Cab Fit — Privacy Policy
Effective August 4, 2026

Cab Fit runs on your device. There's no account, and nothing you enter is uploaded.

No sign-up, no personal data. There's no registration, login, or profile. Cab Fit doesn't ask for your name, email, or any identifier to work.

Your kitchen projects stay local. Your runs, wall dimensions, cabinet layouts, appliance slots, work-triangle checks, spec and order sheets, cost estimates, photos, and reports are all stored on your device. None of it is sent to us or to any third party, and we run no server that receives it.

Photos. Photos of your kitchen walls and any fit or defect notes are saved locally with your project and are never uploaded.

No tracking, no advertising, no analytics. This app contains no advertising networks and no third-party analytics or tracking SDKs.

Local notifications. Reminders — confirm appliance sizes, send the fronts order, check the sockets behind the units — are scheduled and delivered by your device alone.

Children. Cab Fit is a tool for planning kitchens and is not directed to children. It collects no personal information from anyone.

Sharing is something you do. When you export a run as a PDF or a spec sheet, you choose where it goes through your device's own share sheet. Cab Fit doesn't send it anywhere on its own.

Deleting your data. Your projects are removed when you delete the app. Export a PDF first if you want to keep a record for a client or a supplier.

Changes. If a future version adds any data collection, this policy and the App Store privacy labels will be updated to describe it accurately before that version ships.
