related. They looked almost identical and he hadn't scoped out Claire's personality yet, but he was willing to bet it would be just as annoying as Rachel's.

When they both greet him with a smile and that bubbly tone, it was as if he could feel himself getting a toothache from the overload of sweetness. "If only I could say the same." He glances first at her happy grin then down at her hand for him to shake. Reluctantly, he took it, but after the deed was done, he placed his hand back in his coat pocket.

"Oh, so your sister's got jokes. Funny," he says with the blankest and most annoyed expression and tone he could manage. "So, what was it about this...dab trophy you two knuckleheads were talking about?" As soon as the words left his mouth, he could feel the regret sinking in. He had a feeling it was something stupid and now it looked like he showed some kind of interest in it.

@Beth (Rachel/Skye)

Beth (Rachel/Skye) 08/04/2018

Rachel snickered at Claire's greeting, knowing fully well that Neil had irritated her dear sister. Claire was quicker to upset than Rachel was, a difference to tell the identical twins apart a bit easier. "Yeah, she's really funny." Rachel lightly jabbed Claire with her elbow, giving her a "be nice please" look.

"Oh, I guess the trophy is one of the prizes at the game booths? I think... I'm honestly not sure, but Claire was asking if she wanted me to have her win one. I think it'd be fun to play the games, but I don't know if I need any prize, hehe." She just wanted to have fun with her sister, in all honesty. So long as Claire was having a nice, fun break, Rachel was satisfied. "Are you gonna play some games too, Neil? I think it'd be nice to bring something back for Hana."

@Annie (Mikhail/Chase/Claire)

Annie (Mikhail/Chase/Claire) 08/04/2018

Claire kept smiling, not easily letting things get out of hand if she could help it. She was always one to kill with kindness or deal a gentle hand when playing a game of cards. It wasn't that she'd get upset upfront but... it was rather difficult not to tip over an edge when Rachel thought she was not going to play nice. Defensive may have been a good word for it. Claire shot her back a look as well, not so heated as it was an indignant rebuttal; "only if he treats you nice?" her expression seemed to say.

Again, she was gauging him, quietly contemplating whether or not she should distasteful. Nah, she just needed to execute sarcasm with a little wit. A touch of finesse. "Aww, no. I don't have a knack for jokes." Tucking a loose lock behind her ear, she laughed softly. "If you're a fan though, I think I can get you in contact with someone." Calmly, amusement flickered in her eyes.

Oh lovely. Haha! Don't know if I need any prize meant that Claire was heart bound to the idea of getting it for her. And maybe getting her a few other prizes too. Something they had in common was that Goddess-forsaken modesty. So Claire had to do the spoiling for Rachel, sometimes. But did Neil really have to mention the Dab Trophy? That joke should have died two responses ago. "Aw, well I'm going to be going and playing a few games anyway, Rachel! It just seems kind of fun to wind up the old gears and get fired up, sometimes."

Without a second thought, she laughed and snapped a finger gun in Neil's direction. "You should join in too, firecracker! It's a lot of fun if us comedians stick together."

Elli's arms were full of s'mores supplies. Graham cracker boxes, milk chocolate bars, bags of marshmallows, and a few skewer forks. She was doing her best balancing act as she made a bee line to the large campfire, but an irate man cut her off.

The words he were shouting at her were so hateful she could only stare open-mouthed for a moment, blinking.

"I--I don't work here?" Elli said, adjusting her cargo a little better so it doesn't topple out of her arms. "And you could always use a cot?" Sure it wasn't the most luxurious thing, but it did fix his problem of sleeping on the ground.

There were a bunch of games and a lot of people looked to be enjoying themselves. The energy was infectious, surely, but it was a bit much for the nun.

Instead she headed towards the riverbed near the woods. Finding some peace and quiet in the chaos was nice. She didn't venture too far, the camp still visible. For now she wanted to feel a little closer to the Goddess while she walked through nature.

"Haha, thank you so much!" She began, hoping that her surprise wasn't too apparent. "My mother taught me how to play!"

If it were anyone else, he would give a flat out no, scoff a little, and leave. However, between the mention of Hana and the first impression he was getting from this Claire, he began to consider it a little more. It would be nice to wipe the grin off of both of their faces by beating them at something, even if it were a silly game with an even sillier prize. He wasn't as prideful as a certain hairdresser, but he could have his moments.

Neil sighed a little. He wasn't sure what kind of "prizes" they were giving away, but this trophy didn't give him the impression that the prizes were going to have the slightest ounce of quality. "I have doubts that she would want...a dab trophy." He didn't even know what it was, but it sounded horrible. However, thinking more on the matter, it would be...the nice thing to do. She was an old lady who's husband and kids were usually out of town so giving something back wouldn't kill him. It wouldn't mean he's suddenly Santa Claus, back from the trip with presents galore either. Just one gift, nothing more, nothing less.

"Hm...I suppose I have nothing better to do, Bozo." He snaps a finger back with less enthusiasm and an added eye roll to mock her.

Reina looked at the man, offering to help her win the crown. She wanted it, and wanted it pretty badly. She had enough money to play multiple times, and was determined to get that crown. She's probably wear it on the daily, not minding if any petals fell naturally or if they just stayed forever blooming. Though she wondered about the integrity of the band. Was it fragile? If so, she may just wear it on more special occasions.

"Please. I'd appreciate any and all help. Unfortunately I'm not the most strong individual, though I am willing to try and try again for the crown. After all, studying the unique properties, and simply wearing it, would feel very... refreshing... is the word perhaps?" Reina mused, not too sure of how to describe her want for the crown. In some ways she felt very childish wanting it so much, but it was rare that she expressed such a desire so she let herself have it with little to no guilt.

"More than my pleasure to listen." She responded walking up to the girl. "Oh? You must be quite close with her. She taught you splendidly."

Rebecca put her hand on the girl's head gently as if to "pet" her, but more to provide some physical contact to say "It was actually really good, thank you." When she removed her hand she hummed a bit to herself, wondering if she should treat the girl to something.

Waving good bye to her sister, Claire's gaze followed her back for a moment before snapping her gaze back to Neil. "So? Are you down?"

Strolling slowly towards the game stands, she dallied a bit to wait up for him. It wasn't every day that she got the opportunity to challenge an absolute stranger after all. And it wasn't every day that the absolute stranger had a sharp tongue that had met the whetting stone one too many times. "First up is the Test of Strength-- y'know the deal. Mallet, podium, bell." She pointed up at the little bell up top and smiled.

"Don't sell yourself short, Reina. A little tug may do me some good." Mikhail laughed to himself, not knowing that his mum's RNG is cursed beyond belief. "It would suit you, truly. I heard it's enchanted, though I wonder the whereabouts of its origins." He paused, wondering how excited he should be about a prize they had yet to win yet.

Shrugging, he decided that enthusiasm should be uncurbed, uninhibited even. Especially when the girl had a glint in her eye that he wanted to see through. Escorting her with a polite bow, Mikhail strolled down until he hit the end of a rope. Getting into position, he gingerly picked the end up and laughed. "Go easy on me, okay?"

"I don't mean to sell myself short. I'm just aware that my physique is not up to par with many others. After all, I work more gingerly than I do forcefully." Reina replied not knowing that she had a secret admirer named Tatsumaki who threw the game in for her already with Discord Rolls. "Though with my weaknesses I do have my strengths. As all people do I suppose."

Reina followed the man as he began to escort her to the tug of war game. She was a bit confused as to how they'd play with both of them on the same side, until she realized he was just placing her on one side then going to the other on his own. That made a lot more sense. She picked up the rope on her end as well. Then he asked for her to go easy on him. Reina knew the point of the game was to at least try and pull your opponent over to the mud, but perhaps he wanted to test the rope's strength? To make sure it didn't snap? Or maybe he was being kind?

"I shall try." Reina announced before gripping the rope. She wasn't wearing the right clothes to bend her knees properly, and couldn't do what she had seen on TV. She thought she'd definitely lose. She let the rope become taunt before them before tugging it with some strength, trying not to be too easy on the man but wanting to respect his wishes.

He would have hoped that in some regard, the Goddess (or whomever else divine was up there) would bless the girl and give her what she wanted. She looked rather confused, and he hoped that she wouldn't have too hard of a time figuring the game out on her own. It was a matter of feeling it through so.... Rope taut, both parties prepped, Mikhail dashed in a little hope that neither of them would meet an untimely demise.

The bell chimed.

And as majestic as it sounds, he found himself flying off the side of the Tug of War area into the mud, without a second to enjoy the view. Ha. Hahahaha! Hahahahaha! Was that a tug or a hurricane, good Goddess! Vision going black (or should he say brown), Mikhail couldn't even find the moment to choke out a surprised laugh when his face was met with mud. Rolling over, he spat out a bit that ended up in his mouth and wiped some out of his eyes in complete awe of what had transpired. Faintly, his lips curled up, by the shock of it all.

Dante walked amongst the crowds with his hands into his pockets, whistling to himself. It looked like a lovely day really- everyone around him seemed like to be having a fun time. Quite frankly, the main reason why the drifter participated in this event was mainly because he wanted to see what he could obtain out of it.

Like....free food. Booze. Ladies.

Must you always think of the women, Dante?

And as he walked into the woods, he noticed a dazzling woman just appearing herself so picturesque upon the riverbed. He couldn't help himself to not say hello.

"Heya, friend!"

@Bagel (Elli/Alisa)

Aurelia....perhaps shouldn't been watching a pair of people play tug of war, but she couldn't help it. It was that same man who kept appearing in random places from time to time, so of course the nun couldn't help but stop in her tracks to watch.

And by the looks of it, that girl had the determination and drive to win. And despite Mikhail being somewhat of a nice fellow, the woman still hoped to the goddess for the girl to win the crown. Besides, it suited her.

Oh.

Aurelia snorted. That wasn't quite nice of her, as she tried to cover her mouth and nose. Of course, of course- she shouldn't be laughing at him. Might as well be a respectable human and give him a hand. She walks over towards the two and extends out her hand to pull the muddled man back up to his feet.

With a raspy chuckle, she says. "So whose's a dirty boy, huh? You got mud on your face." Okay...okay, mayhaps that didn't expel out her lips correctly. "oh!" She notices his glasses on the mud, quickly picking them up with her free hand and wiped them on her dress without thinking. "Here you go."

She turns her head over her shoulder to face the other woman to congratulate her. " Heeey! Good job, princess!"

Reina struggled to find the right words. Her face was practically frozen. How had she actually tugged the man towards her in one shot? Was she truly that strong? Did she perhaps have an unknown strength? Did the Harvest Goddess actually exist? Maybe the drive for the crown was a bit too strong and she had subconsciously pulled with all her might? Or maybe, just maybe.... Mikhail was actually weaker than Reina.... by a lot from the looks of it.

As she slowly pulled herself together she was planning on helping up the man but a nun was already on the scene. At least she looked like a nun? She seemed sweet, and seemed to already be acquainted with him. While she spoke to the man and helped him up, Reina quickly turned to the prize table to get the crown before turning back to them both. She put the crown on her head and enjoyed the gentle fragrance the flowers let off. Then the nun addressed her.

"Thank you. Though I doubt I truly did much." Reina replied, happily wearing the crown as she saw Mikhail was being taken care of. "Are you okay Mikhail? I tried going easy on you like you asked... though it seems I failed. My apologies."

He was a bit rattled, and admittedly, there was only so much he could take in good-natured amusement... But hey, they had won out in the end, no? Blinking the grime out of his eyes, he was met with a friendly hand and a familiar snort. He squinted at her for a moment--as it took him only a moment to figure out who she was. Ah.

Popping out of the trench with a clean pull, he coughed out his thanks to the red herring.

"Aurelia." He nodded in acknowledgement, still out of it from Reina's surprise swolness.

"Thank--" Those words of hers probably weren't meant to come off as they did, but he furrowed his eyebrows for a moment. "You?" She was still kind enough to clean his glasses off though.

He didn't know whether or not to laugh or let out an exasperated breath, but Reina had come into view before he knew it. Leaving his glasses off for a moment, he opened his mouth just to close it. He mulled over his answer as he wrung mud from his trenchcoat, and found himself warming up to the fact he was slathered in mud for the rest of the evening. (Well okay. Maybe not yet. It was a process.)

"Oh-- Well--" Laughing, he gave a light-hearted gesture to it off. He certainly needed some time.

Reina replied, not knowing the meaning of her own name. After all, Reina only meant queen and didn't have any symbolism with flowers. Reina attempted a curtsy back, not putting much effort in it but simply trying to mimic the nun. Perhaps that was how they greeted new people?

"I suppose I've had quite a large amount of strength somehow hidden. Though it may simply be that Mikhail isn't as strong as I. I do believe I'm not considered to be strong in most situations." Reina concluded in a matter of fact way. She wasn't trying to be rude or "drag" Mikhail, but through her natural honesty and inquiry she may have.

"Or, perhaps he's been quite the gentlemen and aided me in obtaining my crown. Thank you Mikhail. Whether weak or a gentlemen, I'm glad to have had your help." Reina thanked giving him a soft bow.

"Hmph... Fine..." He wasn't going to waste all his money on this dumb game for an even dumber prize. He should be able to get at least one hit with a few tries, right?

He paid the person running the stand and grabbed the mallet with both hands. He took a deep breath, rested it on his shoulders, focusing for a second, before slamming down on the target. Not enough to completely exhaust him, but enough so that he actually tried. He stepped back for a moment to watch the ball rise up and it ended up marking at the 84 line. Not bad. He bet that with another swing he could get the ninety easily.

Neil paid the guy again for the second round and swung again, this time, feeling a lot more exhausted the second time around. He watched again and the ball only hit 66. Wait... That was no good! Feeling a little more frustrated now, he hastily shoved more money in the guy's hand, paying no mind to the cheesy, but greedy grin the person had wiped on his face. Not to mention what Claire looked like.

This time, with all his might, he swung and watched the ball go up to 86. Tch... Four points away. That was so close damn it! He couldn't settle for that! Okay, one more. He had to hit it next time.

After going through the motions, he swung again to get... 15. Much lower than all of his previous attempts. Not to mention how damn pathetic it looked. He shot a quick glare at the announcer who gave a hearty laugh and a "better luck next time champ." He also gave Claire the same look as if to say, "not a word."

His arms were feeling fatigued. He was no body builder and he didn't go to the gym on the regular. He was no weakling either! He definitely couldn't settle for 15 even if his body protested another swing. He took a breather and snapped at the announcer that he wasn't done.

Once he regained a little more energy, he shoved money in the guy's direction and swung the mallet once more. He stepped back and watched the ball go up and up. And his number was...82.

"Tch. Whatever. I'm done! It's your turn blondie." He huffs, clearly frustrated and tired of this game.

A festival.

He'd never attended this kind of thing until he'd moved onto his farm. His adoptive family had never been too keen on stopping in Westown to visit Frank anyways, save once or twice in his early years with them. Now that he had the freedom to really just do whatever, he figured leaving for a bit to see what this Fireside Festival was felt like a good idea.

Not bringing bug spray or sun screen was definitely one of his terrible ones, though. He hadn't gotten burned yet, but the three nagging mosquito bites he'd gotten while exploring had definitely brought irritation to his overall demeanor. Regardless, sitting by a communal campfire would likely lighten him up a bit, and he did just that, basking in the warmth of the fire.

Emiko raised an eyebrow. Fate? That was still a force she wasn't sure she believed in herself. A story for a story. This guy was obviously full of it, but she didn't know anyone else here and...isn't this what she came here to do? Talk to people? She sighed. "Hmm, what kind of story? August 17, 2018

Annie \(Mikhail/Chase/Claire\) Yesterday at 12:28 PM

He was so snappy-- You'd think the guy would realize that being a short fuse during one of these things was bound to hurt him in the end. But he was taking it seriously, eyebrows furrowed and eyes alit. Claire wasn't one to take a challenge lightly, and if Neil wasn't either, then she wasn't going to let him down. Adrenaline rising to her head, she felt her blood pumping... she had to get her rounds in. But for now, watching him hail his mallet like he was actually taking her seriously, or at least, taking the challenge seriously, was enough for her to stand back and appraise his work.

They just had to hit 90, right? He got pretty close that first time. Clenching her fist, she watched as he raised his mallet again. And again. And again. Oh my Goddess. This guy wasn't even going to let her give it a whirl, was he? "Hey--" 86. 82. Both swings, nearly made her heart stop in its tracks. What was he doing?! There was no proof to be made if he was just going to keep going at it until he got 90....! If he got it before she even got a lick of her hair in, then what was the point?

She tried to be a good sport about it. Oh, how she tried. A bold encouraging smile struck her lips, as she watched the ball fly up again and again. But her fists were curled in, nails pressed into her palms. (Let me at it!) She thought to herself. By the time he hit 5 swings, he clearly had a good record on him. Frustration was only inevitable, seeing as to how close he was. But-- "Hey, you did really well!" She meant it, genuinely. "Trophy or not, I think you've proved a point."

Amusement glinted in her eyes, though. "Now let me take a spin at this, alright?"

"You did 5 shots right?" Her gaze shot back at Neil once, before smacking just the right amount of money for 5. "No more. No less." She was going to play it by his rules then, since he went and nailed that amount down without giving her a say.

Pulling up her sleeves again, she adjusted her grip on the handle and looked up. Just had to... focus. A flicker of light caught on her chest. She wasn't one to slip up but-- Breathing in, she slammed down once. 49. Blinking blankly, she laughed. Ohhhhhhhh boy. Today was going to be a bad one for her. Another slam. 3. Goddess that was barely off the ground. She could almost feel Neil's haughty nature slamming atop of her head.

Eyebrows furrowed, Claire wondered what was up? 46. Another one, maybe? 57. Letting out a long breath, as her bangs tussled about, she gritted down her teeth into another smile. She didn't look like she was respecting him all that much as an opponent, huh? All bark and no bite? Is that what he was going to think of her? Well. She had one more shot anyway. Haha! Hahaha! Letting out a laugh under her breath, Claire wiped her nose.

"Firecracker, don't count me out yet!" Eyebrows furrowed, Claire took a sharp breath in. Raising her mallet well above her head, she just thought of one thing. A drip of water, falling from a faucet. If she could just-- unscrew the thing then--SLAM.

94. All of it would come tumbling out all at once. Bell chimed, and the billboard lit up with old neon lights. Guess anything past 90 was... "A win." She huffed, quietly to herself. After the stall guy gathered his wits and handed her the..... dab trophy.... Claire grasped it as she would any golden plated treasure. Earned it fair and square after all.

Strolling back to Neil with her blood still pumping from the thrill of it all, she shot him a star-struck smile. "Thanks for the challenge, Firecracker, it really got my blood roaring. Haha!"

@Cece (🌻 Laney/Fodder Boi 🌻)

Cece (🌻 Laney/Fodder Boi 🌻) Yesterday at 5:48 PM

Her words that were supposed to be positive affirmations to some, were taken as pity points to him. Neil made a fool of himself before giving up and Claire was probably thinking that underneath that bright and sunny disposition she seemed to like to wear. He steps back to watch how well she does, planning to judge whatever she lands unless it were the ninety.

Neil watches carefully, but when he sees the 3, he couldn't help but let out a little devious chuckle. Hmph, she'd be eating her words in no time--

Before he knows it, the ball flew up to 94 and the bell rang, the billboard lit up, the whole nine yards. Just so...flashy and rubbing it in his face even further.

"Congrats..." he says with several traces of mockery and sarcasm laced in his voice. "Looks like you're the winner of the...dab trophy...." Though honestly, who was the real loser? Good thing he didn't bring that thing home. Still though...

He sighs with a roll of his eyes. Show off... He was so close too... He didn't want the dumb trophy, but he still felt the need to prove himself. After all that and not win some sense of validation? No way.

"Tch... Hold on there chickadee, we're not done yet. I challenge you to an arm wrestling contest. Those gimmicky festival games are usually rigged anyway, so how about just you and me, no hammer, no bell, no him." He nodded towards the grinning stall guy that was definitely mocking Neil in his head. He could sense it.

"If you're up for it, I'll be waiting, not for long though. I don't like waiting on others so consider this your lucky day..."

Day 2- The Great Treasure Hunt

Mimi Today at 2:42 PM

A woman with long, wavy, pink hair struts herself on to the wooden stage, hair bouncing with each step. She is messing with a microphone, tapping it. On her face there is a warm sense of determination, as she seems excited to get this party started.

". . .Hello? . . .Hello?"

Tap. Tap. Tap.

"Testing~ testing~! And a One, a two, and a three!"

The woman seems pleased. "Alright, it's working! How is everybody?"

@everyone

Chuu (Aurelia/Dante/Cliff) Today at 2:44 PM

Dante calls out to the pretty woman. "What's your number?"

Annie (Mikhail/Chase/Claire) Today at 2:45 PM

Mikhail clears his throat. Manners, please.

Bagel (Elli/Alisa) Today at 2:45 PM

Elli looks around excitedly at all the people gathered. She frowns at the man shouting to the emcee though. That was awfully rude.

Mimi Today at 2:46 PM

She ignores the man.

"So you guys must be really excited for the biiiiiiiiiiiiig event, right? They say- whomever wins the treasure hunt, they get a really...snazzy prize. 🍷" Mimi blows out a smooch from her hand.

"Annnnnnnnnnyways, I should probably introduce myself and my looooooovely partner over there, everyone give a round of applause for Mr. Leviathiaaaaaaaaaan- I mean, Levi!"

Then for extra measure, the pink haired woman makes peace signs. "And I'm Mimi!

"You can take it from here, mister  - tell everybody what were going to do!"

Leviathan Today at 2:46 PM

A man walks up next to the pink haired woman, holding a microphone in his hand as well. His disheveled, sandy blonde hair dangles in his face precariously and a pair of eccentric spectacles atop his nose. He adjusts his bow tie as he talks into the mic.

"Thank you, Mimi. Yes, hello and welcome everyone. It's great that you all could come out this weekend. A special thanks to the Adventurer's Guild for making this all possible!"

"Today you're all going to be searching for the great treasure I've hidden in this forest. Once you find something you think could be it please bring it to either Mimi or myself to verify. First person to bring the item to us will win the grand prize: your very own boat and enchanted lantern!"

MimiToday at 2:47 PM

"Ah yes : 🍎 the treasure. The mystical Zephyr blade!" Mimi dramatically poses for effect. "Bring it to us and we can tell you if you found it or not! (...except I really don't know what it looks like, really.)"

LeviathanToday at 2:47 PM

Levi sighs and whispers, "You weren't supposed to say what it was, Mimi."

MimiToday at 2:48 PM

Mimi looks up at the strange man, retorts in a hushed whisper. "Oh? I wasn't supposed to? Well, I mean how do you think they are ever going to find the object, without a little hint, huh?"

She clears her throat and gets back to work. "ANNNNNNNYWAYS--" Mimi pulls out a pocket watch out of her dress. "You got....two hours to survey the mountain. Leeeeeeeeeeeeeet's go!" She blows an air horn

LeviathanToday at 2:48 PM

Levi shakes his head from the proximity of the horn. That was too loud. "Hop to it and get to searching! Your very own ship is on the line!"

MimiToday at 2:49 PM

"Wait, that's the prize?" Mimi pipes up.

LeviathanToday at 2:49 PM

Levi sighs. "I literally just said that."

MimiToday at 2:49 PM

"Right."

Mikhail found a broken piece of pottery, it looks pretty though.

Chuu (Aurelia/Dante/Cliff) Today at 4:37 PM

Cece (🌻 Laney/Fodder Boi 🌻) Today at 4:37 PM

"Yay~" She clapped along with her. "Yeah, I'm sure we'll find something! If not, then it's just about having fun, right?" Laney smiled, Georgia's comment creeping in the back of her mind. What if Georgia was expecting her to find something? Would she look like a loser to her best friend? 😞

@Nat (🌻 Georgia/Felicity 🌻)

Annie (Mikhail/Chase/Claire) Today at 4:38 PM

Oh! He finally found something, how nice. Mikhail figured this isn't exactly the Zephyr Blade but it was a nice memento anyway.

Abi (Vivi/Fritz) Today at 4:40 PM

Fritz was very confused by the contents of the diary. He read it over and over, but couldn't make sense of it. "Hey, what should I do with this? It's kinda weird -- is that a bear?" he asked the only other person around. @Chuu (Aurelia/Dante/Cliff)

LeviathanToday at 4:42 PM

"Well, well, well. We've got a great number of sleuths out here today. Looks like there are only a couple of places left to search~"

RuneSeasonsAdmin Today at 4:42 PM

Places left to search:

Area B: Small Platform

Area D: ???

Area G: Pond East, Water log

Chuu (Aurelia/Dante/Cliff) Today at 4:42 PM

Dante gritted his teeth, it was the boy whom defeated him in tug of war, with ease. He tried to keep his cool about the bear, but his voice probably irritated the creature. "Hah...ha....Oh friend--" There's a 50-50 chance we'll survive this"

Annie (Mikhail/Chase/Claire) Today at 4:46 PM

Chuu (Aurelia/Dante/Cliff) Today at 4:47 PM

Aurelia looks at the water lily, it was quite pretty so she decided to pocket it and keep it for later. Despite the snapping turtle, she seemed to find a lot of stuff here. Maybe something she has is worthy of showing it to the judges.

RuneSeasonsAdmin Today at 4:49 PM

Wow. He actually did it. And the bear even left behind a gift: a potion of super strength! Neat!

Chuu (Aurelia/Dante/Cliff) Today at 4:50 PM

Dante, holds up the potion in triumph. Wow. He actually did it. Maybe Fritz was his lucky token or something. "Oh, hey you-- Now i think i could beat you in tug of war. " he winks, what a loser. @Abi (Vivi/Fritz)

Mimi Today at 4:51 PM

"I cannot believe than man actually sweet talked the bear. Maybe i should had given him my number."

Abi (Vivi/Fritz) Today at 4:51 PM

"Awesome!" Fritz said after witnessing the Dante and the Bear event. "You're like a bear whisperer -- tug of war is different than bear talking, I think, but I wouldn't playin' ya again!" He gave Dante an exaggerated wink in return. @Chuu (Aurelia/Dante/Cliff)

Bagel (Elli/Alisa) Today at 4:52 PM

Elli looked at the dagger. It was beautiful, though she had no idea if it was simply decorative or a deadly weapon. Either way she handled the item with the utmost care.

Nat (🌻 Georgia/Felicity 🌻) Today at 4:52 PM

Felicity shakes her head with a laugh. "I don't mind it. This mountain is unfamiliar territory to me, anyway, so the best I'd probably do is get us lost!" She smiles. "But I've got some great company, so it hasn't been a bad experience at all. Should we head to the next area?" @Cece (🌻 Laney/Fodder Boi 🌻)

Mimi Today at 4:52 PM

"Hey Levi, what does...the Zephyr blade look like anyway? Is it an ambiguous object? Like could it be anything?"

"I think people could show us what they got at least though--"

"I wanna know what people found!"

So needy, Mimi was.

Bagel (Elli/Alisa) Today at 4:55 PM

... Wait a minute. The treasure they were looking for was the zef-something blade! Could this be it? Elli quickly turned on her heel ready to run--or briskly walk, she was holding a blade after all--back to the mountain top!

Aurelia shows the judges her hat, the flower, the wooden flute. "...how about these?"

Bagel (Elli/Alisa) Today at 6:19 PM

Elli nodded solemnly. "I think we was following me earlier, too..." @Annie (Mikhail/Chase/Claire)

Mimi Today at 6:20 PM

Mimi examines the flute and the otherstuff. "Cute hat!"

Leviathan Today at 6:20 PM

"Those are very beautiful. The flute crafted quite well, but not the Zephyr Blade."

Chuu (Aurelia/Dante/Cliff) Today at 6:20 PM

"Thanks anyway."Guess I have to pick up the flute.

Leo (Hinata) Today at 6:21 PM

Hinata chills out by himself on a rock due to his twisted ankle. He might not have won a boat, but hey, he got a cool pinwheel and a carved trinket.  Success.

Leviathan Today at 6:21 PM

"And that pottery shard--" Levi's eyes skimmed it over for a second-- "That's not it either, unfortunately."

Bagel (Elli/Alisa) Today at 6:21 PM

Elli stares wistfully at the flute. She knew how to play well. It would have been fun to find that.

Vi (Kamil/Sonia/Yuzuki) Today at 6:22 PM

Yuzuki shows them the flower clip, the wind chimes, and the big wheel. :0

Annie (Mikhail/Chase/Claire) Today at 6:22 PM

Mikhail pocketed it with a smile. "Sounds like a plan then. It's quite alright." He retreated back to the party, waving at Hinata and Aurelia with the pinwheel between his fingers.

Max (Ella) Today at 6:23 PM

Still soaking wet, Ella walks over to the judges with the weird stick in hand. "I found this when I fell in the pond...It's a weird looking stick...Weirder looking than most sticks!"

Chuu (Aurelia/Dante/Cliff) Today at 6:23 PM

Cliff brings a jar of bugs, a cursed doll, and the lint in his pocket. Oh. The girl next to him brought a stick. Huh. Well someone else brought underwear.

Annie (Mikhail/Chase/Claire) Today at 6:23 PM

Claire gasped. "Oh gosh you're soaking wet! Are you alright?" The poor girl! Jumped in the river for a stick.

Abi (Vivi/Fritz) Today at 6:23 PM

"Ella!" He ran over to her. "Are you okay? I mean -- that looked like fun, but --" He watched the judges for their reaction to the stick. @Max (Ella)

Nat (🌻 Georgia/Felicity 🌻) Today at 6:24 PM

The only thing Georgia had managed to find was her prince charming a frog, but since she let it go, she had nothing to show for her efforts.

Mimi Today at 6:24 PM

Mimi stares at the stick. "theres no way that could be it"

Tatsumaki Today at 6:24 PM

| Mimi leveled up!

Leviathan Today at 6:24 PM

"AND WE HAVE A WINNER!" Levi shouts to the crowd.

He picks up the stick and shows it to everyone, "Behold, the Zephyr Blade! The thing of legend!"

Mimi Today at 6:24 PM

"WHAT"

Max (Ella) Today at 6:24 PM

Ella smiled at her friend. "Fritz-HUH?!"

Annie (Mikhail/Chase/Claire) Today at 6:24 PM

"Pardon?" Mikhail coughed.

Leo (Hinata) Today at 6:24 PM

"WHAT?" Hinata almost has a heart attack.

Chuu (Aurelia/Dante/Cliff) Today at 6:24 PM

"....A stick?"

Nat (🌻 Georgia/Felicity 🌻) Today at 6:24 PM

"A stick!?" Georgia shrieks.

Annie (Mikhail/Chase/Claire) Today at 6:25 PM

Claire laughed out loud. "OF COURSE IT WAS THE STICK."

Nat (🌻 Georgia/Felicity 🌻) Today at 6:25 PM

"Yay, good for you~!" Felicity cheers.

Abi (Vivi/Fritz) Today at 6:25 PM

"Wow!! Congrats, Ella!" He was filled with joy; his friend had won. He was only a little jealous, but he at least found this diary he can use.

Cece (🌻 Laney/Fodder Boi 🌻) Today at 6:25 PM

"A-A stick...?" Laney lets out an awkward chuckle. Well, one man's trash is another's.... Zephyr Blade, right?

Leviathan Today at 6:25 PM

"Not just any stick! Don't let your eyes deceive you! This blade has been forged thousands of years ago and has struck down many foes of the gods."

Vi (Kamil/Sonia/Yuzuki) Today at 6:25 PM

Yuzuki gasps. "That's an interesting turn of events. Congratulations!"

Chuu (Aurelia/Dante/Cliff) Today at 6:25 PM

Dante felt like we all been duped. "...We... we have been searching for a stick?" Then again, the girl with the pigtails just ziplined to the top miraculously. "...Congratulations!

Mimi Today at 6:26 PM

Mimi was shook, what kind of game was this.

Cece (🌻 Laney/Fodder Boi 🌻) Today at 6:26 PM

Neil calls bs on this damn stick. Good thing he didn't participate in this dumb game hmph

Bagel (Elli/Alisa) Today at 6:26 PM

"Ella!" Elli said animatedly, "Congratulations!"

Vi (Kamil/Sonia/Yuzuki) Today at 6:26 PM

Sonia just looked around. "Hey... Is there a trash can nearby so I can throw this empty bag of chips away...?"

Mimi Today at 6:26 PM

Mimi then regains her composure. "Congratulations!! And there you have it, the Zephyr blade?!"

Nat (🌻 Georgia/Felicity 🌻) Today at 6:26 PM

"Riiiiiight," Georgia can't help but scoff at the explanation. All of this... for a stick. Still though, it had been fun, and she was always a good sport, so she claps for the winner. "Congrats!" She cheers.

Max (Ella) Today at 6:27 PM

Ella stood there surprised for a moment. Maybe it was luck that she tripped and fell into the pond. "Aha...Thank you everyone!" She flashed a cheesy smile.

Chuu (Aurelia/Dante/Cliff) Today at 6:27 PM

Dante too, shared the sentiment of trying to find the trashcan. "...yeah- I found this underwear in a spring and....it isn't mine."

Leo (Hinata) Today at 6:27 PM

Always quick to recover, Hinata clapped his hands together and laughed. He should've expected something like this. "Well, hey— congrats! What are ya gonna do with your new boat?"

Leviathan Today at 6:27 PM

"You, dear child, are now the proud owner of a fishing boat and a lantern with eternal flame! Everyone else gets hooded lanterns as well. Although not enchanted."

"... Magic is expensive."

Chuu (Aurelia/Dante/Cliff) Today at 6:28 PM

Aurelia blinked to herself, surprised that the object they were looking for was a stick. "...Well, expect the unexpected I guess."

Dante looks at Ella. "Nice boat! I love boats!"

Nat (🌻 Georgia/Felicity 🌻) Today at 6:30 PM

Even if she didn't win (or find much of anything, really), Felicity was still glad for the experience. She got to meet the sweetest girl, and had a lot of fun. Smiling, she cheers for the winner.
"Congratulations~!"

Chuu (Aurelia/Dante/Cliff) Today at 6:31 PM

Cliff, handing the doll to Hinata. "Here, you can have it....like I said. Hope your sister likes it." Then he cracked open the top and released some insects out the bottle. Oh. They were butterflies. How nice.

@Leo (Hinata)

Leviathan Today at 6:31 PM

"That's all there is folks! Thanks again for participating and don't forget tonight is the fireworks show. Make sure to find a good spot and good company!"

Levi starts heading down the mountain with his new prized possession tucked under his arm. He calls over his shoulder, "Coming, Mimi?"

Mimi Today at 6:31 PM

"Coming!" she was still in shock over the prize. "I think i'll zipline down to town, which town should I go to? I hear both have good food!"

Vi (Kamil/Sonia/Yuzuki) Today at 6:32 PM

Yuzuki dusts the flower clip off and puts it in his hair. Too bad he didn't have a mirror. He didn't know if it looked good on him.

Abi (Vivi/Fritz) Today at 6:32 PM

"Oh, Ella!" Fritz whipped out the diary he found. "You gotta read this! It's super weird! I also found this letter in a bottle and this statue of a dog!!" He vibrated with excitement, he loved sharing with his friends. @Max (Ella)

Cece (🌻 Laney/Fodder Boi 🌻) Today at 6:32 PM

Laney goes to find Georgia and once she does, she wraps both her arms around her from behind with a giggle. "Gigi!" She exclaims. "We're both losers, I guess huh?"

Neil chuckles to himself getting the feeling that Georgia was being called a loser, as she should, right about now.

@Nat (🌻 Georgia/Felicity 🌻)

LeviathanToday at 6:33 PM

"Let's go to Konohana. I hear they have the best tea there."

Annie (Mikhail/Chase/Claire) Today at 6:33 PM

Mikhail marveled at the butterflies that popped out of the man's jar. "Well, I know Mr. Leviathan got his Zephyr Blade, but I suppose we all got ours." Mikhail waved his pottery shard in the air for a second.

Max (Ella) Today at 6:33 PM

While she was excited about winning, she felt a little bad for everyone who was searching long and hard for the Zephyr Blade. It was pure luck that she found it. She shook off the thoughts and turned to Fritz. "Dog statue!! That's so cool! Let's read it over a meal? Yeah?" Ella turned to Elli, her eyes sparkling. "Want to join us Elli?"

@Abigail @Bagel

MimiToday at 6:34 PM

"Yeah, but I hear there is a bakery in bluebell?"

Bagel (Elli/Alisa) Today at 6:34 PM

Alisa was trying to make her way back up the mountain but she'd been so horribly lost. It's been hours since the start of the treasure hunt. But as she walks along a semi-familiar path she spots a familiar man dressed in purple.

She gasps, "Cam?" and rushes to his side. He looked pretty beat up. "Are you all right??" @Vi (Kamil/Sonia/Yuzuki)

Chuu (Aurelia/Dante/Cliff) Today at 6:35 PM

Dante talks over towards Ella and Fritz. At least Fritz was his buddy-- oh look! there's the brunette from eariler too! What an angel. "Oh hey! Mind if I tag along? 🤔"

Leo (Hinata) Today at 6:35 PM

"Ooh- thanks!" he grinned and took the doll, inspecting it over and wondering if there were any repairs he could make to... remedy how creepy it is. Hinata didn't have the best eye for this kind of thing... Yuzuki would know just how to fix it up! Hinata would ask him about it later. "She loves things like this... are ya sure you don't wanna keep it and give it to anybody else, though? Might make a cute gift on a date or somethin'" @Chuu (Aurelia/Dante/Cliff)

Cece (🌻 Laney/Fodder Boi 🌻) Today at 6:35 PM

Laney overhears some people talking and she butts in the conversation. "Go to the bakery! I make the best desserts~" Nothing wrong with a shameless self-promo.

@Mimi i guess

Bagel (Elli/Alisa) Today at 6:35 PM

"Sure!" Elli said with a grand smile, turning to Claire. "If you want to come?" @Max (Ella) @Annie (Mikhail/Chase/Claire) @Abigail

Annie (Mikhail/Chase/Claire) Today at 6:35 PM

"Oh, I hear the tea at Yun's is lovely...! But have you heard that Howard's Cafe and Bakery in Bluebell is awfully swell too?" Mikhail piped up to Levi and Mimi. @Leviathan @Mimi

Leviathan Today at 6:35 PM

"If you already had a place you wanted to go you should have said so from the start." He sighs.

Chuu (Aurelia/Dante/Cliff) Today at 6:37 PM

"D-date? Hah- I don't go on any d-dates!" Cliff stammered, just handing the doll. "You can have it. If I...had a sister, I'd give her something as well. It's like a memento, I suppose." He looks away, wondering what berries to pick for dinner tonight.

@Leo (Hinata)

Annie (Mikhail/Chase/Claire) Today at 6:37 PM

"Heck yeah! I'm down!" Claire gathered her wits and gestured to the winner of the contest too.
"Oh, do you want to join us?" @Bagel (Elli/Alisa) @Max (Ella)

Vi (Kamil/Sonia/Yuzuki) Today at 6:38 PM

Kamil had tried twice to zipline to wherever the people were. Today he had tried to push himself to do something with a crowd of people that weren't his best friends... And it honestly didn't turn out very well.

He was lying down on the floor, staring at the sky when a face popped into view. Ah, it was Alisa.

"Oh. Relatively worse than what I started the day with. My forehead is hurting pretty bad," he responded, sighing a bit. Maybe he shouldn't have gone out today?
@Bagel (Elli/Alisa)

Chuu (Aurelia/Dante/Cliff) Today at 6:39 PM

Aurelia decides maybe she should take this as a cue to head on out. Perhaps she could visit Alisa sometime. Or just enjoy the woods. It was getting rather crowded over here already. Or ...she could just take a stop to the goddess pond and pray while nobody is looking.

Abi (Vivi/Fritz) Today at 6:40 PM

"A meal sounds good! I'm starvin' from all that walkin' up and down the mountain." Fritz grinned, leaning back with his arms behind his head. "Oh! Meet my new friend, Ella." Fritz gestured to Dante. "He's a bear whisperer and I beat him at tug of war." @Chuu (Aurelia/Dante/Cliff) @Max (Ella)

Mimi Today at 6:41 PM

Mimi decides to go with Konohana, as something called tatsu spoke into her brain to make the choice. "Let's take the zipline!"

Nat (🌻 Georgia/Felicity 🌻) Today at 6:41 PM

When she feels a pair of arms encircling her waist from behind, she chuckles, already familiar with the feel and scent of the girl behind her. So when she speaks, Georgia isn't at all surprised to see Laney's face over her shoulder. "Heh, yeah. Guess we are, huh? But y'know, I don't feel much like a loser now that you're here."

Before she could say anything else, Laney turns to advertise for her bakery, and Georgia chuckles. Typical Laney, always self advertising. @Cece (🌻 Laney/Fodder Boi 🌻)

Mimi Today at 6:41 PM

Of course, Mimi makes it down the mountain with ease.

"suckerrrrrrrrrrrrs"

Leviathan Today at 6:41 PM

"So? What's it going to be? Tea in Konohana? Bluebell?" He glances over at Mimi, already zipping down. "Oh."

"Zipline it is, then." He shrugged.

Bella (Gale/Henri) Today at 6:46 PM

He...Doesn't know what he's walked into, actually.

Is that Vivi? He decides to stand close to her, but at a safe distance.

He wants to keep all his limbs if she's in a bad mood.

@Abi (Vivi/Fritz)

RuneSeasonsAdmin Today at 6:47 PM

"Or more, precisely- zip liner insurance?" @Cece (🌻 Laney/Fodder Boi 🌻)

Cece (🌻 Laney/Fodder Boi 🌻) Today at 6:47 PM

"I don't even have a car!!" She squeals back. Why was she talking to a gecko!?

@RuneSeasonsAdmin

Nat (🌻 Georgia/Felicity 🌻) Today at 6:47 PM

"What the hell." Georgia just. Couldn't. Right now. What was happening.

Mimi Today at 6:48 PM

Mimi and Levi head off to Konohana and had a lovely dinner at the tea house. Hooray!

Cece (🌻 Laney/Fodder Boi 🌻) Today at 6:48 PM

"Gigi... Language...." Laney sighs as she scolds her friend. @Nat (🌻 Georgia/Felicity 🌻) 🙄

Nat (🌻 Georgia/Felicity 🌻) Today at 6:49 PM

"Oh, s-sorry..." She hangs her head in shame. @Cece (🌻 Laney/Fodder Boi 🌻)

Abi (Vivi/Fritz) Today at 6:49 PM

"Oh, it's you. Great time to finally show up, you've missed everything." Vivi's in a sour mood, just because the blade was in the Goddess pond. She would've never thought to look there... she was also following Mikhail at first. "I intimidated some bees and found this crystal." Vivi held the it out for Gale to see. @Bella (Gale/Henri)

Cece (🌻 Laney/Fodder Boi 🌻) Today at 6:49 PM

"It's alright. I know it was a spur in the moment kind of thing." She smiles and gives her friend a reassuring hug. @Nat (🌻 Georgia/Felicity 🌻)

RuneSeasonsAdminToday at 6:50 PM

The gecko decides to jump out of the blonde's hands and decides to find someone who wants to save 15 % off of zip liner insurance. Probably someone who kept falling down the mountain. Off to bluebell, he supposed!

Nat (🌻 Georgia/Felicity 🌻) Today at 6:50 PM

Georgia stares after the freaky gecko because did that thing really just talk.

Bella (Gale/Henri) Today at 6:51 PM

"...You...fought...a bee...."

He's suddenly looking very much like a tired, incredulous kindergarten teacher. He's only missing an apron and a sense of responsibility at this point.

"It could be...worse....Imagine if it was...talking reptiles..."

@Abi (Vivi/Fritz)

Cece (🌻 Laney/Fodder Boi 🌻) Today at 6:51 PM

Neil suddenly appears for the talking gecko. He could use insurance.

Nat (🌻 Georgia/Felicity 🌻) Today at 6:52 PM

She sighs. "You know what? I'm tired. Let's just... get out of here, alright? Grab a bite to eat or something." @Cece (🌻 Laney/Fodder Boi 🌻)

Cece (🌻 Laney/Fodder Boi 🌻) Today at 6:52 PM

"Yeah!~ Let's go grab food~" Laney nods and takes a hold of Georgia's hand to lead the way.

@Nat (🌻 Georgia/Felicity 🌻)

Abi (Vivi/Fritz) Today at 6:55 PM

"No, I didn't fight a bee. I glared at it and it went away, you know as bees do." She pouted. "Look at my crystal! What do you think?" She asked, unwilling to acknowledge the talking gecko thing.

"I also have this potion of invisibility, but I could've just made that myself!" probably @Bella (Gale/Henri)

Chuu (Aurelia/Dante/Cliff) Today at 6:55 PM

Aurelia quietly stays behind and prays once everyone has left the area- wondering what to have for dinner.

Annie (Mikhail/Chase/Claire) Today at 6:56 PM

Mikhail popped up behind her, like a ghost.

Chuu (Aurelia/Dante/Cliff) Today at 6:56 PM

Dante was pretty elated that he was going to hang out with a crowd- and claps his hands together. "Wonderful!~ I hope we all can get along, friends!" He spoke in such a sing song manner. @Max (Ella) @Abi (Vivi/Fritz) @Annie (Mikhail/Chase/Claire) @Bagel (Elli/Alisa) Aurelia nearly hits him for scaring the lights out of her. @Annie (Mikhail/Chase/Claire)

Annie (Mikhail/Chase/Claire) Today at 6:58 PM

Bella (Gale/Henri) Today at 6:59 PM

"....Ah...Yes, that's...Not a winning sort of battle, right...?"

...Did he imply that she, a powerful witch would lose to a bee? Well, he's never had good manners.

"I'm looking...My eyes are on it as we speak."

It actually was beautiful- he'd admit that.

"May I...Stick with you?"

@Abi (Vivi/Fritz)

Cece (🌻 Laney/Fodder Boi 🌻) Today at 6:59 PM

The edgelord version of Mikhail pops up, like a ghost and says to Mikhail, "I'm you, but edgier," before vanishing away. @Annie (Mikhail/Chase/Claire) lol

Chuu (Aurelia/Dante/Cliff) Today at 7:02 PM

Aurelia opened her mouth to speak, closed it. Opened it again. Closed it- with a finger up in the air just confused at the thing she just witnessed. " I -"

Annie (Mikhail/Chase/Claire) Today at 7:03 PM

Mikhail snapped his fingers in front of her face. "What? Did you see something?" @Chuu (Aurelia/Dante/Cliff)

Chuu (Aurelia/Dante/Cliff) Today at 7:04 PM

She rapidly blinks, trying to make sense of things. They say, being around mythical areas you tend to see strange things. "It's....nothing. S..sorry about that." @Annie (Mikhail/Chase/Claire)

Leo (Hinata) Today at 7:06 PM

"Hey, don't worry about it! I'll pass along the info that you were kind enough to give this to my sister, and I'll let you know what she says!" Hinata laughed it off. "What do ya say we head down the mountain path together and get somethin' to eat? And, uh... maybe find someone who can tape up my ankle?" @Chuu (Aurelia/Dante/Cliff)

Annie (Mikhail/Chase/Claire) Today at 7:08 PM

"Is that so? Shall we head off then?" He smiled, pulling out a coin to flip.

Chuu (Aurelia/Dante/Cliff) Today at 7:08 PM

Chuu (Aurelia/Dante/Cliff) Today at 7:13 PM

She wondered if she should had went out with the edgelord, instead. For she was feeling embarrassed by it all. She also wondered if that Hinata guy was alright, he seemed to be surrounded with friends...which was nice. "....You're paying." Aurelia puts her hands in her pockets, and starts to walk down the mountain. @Annie (Mikhail/Chase/Claire)

Max (Ella) Today at 7:13 PM

"Dan! Hooray! The more the merrier!" Ella cheered as the group grew to five. She clapped her hands and smiled, unaware of Elli's friend's uneasy towards Dan. "Hmmm. Where should we eat? I hear Bluebell has a really nice bakery and Konohana has a nice teahouse."

He bows courteously, gesturing down the mountain. "Why, of course. Now-- After you."

He would probably try and greet everyone else at the fireworks festival or the bonfire later tonight. But for the time being, a break was in order. So, off they went. @Chuu (Aurelia/Dante/Cliff)

Day 3 - Fireworks

Chuu (Aurelia/Dante/Cliff)Last Monday at 5:13 PM

Fireworks! Hooray!

This is for if anyone wants to RP out a scenario of watching fireworks for the Fireside Festival. We'll have this open for the next few days, but let's give you an idea of what's going on!

The fireworks will be on top of the mountains between Bluebell and Konohana

Lotsa colorful lights and decadent treats from nearby stalls- We swear the mayors and townsfolk really want you to be impressed with their town!

People are free to just enjoy the scenery, or lay down over a blanket and watch the magic

Free sparklers for everyone to enjoy!

@everyone

Bagel (Elli/Alisa)Last Monday at 5:20 PM

Elli had a blanket in her arms while she looked around the summit for a good spot to watch the fireworks. It was a little odd to be by herself--she wished Granny Ellen could have been here to see them--but she managed her best throughout the weekend. Thankfully she knew a couple people who came out, too. But with the dimming light she couldn't really see anyone she recognized.

She picked a spot that looked most comfy. No rocks under her blanket! And started to lay the blanket on the ground.

Chuu (Aurelia/Dante/Cliff)Last Monday at 5:24 PM

Cliff figured might as well take the chance to enjoy fireworks as he doesn't get much of an opportunity to see them despite his world travels. He had a rather good time at the festival itself so far, even though the vagrant himself was shook to throw so many people into the mud in one go.

He didn't mean to do that.

Walking around, the man looks over the fence up on top of the...cliff. Haha.

Aphelion (Lest/Woofio/Candace)Last Monday at 5:25 PM

Tail is limp, head hangs miserably as arms are secured behind his back. Paws are cuffed. It is the last thing that they expected to happen today, but they suppose it's only fair. You can only fall out of a tree and jump around so many times before you're considered an endangerment to the whole of the festival. "Boof." Maybe it's their fault for thinking that the forest needed such a protector as they. Or maybe, it was just their fault for accidentally lighting a bush on fire when he forgot he was holding a sparkler directly to it. Cue sad whines as he remains seated and bound to a tree, dejected.

Chuu (Aurelia/Dante/Cliff)Last Monday at 5:29 PM

Dante was enjoying as many free samples he could get his grimy paws on. There was Takoyaki.... random herbal teas... some pastries...fried chicken...hot milk. (Who the hell serves hot milk in the summer?) Chewing on the last of his kabob stick, his eyes noticed a familiar woman from the treasure hunt.

Maybe he shouldn't had approached her, but he felt like he outta apologize for...creeping her out. As that wasn't his intention. Walking over, he does a little wave.

"Hello Missus! Mind if we have a quick chat?"

@Bagel (Elli/Alisa)

Cliff was going to become busy lamenting to himself when he noticed a bright light behind him.
Yikes

Quickly, he did what he could to try to do what he can to put out the fire- by removing his shirt to slap it over the bush. It's gotta do something, right? Of course, he was kind of concerned hearing an....animal whimpering? His head tried to quickly glance around to where the source was coming from....

???

...What the?!?!

Well, that was new.

Unsure if the thing spoke English or not, Cliff made an attempt while finishing removing the flames while other people came to rid of the fire.

Walking over to the creature chained up on a tree, Cliff speaks up to them.

"Are you....okay?! Do you...need help?" Maybe they were injured? Hell if he know.

@Aphelion (Lest/Woofio/Candace)(edited)

Aphelion (Lest/Woofio/Candace)Last Monday at 5:44 PM

Sad dog with sad dog plans. Woofio can only watch as the embers die out, the dog man watching miserably. Ah, a kind soul! At last, there's hope! Such kindness, he thinks, as he fidgets against the rope.

Then again, he kind of deserves it for what he caused. It was by ACCIDENT, but still. Woofio knows better. Maybe they'd revoke his spokesman privileges to the forest!

For years, he told people: don't get lit, but stay fit to stay warm during those cold camping nights.

Woofio lifts their head still, shaking their head no. "GOLLY NO. I accidentally started that there fire, so I'm not allowed to move from this very spot. It's the law!"

Elli glanced up at the close proximity of the voice. Were they talking to her? But as she did she felt a sense of dread wash over her as a cold chill snuck up her spine. It was the guy from the treasure hunt. The one who yelled at the female emcee and then followed her around for a while.

What was he doing here?

"Um..." Elli looked around quickly for a familiar face--a lifeline--but found none. "...Sure." She stood up straight, her posture defensive and ready to bolt if needed.

So defensive. Like a frightened kitty cat.

Sigh, ...you really gotta be more mindful Dante.

Alas, even if chances are this little chat doesn't bode well for him. (And the chances of losing a chance with such a beautiful lady. ) Mama and Papa had always told the drifter that he should at least know how to treat a lady and own up to his mistakes.

Usually, he never gets the chance to make up for them, but its best to not let an opportunity be wasted.

"Thank you. I ...really appreciate it." His voice was awfully genuine in that moment, as usually the man was used to not having the chance to even speak. (Sometimes, some ladies start attacking him with pots and pans....yeesh.)

"I just wanted toapologize. For...well- making you feel uneasy. That wasn't actually my intent at all, ma'dam! I was captivated by your beauty along my walk, but then realized we both were going the same way, haha! So- I tried to not cross paths afterwards! Didn't want...to make a lady feel unsafe, ya know?"

Though he was sure as the goddess makes rain from tears, that he messed up. Perhaps he should find that nun again and confess. Perhaps not.

HUH?!

It talked. It...actually, really...talked. Cliff wished he wasn't one to be so easily spooked but he couldn't help but flinch the moment it said something. Take deep breaths. Keep your cool, buddy. The vagrant let out a quick sigh to regain some level of composure to make sense of this accidental arsonist in a fur suit. Goddess, that probably gave some children nightmares.

Of course, you really shouldn't outta judge someone by their cover.

After a pregnant pause of digesting this....situation. Cliff speaks up. "I'msorry about that. I'm sure they may let you go on good behavior perhaps?"

Oh that was no good in cheering somebody up.

"....Do you need water? That...suit looks awfully warm." Unlike his chest, which he was shirtless. And cold.

He hears something.

A sort of heary hear that only the brightest and most intelligent hear. Such as himself, of course, who hears all and knows all. It's a fool's game, they think, to hide anything from them. It is with disbelief that they look up, head snapping in the direction of a stranger by a dog and a gently torched bush.

HE.

It is with that singular thought that Lest throws himself to his feet, cupping hands around mouth as he shrieks — emboldened only when he wrests his own shirt off after dropping his cape.

"PUT A SHIRT ON YOU HIPPIE. YOU'RE GOING TO POKE SOMEONE'S EYES OUT."

A pause. Oh no. Hand claps over mouth and Lest takes a step backward. Oh no, he's hot.

Cliff jolts up by the sound of someone shouting to put his shirt back on. Whoops. Well, that was embarrassing- his shirt was only off to help put out a fire--- nonetheless, the vagrant glanced at his scorched shirt and puts it back on. "S-sorry!" He calls out, to whomever that stranger was...

Then he continues to apologize to the fur suit for also, possibly scarring them.

Elli listened to the man speak, letting him say his piece without interrupting. She keenly watched his expression, trying her best to get a read on him. While their previous encounters made her impression of him rather blasé to others the sincerity in his voice started to contradict that.

To be honest he hadn't done anything really wrong per se albeit coming off a bit abrasive. But perhaps she'd been too quick to judge. Still, she felt it was best to keep him at arms reach for now.

After a long moments pause she finally spoke, "I forgive you." After all he'd behaved himself throughout the dinner had invited them to. Perhaps they simply got off on the wrong foot.

"... So," Elli said after a moment, not really sure where to go from there. "Enjoy the festival?" To be fair she didn't partake in much small talk with him before now, so she saw it as a valid ice breaker.

Max (Ella) Last Monday at 7:47 PM

Ella was pleased by the events that transpired this weekend. From a nice chat with a woman about music to winning the treasure hunt and having dinner with friends, everything played out nicely so far. And with the upcoming firework show, things were only going to get better.

She had seated herself on a blanket with her bag full of snacks, mainly sweets, beside her. There was nothing better than enjoying any sort of show with your favourite sweets. If she could find some company to join her, then things would become really enjoyable.

Abi (Vivi/Fritz) Last Wednesday at 6:07 AM

As eventful and entertaining the treasure hunt was, Vivi was still disappointed she didn't win. She had no use for a boat, and she could probably just enchant a lantern herself, but that's not the point. She wanted to win. She wouldn't dwell on it though; there would be other opportunities.

She picked out a spot she thought would be perfect for firework viewing. She could see others were sitting on blankets, but oh well, she didn't have a blanket. The grass was better than a blanket anyway. Vivi made herself comfortable on the grass. She beckoned to her companion to take a seat next to her.

"You have a lot to catch up on -- did you get any good snacks?" She had the taste for something sweet, and she had trusted him (a mistake?) to retrieve food from the stalls.

Julia (Emiko) Last Thursday at 10:06 PM

Emiko had only ever viewed fireworks with her family--and they were a sight to behold. Probably one of the only memories she had of the outside world that stuck out to her, and made the world beyond her shrine seem much more appealing.

But, she hadn't come prepared, and therefore had no idea where to sit. Looking around, she spotted a girl with a blanket and some snacks. Emiko didn't want to impose, but perhaps she wouldn't mind a bit of company. "Excuse me, is anyone sitting here...?" @Max (Ella)
