

All We Need

Some may not understand how we think and what we do,
the gratitude we would show if we could find you.

It takes a special kind of person to relate and indulge;
some of us are empty, drained, and navigate off of impulse.

We are not perfect and that's okay;
grace, time, and patience is something we need every day.

Support in those moments go a long way,
even on those days where you may not know what to say.

We all lack in areas and the support we need,
can be given from adults to teens indeed.

Be present, show up, right our wrongs;
that's all we need to grow and press on.

Teach us,

Encourage us,

Engagement is the ultimate goal

Nurturing, attention, and a voice makes us whole.

How else can we say we appreciate your effort and time?

The answer is easy, look at how we embrace your presence through our corresponding demeanor and mind.