

When the aging king of a Magical Kingdom (England) decides to split his empire between his three daughters, Cinderella, Belle, and the Snow Queen-who-in-no-way-resembles-a-copyrighted-character, terrible tragedy ensues.

Terrible, hilarious tragedy. Combining the gut-wrenching plot twists of the popular television series and the soul-numbing despair of Shakespearean tragedy, this adaptation of King Lear will leave you dying with laughter as the body count mounts.

When you play the Game of Tiaras, you win or you die.

Game of Tiaras Director's Note

It is very possible this play will not be like one you have seen before. It reminds me a great deal of more modern television shows that don't take themselves so seriously. So in that vein, we decided that our playbill should also not fit the norm!

We are thrilled you have decided to join us for this production! It's extremely funny and sometimes a catch and you miss it line that makes you giggle when you think about it later. You don't have to know the sisters well, Game of Thrones, or even King Lear well, or at all to enjoy the play. In truth, the play comes down to a simple, (or not so simple), case of sibling rivalry.

The cast has put in over 50 hours of practice and rehearsal time with me, not to mention, the hours they have spent at home or in their guided studies working on their lines.

As an artist I always want any production I do to be eye candy. While there are minimal sets to this play, there are several props and important costuming. The cast agreed with me and in total, we have nearly 300 hours of set, costume and prop work. We hope you enjoy what you see, because we think it will help transport you into this crazy tale of sisters.

Sit back and enjoy the fun, and make sure to let the cast know if you enjoyed their performance. They have put their hearts and soul into this and deserve to get all the kudos!

Best,

Katie Miller
