INTRODUCTION [Times New Roman, 12, bold]

The introduction should provide a background of the activities in a succinct, clear, and concise manner. It should include an introduction to community service activities, related topics, and issues, identifying the research problem with a focus on the research gap, along with the conceptual framework. Emphasize the significance of the community service contributions and the objectives of the activity.

METHOD [Times New Roman, 12, bold]

The method section should include the location and sequence of activities. If applicable, list the materials and tools used during the community service, the method of implementation, data collection methods, and data processing and analysis. It can also describe how the data were obtained and the analytical techniques used.

RESULTS AND DISCUSSION [Times New Roman, 12, bold]

This section presents the outcomes of the community service, explaining the findings, outputs, and results from pre-tests, post-tests, statistics, surveys, or analysis. The explanation of results should compare with previous research or literature studies. The discussion may also include limitations and recommendations for future community service activities. Results may be accompanied by tables, graphs, figures, and/or diagrams that should be referenced in the article. The discussion section should describe the implementation, challenges faced, impacts, and efforts for sustaining the results of the service.

To ensure the quality and clarity of your submissions, we kindly request all authors to adhere to the following standards regarding images and tables. All images included in your manuscript must have a minimum resolution of 600 dpi (dots per inch) to maintain clear and professional visual quality suitable for publication. Low-resolution images may compromise the readability and appearance of your article and could lead to revision requests.

In addition, every table and figure included in your manuscript must be explicitly discussed in the discussion section of your article. It is essential to explain the relevance of the data they present and how it connects to your study's findings. Avoid including tables or figures without integrating them into the narrative. Each table or figure should also be referenced within the text, using phrases such as "As shown in Table 1..." or "Figure 2 illustrates..." to guide readers and ensure a seamless flow of information.

By meeting these requirements, you contribute to maintaining the high standards of Warta Pengabdian Andalas and ensure that your article effectively communicates its findings. Submissions that do not follow these guidelines may be returned for revisions or rejected during the review process. For further clarification, please do not hesitate to contact the editorial team.

CONCLUSION [Times New Roman, 12, bold]

This section should summarize the significance of the activity results, the answers to the objectives, and suggestions or policy recommendations for the sustainability of the program. Subheadings or numbering are not allowed; the conclusion should be written in paragraph form and should avoid using statistical data.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS [Times New Roman, 12, bold]

If necessary, this section can be used to acknowledge funding sources and contract numbers for the activities carried out.

REFERENCES [Times New Roman, 12, bold]

The writing of manuscripts and citations referred to in this text is recommended to use reference management applications such as Mendeley and Zotero with the American Psychological Association (APA) 7th Edition citation style. The use of Mendeley or Zotero is mandatory. Examples of reference formatting should follow the Scientific Article Writing Format for Community Service.
