11:03:04 From Maria Jackson : Welcome back to my "lost" crew! :)
11:03:44 From Maria Jackson : I am glad we made our way to the student session. It was great to hear what they had to say.
11:03:55 From Sarah Kraemer : Yes! That really was great!
11:04:19 From Terri Fill : Thanks to the organizers. Always love the student panel!
11:04:20 From Anshul Agarwal : some cool ideas!
11:05:07 From Jason Lee : Agreed! Out of curiosity, how are the student panelists selected? Student panelists this time were pulled from Maria's Student Voice group. This is not always the case.
11:05:51 From Michele Quindipan : Listening to the kids is always one of my favorite parts. They are so thoughtful.
11:06:05 From Dani Howard : I agree!
11:06:08 From Carol Fong : I understand why many students want to choose their own breakout rooms- but I worry about the handful of students who don't have someone they can choose to be with. Thoughts? Answered below
11:06:45 From Michele Quindipan : Question: How do you handle letting kids back in to zoom if you are in breakout rooms with kids? Answered below
11:07:01 From Erin Levin : I did it as a google form so they didn't get to see anyone's responses. Then I made the groups myself. Some kids said they had no preference, so I just randomly assigned them.
11:07:17 From Miguel Alderete : have the email me
11:07:27 From Erin Levin : @Michele I just leave the room and let them in, then come back.
11:08:00 From Michele Quindipan : but I can't hear the doorbell ring...i'll have to keep email open
11:08:03 From Erin Levin : I just say "I'll BRB, gotta let someone back in!" And the kids understand.
11:08:08 From Carol Fong : Thanks Erin! I may try that next year.
11:08:31 From Michele Quindipan : yes, thanks Erin...will try that second semester
11:08:53 From Mr.Lester Leung : Link to the slides everyone!

11:09:08 From Erin Levin : @Michele don't you get a little red notification in the Zoom window when someone's waiting? Or a screen popup? I do miss them on occasion, and sometimes another student will tell me, haha!
11:09:46 From Jason Lee : I think if you're in a breakout room you don't get a notification or jingle or anything
11:09:55 From Liz Louie : To let them choose their own breakouts, I made an editable spreadsheet where students entered their name + school email (important for pre-assigning breakouts if they'll be in the same room for a period of time)
For students who didn't have a preference/anyone to sign up with, I asked them to send me a private chat and I assigned them with other students w/o a group
11:10:32 From Michele Quindipan : @ Erin -I see a notification when im in the main room but not in the breakout rooms
11:10:39 From Erin Levin : @Liz that's key, the spreadsheet with emails!
11:11:02 From Dani Howard : @Carol, I worry about the same thing, so I do "repeated" cohorts. So students meet with the same group for a unit. The first day with each other they play some sort of getting to know you game. That got a lot of good feedback from students. To make it easy to import emails to zoom you can have students fill out a Google Form that collects emails. I sent out a screencast explaining it to my lit/writ team—email me if you want it. Happy to send it to you!
11:11:56 From Carol Fong : @Dani - will do- thx
11:12:17 From Erin Levin : @Carol I can share the breakout rooms preference form, too, if you'd like.
